

Benjamín Solari Parravicini B-Series 2 of 3 English

The Total Structural Transformation

New Ideas

Atomic Danger

The Dual Nature of New Forces (nuclear)

The Arrival of a Perverse Idea

The Hamlet Dilemma

Artificial Planet Communications - Satellites

New Israel Old Shepherd

Gonorrhea Wreaks Havoc

Era of Contradiction - 666

Argentina's Malignant Constitution

Apocalyptic Visions of the 666

The Blind Man's Laughter

Argentina's 1966 Upheaval

The Mirror of the End

Words in Chaos

The Unraveling

Long Hair Short Hair

Sexual deviants - 66

Third Sex

The Sun Laughs Last

Artificial Hearts

Artificial Heart & Brain

Declining Births

Embryonic Destiny

Divine Decree on Birth and Destiny

Sterilization Prophecy

Prophecy of Male Sterilization

The End of Motherhood

The End of Pregnancy

Artificial Motherhood

Distortion of Origins and Contactless Cultivation

End of Original Sin

Arrival of the Space Age

The dog will be the first flyer

Prophecy of Flying Men in the 60s and 70s
Space Shipping
Astronaut Marriage
The Wandering Knight in Space
Intoxication and Death in Space
Space Sailors Discovering a New Planet
Aerial Navigators Meeting Cosmic Beings
Space Conquest and Global Challenges
Astral Attack on the Earthly Navigator
The Abduction of the Navigators by Ganymedes in Russia
The Conquest of Air - Easy then Hard
The Defeated Astronaut's Warning
Man's Ambition in Space Exploration
Man's Quest for Extraterrestrial Life
The Ordeal of the Space Man in the 70s
Arrival of Space Beings
The Observer from Ganymede
Arrival of Green and Blue Astral Beings
The Amphibian from Ganymede
Ganymede Will Speak
The Return of the Black Navigator from Neptune
Divine Navigators from Venus
The Wandering Ship from Venus
The Martian Navigator and the Medieval Lady
Arrival of the Martian
Pausing with Teresa of Jesus
The Division and Embrace of Extremes
World Neuralgia and the Beginning of the End
Temptation, Vice, Death, and Virtue in '66
The Beginning of Evil in '66
March Towards a Single Government
Discretion of the Reader
The American Golfer's Rule and Untimely Death (Kennedy)
The Beginning of the End and the Death of the Orchestra Man
Civil Rights and the New Black in '66
The North American Elephant and Black Water
The Yankee Millionaire Will Disappear
America - Vision without North

The Victim of the Bearded Ones in Cuba

Cuba - Troubled Marriage

The Antilles Covered in Wars and Shattered by Chaos

The East Will Rise by '65, Followed by Chaos

Japan Rises

The Total Structural Transformation

1

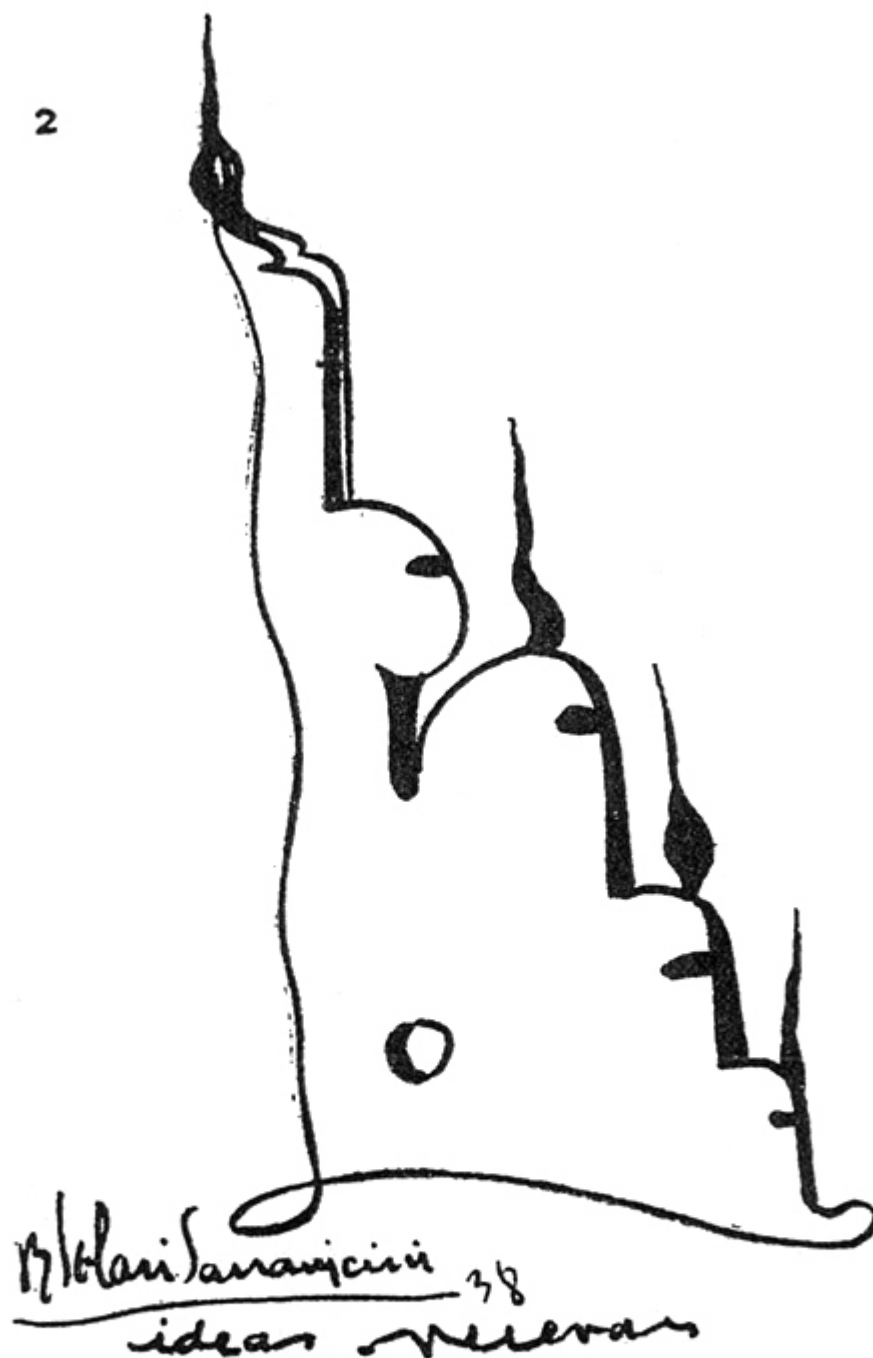

!Ojo! Llega ya el cambio total de
estructuras en el mundo

!Ojo! Llega ya el cambio total de
estructuras en el mundo

Beware! The total change of structures in the world is coming.

New Ideas

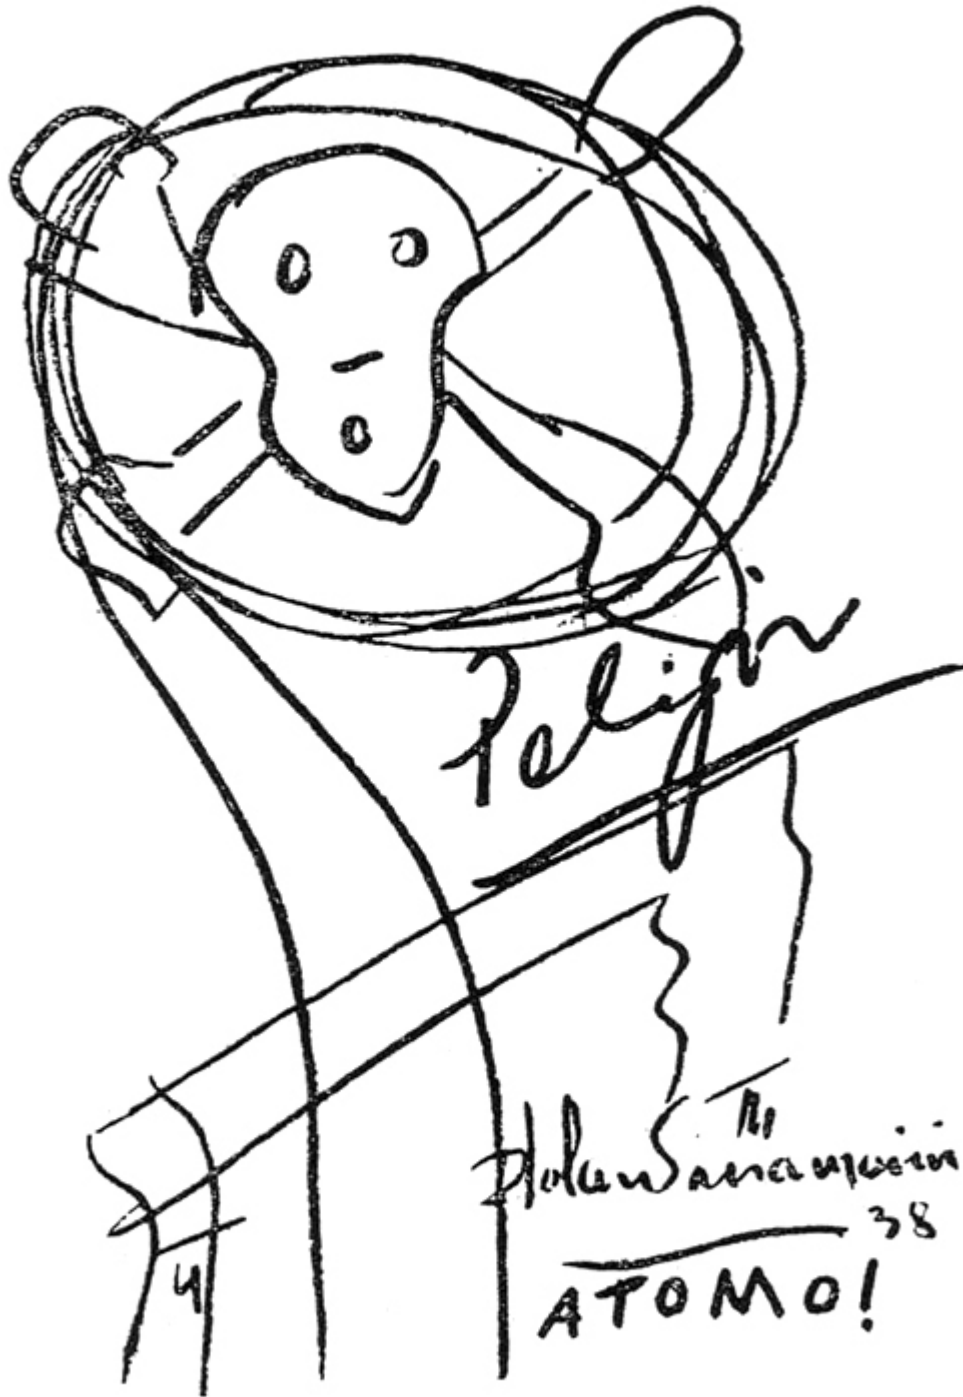

Ideas nuevas

Ideas nuevas

New ideas

Atomic Danger

3

Peligro Átomo!

Peligro Átomo!

Atomic Danger!

The Dual Nature of New Forces (nuclear)

4

¡Señores... meditad

38
El mundo se apresta a experimentar

una nueva fuerza que hará el mal y el bien - que elevará al hombre a otros planetas - o desintegrará al mundo - en ese caso el Caos salvará de la total destrucción

¡Señores...meditad

El mundo se apresta a experimentar una nueva fuerza que hará el mal y el bien - que elevará al hombre a otros planetas - o desintegrará al mundo - en ese
caso el Caos salvará de la total destrucción

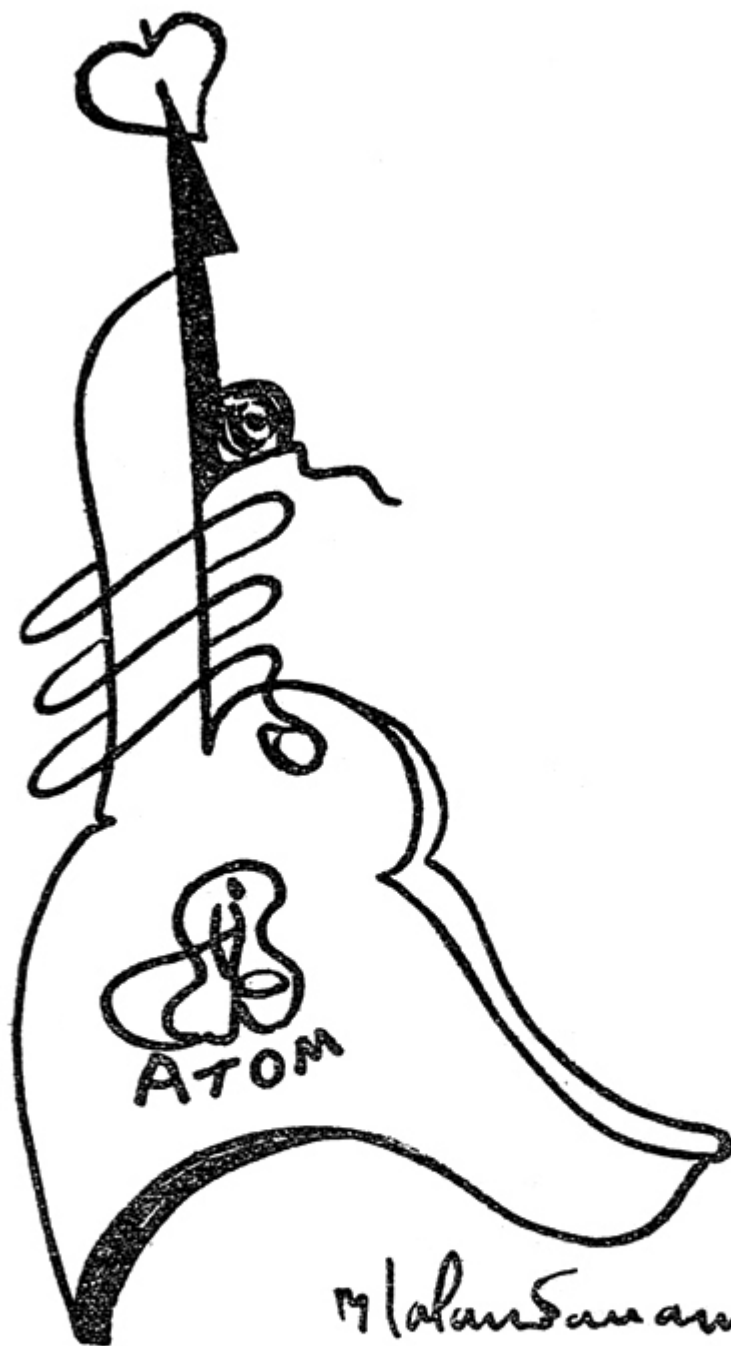

¡Señores...meditad

El mundo se apresta a experimentar una nueva fuerza
que hará el mal y el bien - que elevará al hombre a otros planetas - o desintegrará al mundo - en ese
caso el Caos salvará de la total destrucción

Gentlemen... reflect! The world is about to experience a new force that will do harm and good - that will elevate man to other planets - or disintegrate the world - in that case, Chaos will save from total destruction

The Arrival of a Perverse Idea

5

19/abandona amor
idea perversa llega

ATOM
Idea perversa llega

ATOM

Idea perversa llega

ATOM A perverse idea arrives

The Hamlet Dilemma

6

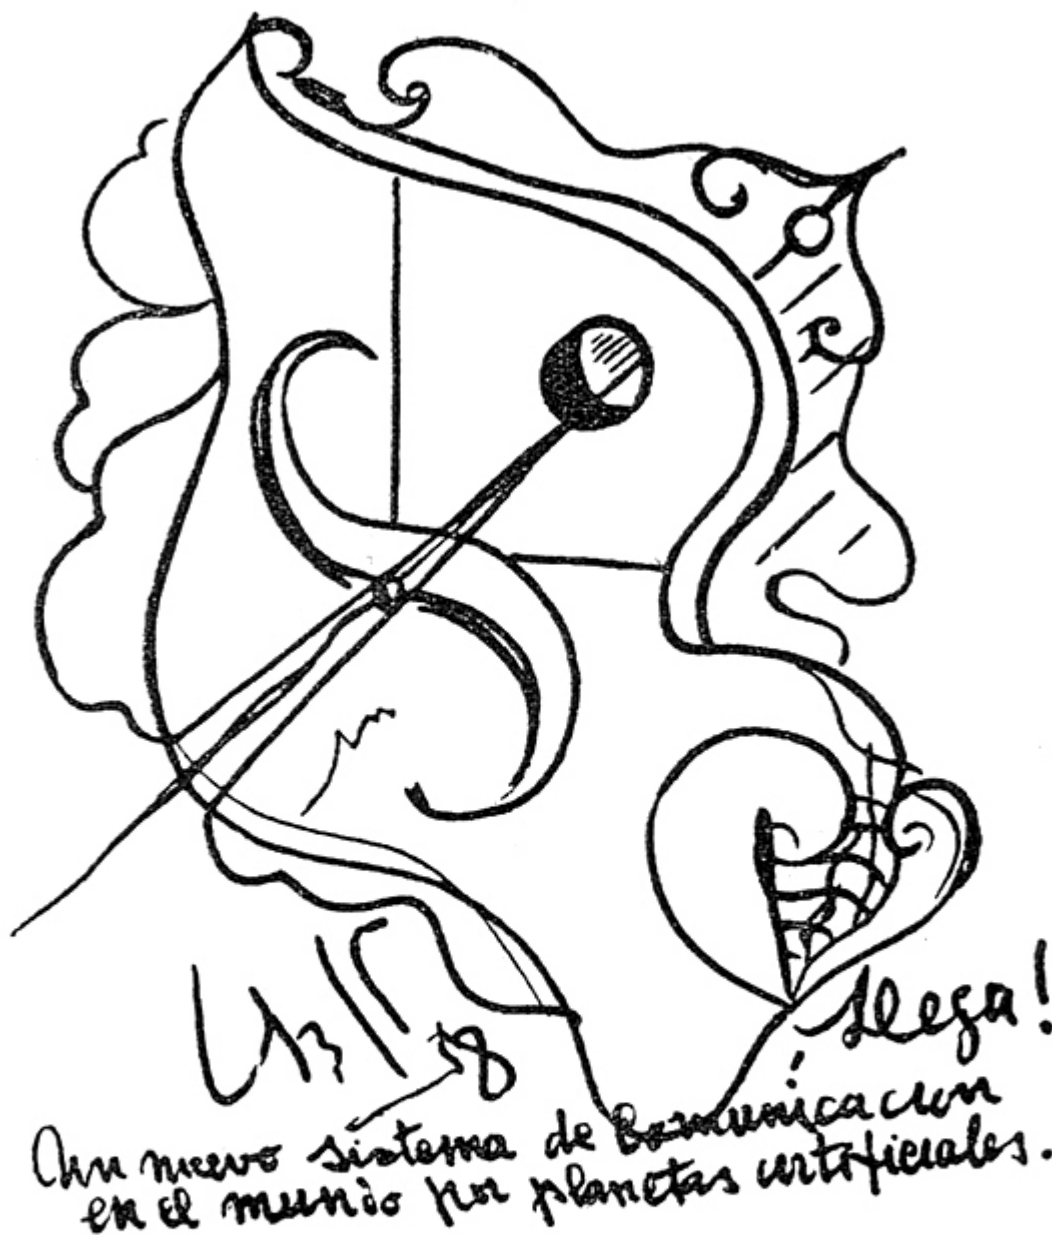

Ser o no ser! La alternativa llega.
El mundo lo exigirá o de uno o del otro!
Hamlet será en el mundo

Ser o no ser! La alternativa llega.
El mundo lo exigirá o de uno o del otro!
Hamlet será en el mundo

To be or not to be! The alternative arrives. The world will demand it from one or the other! Hamlet will be in the world.

Artificial Planet Communications - Satellites

7

Llega! Un nuevo sistema de comunicación
en el mundo por planetas artificiales.

Llega! Un nuevo sistema de comunicación
en el mundo por planetas artificiales.

Here it comes! A new system of communication in the world through artificial planets.

New Israel Old Shepherd

9

Viejo pastor hará la nueva Israel

Viejo pastor hará la nueva Israel

Old shepherd will make the new Israel

Insight:

The founder and first Prime Minister of the modern State of Israel was David Ben-Gurion.

Some key facts about David Ben-Gurion and his role in founding Israel:

- Born in 1886 in Poland (then part of the Russian Empire), he immigrated to Ottoman Palestine in 1906.
- He was a major leader of the Jewish community in British Mandate Palestine and the head of the Jewish Agency from 1935-1948.
- As head of the Jewish Agency, he played a central role in facilitating Jewish immigration and development of a future Jewish state.
- On May 14, 1948, he formally proclaimed the establishment of the State of Israel, in accordance with the UN Partition Plan for Palestine.
- Ben-Gurion became the first Prime Minister of Israel, serving until 1963 (with a break in 1954-1955).
- He helped build and shape the foundations of the new Israeli state, including its government, military, and absorption of Jewish immigrants.
- Though not the sole founder, Ben-Gurion is widely considered the primary founding father and driving force behind the creation of the modern State of Israel in 1948.

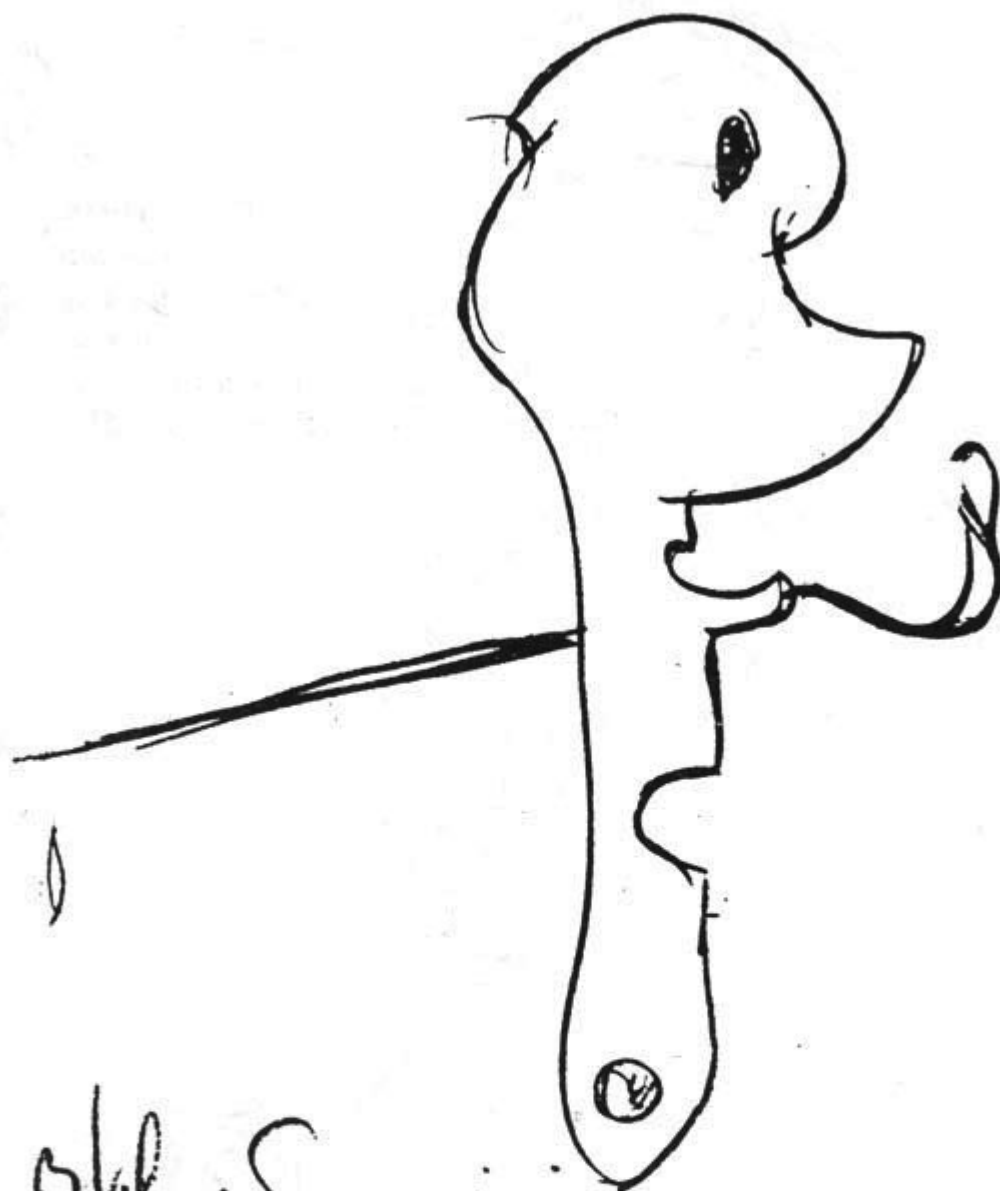

So in the context of the 1936 prophecy, if referring to an individual, David Ben-Gurion would be a prime candidate for the "old shepherd" who made the "new Israel" a reality.

- BEN-GURION LIKES LIFE AS SHEPHERD; Israeli Ex-Head Finds Himself Boggled Down by Letters but Enjoys Physical Labor - The New York Times
- In ancient days David walked in the desert, heard a voice from the heavens ask his identity, and replied "I am David, a simple shepherd," to which' the voice responded, "Blessed are you David, for you will become King of Israel."

- In present times another man walked in the desert, heard a voice asking his identity, and replied, "I am David Ben-Gurion Prime Minister of Israel, head of Histadrut (the labor union confederation) and leader of Mapai (the Socialist party). The voice responded, "Blessed are you, David, for you will become a simple shepherd."

Gonorrhea Wreaks Havoc

Benjamín Solari Parravicini

Blenorragia enfermedades regresan en el 66 y harán estragos —

Benjamín Solari Parravicini, sin fecha. «Blenorragia, enfermedades regresan en el 66 y harán estragos».

"Blenorragia, enfermedades regresan en el '66 y harán estragos." B.S.P. sin fecha

"Gonorrhea, diseases will return in '66 and will wreak havoc." B.S.P. no date

Interpretation:

1. Health Warning:

- The mention of gonorrhea and the return of diseases implies a health warning about the spread or reemergence of infectious illnesses. Gonorrhea, a sexually transmitted infection, may be used here as a representative example of broader health concerns.

2. Timeframe:

- The specificity of the year "66" suggests that this prophecy is tied to a particular period. It could indicate a resurgence of diseases during that year, potentially due to changing social or environmental factors.

3. Potential Impact:

- The phrase "harán estragos" ("will wreak havoc") indicates that the resurgence of diseases will have significant negative consequences. This could include increased illness, strain on healthcare systems, and social disruption.

Historical Context:

- Public Health Concerns: The mid-20th century saw various public health challenges, including the ongoing battle against infectious diseases and the emergence of new health threats.

Overall Interpretation:

The prophecy serves as a warning about the potential resurgence of diseases, highlighting the need for vigilance in public health measures and medical interventions to prevent and control outbreaks.

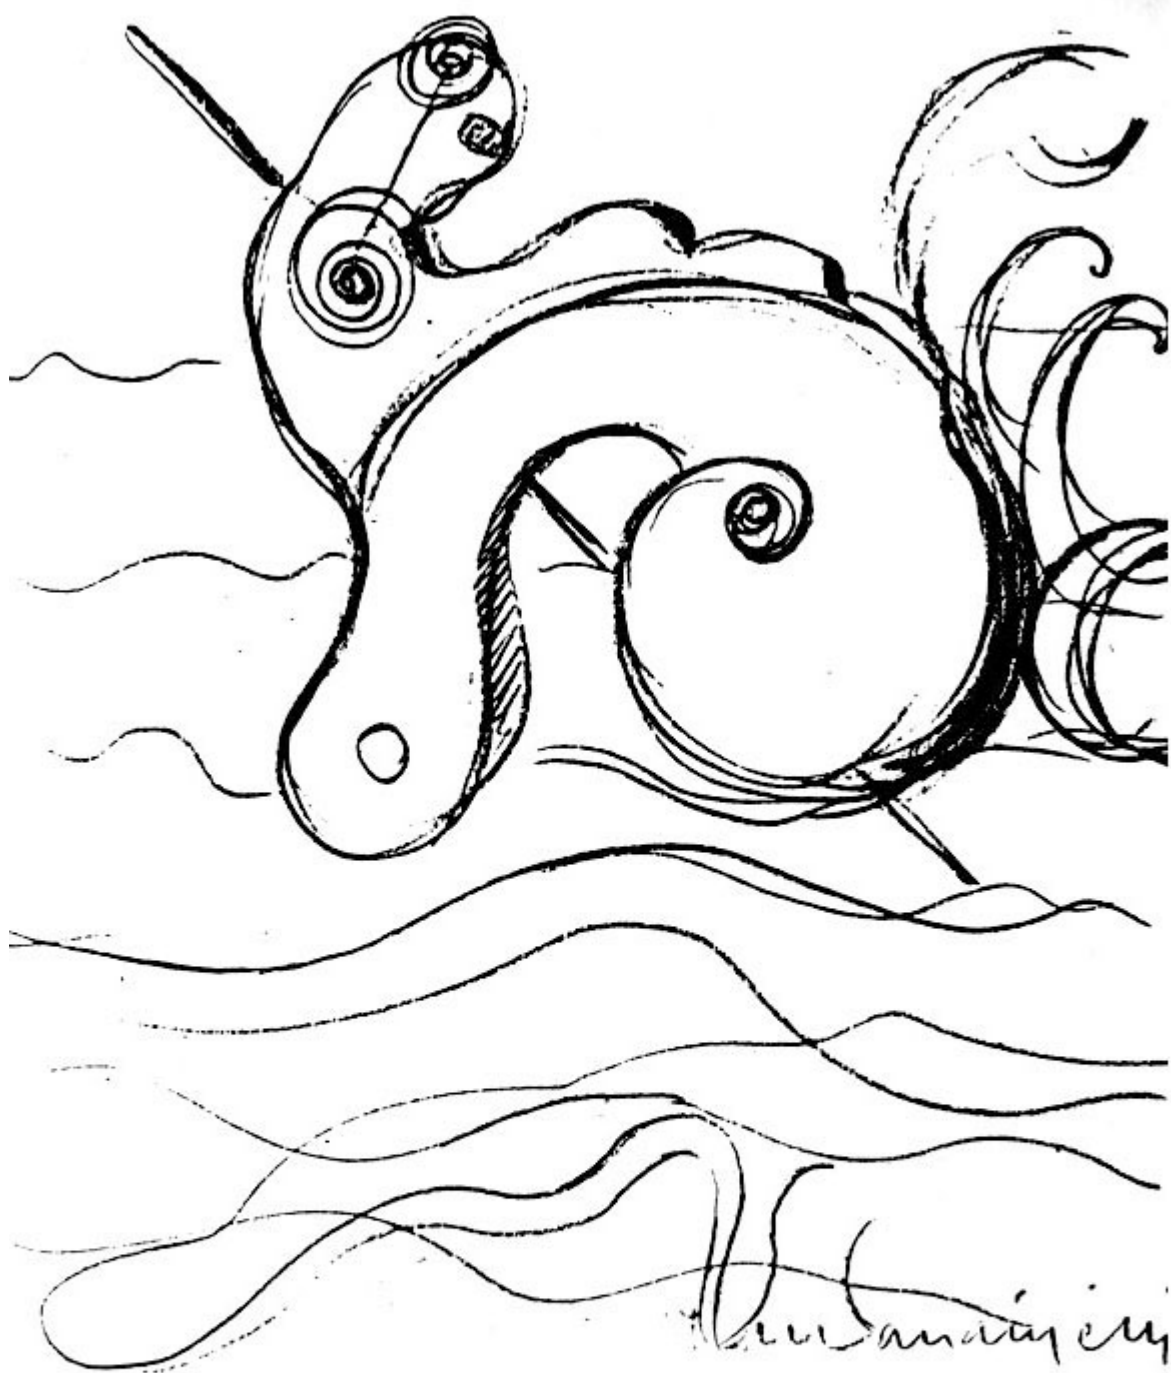

Drug-resistant gonorrhea has been a growing concern for several decades, with cases of resistance to various antibiotics reported since the mid-20th century. However, the emergence of extensively drug-resistant gonorrhea (XDR gonorrhea), meaning resistance to multiple classes of antibiotics, has become more prominent in recent years.

Here are some key points regarding the emergence of drug-resistant gonorrhea:

1. 1940s-1950s: Gonorrhea was initially treated with antibiotics such as penicillin, but resistance to penicillin emerged in the 1940s and 1950s.
2. 1980s: The fluoroquinolone class of antibiotics, including ciprofloxacin and ofloxacin, became the primary treatment for gonorrhea. However, resistance to fluoroquinolones began to develop in the 1980s.
3. 2000s: By the early 2000s, fluoroquinolones were no longer recommended as first-line treatment due to widespread resistance. Cephalosporins, such as ceftriaxone, became the preferred treatment. However, cases of cephalosporin-resistant gonorrhea have been reported since the 2000s, raising concerns about the potential for untreatable gonorrhea.
4. Current Status: As of the early 2020s, drug-resistant gonorrhea remains a significant public health threat. While cephalosporins are still effective for most cases, there have been reports of resistance. Health authorities emphasize the importance of monitoring and surveillance to track resistant strains and develop alternative treatment strategies.

Overall, drug-resistant gonorrhea has emerged gradually over time, driven by factors such as misuse and overuse of antibiotics, inadequate treatment practices, and the ability of the gonorrhea bacterium to adapt and develop resistance mechanisms.

Era of Contradiction - 666

Epoca del 666 →
Llega la era contradicción

Benjamín Solari Parravicini, sin fecha. «Epoca del 666.
Llega la era de la contradicción».

"Epoca del 666. Llega la era de la contradicción." B.S.P. sin fecha

"Time of the 666. The era of contradiction arrives." B.S.P. No date.

The phrase "Epoca del 666. Llega la era de la contradicción" ("Time of the 666. The era of contradiction arrives") suggests a prophetic or symbolic statement about a period marked by contradiction and perhaps associated with the number 666. Here's an interpretation:

Interpretation:

1. Symbolism of 666:

- The reference to "666" is often associated with biblical or apocalyptic symbolism, particularly from the Book of Revelation in the Christian Bible. In this context, 666 is commonly interpreted as the "number of the beast" or a symbol of evil or chaos.

2. Era of Contradiction:

- The phrase "the era of contradiction arrives" suggests a time characterized by conflict, discord, or inconsistency. This could refer to societal, political, or ideological contradictions that create tension or uncertainty.

3. Apocalyptic Imagery:

- The mention of "the era of contradiction" alongside the reference to 666 evokes apocalyptic imagery, hinting at a period of upheaval or crisis. It may symbolize a time of moral decay, spiritual conflict, or existential struggle.

Potential Meanings:

- The phrase could be interpreted as a warning about a turbulent period in history, marked by societal division, ideological clashes, or moral ambiguity.
- It may also serve as a commentary on the human condition, highlighting the inherent contradictions and complexities of human nature.

Overall Interpretation:

The phrase suggests a foreboding message about a time of turmoil and contradiction, possibly linked to apocalyptic themes or symbolic significance associated with the number 666.

Of note, the Church of Satan is challenging the Christians more frequently. I wouldn't have thought this possible just 20 years ago.

- How 'After School Satan Club' Is Shaking Things Up - The New York Times
- The Satanic Temple is taking on Christian nationalism in schools

Argentina's Malignant Constitution

B.S.P., 1940. «Sobre la nueva constitución argentina, rotas las normas anteriores, se levantará la más alta montaña de malignas figuras. Todos tendrán que esconder sus fines, ocultos detrás de fingidas caretas».

Sobre la nueva Constitución Argentina rota las normas anteriores se levantará la mas alta montaña de malignas figuras. Todas tendrán que esconder sus fines. ocultos detrás de fingidas caretas

"Sobre la nueva constitución levantará la más alta montaña de malignas figuras. Todos tendrán que esconder sus fines, ocultos detrás de fingidas caretas." B.S.P. 1940

B.S.P., 1940. "Regarding the new Argentine constitution, with previous norms broken, the highest mountain of malignant figures will rise up. Everyone will have to hide their aims, concealed behind feigned masks."

Notes:

Here are some potential notes and context regarding the "new Argentine constitution" referenced in this 1940 psychograph:

- In 1949, Argentina adopted a new constitution under the presidency of Juan Domingo Perón. This replaced the previous 1853 constitution.
- Perón's government was increasingly authoritarian and tried to centralize power under his leadership and the Peronist political movement.
- The 1949 constitution gave the president much more power, weakened the judiciary, and allowed Perón to get re-elected indefinitely.
- It enshrined some populist and nationalist policies like a strong welfare state, but also eroded democratic checks and balances.
- Critics argued Perón was creating a de facto dictatorship under the guise of this new constitution and its reforms.
- The line about "malignant figures" rising up and hiding their true aims could refer to Perón and his inner circle consolidating control deceptively.
- The broken "previous norms" likely refers to the undermining of the liberal democratic principles of the 1853 constitution it replaced.

So in essence, this 1940 psychograph seems to have foreseen and warned about the increasingly authoritarian and deceptive nature of Perón's new constitution in 1949 that centralized his power in Argentina under the veneer of populist reforms. The prophecy depicts it as a malignant force cloaked in rhetoric.

Apocalyptic Visions of the 666

Llegará ya el principio del fin! El hombre anulará su ser, la biología gritará que ha descubierto el hacer vidas sin el ser masculino, y de esta manera con el uso de la glicerina sacada de las células, se comenzará a fabricar seres sin heredad, mas sí con vida de maneras desconocidas. Llegarán en ese tiempo las explosiones atómicas y harán la destrucción de cada ser. La radiación matará y hará nacer, de madres, monstruos de todas clases animal y vegetal, y el mineral se disgregará. Desde el 66 el hombre nacerá con los huesos cristalizados por el estroncio, y el estroncio hará en su vida un desastre, le anulará el cerebro, le alterará el gene espermático, le matará el glóbulo rojo, aumentará la cancerología al extremo que el cáncer será general. La fuerza nucleónica dominará y los amarillos con los rusos cuestionarán lucros de poder en tal sentido. El 666 llegará ya con las manos llenas de fuerzas nucleares, de rayos misteriosos invisibles y paralizadores. De microbios nuevos y centrifugos electrónicos y de cometas artificiales con la...

B.S.P. 1936. «¡Llegará, ya, el principio del fin! El hombre anulará su ser, la biología gritará que ha descubierto el hacer vidas sin el ser masculino, y de esta manera, con el uso de la glicerina sacada de las células, se comenzará a fabricar seres sin heredad, mas sí con vida de manera desconocida. Llegarán en ese tiempo las explosiones atómicas y harán la destrucción de cada ser. La radiación matará y hará nacer, de madres, monstruos de todas clases animal y vegetal, y el mineral se disgregará. Desde el 66 el hombre nacerá con los huesos cristalizados por el estroncio, y el estroncio hará en su vida un desastre, le anulará el cerebro, le alterará el gene espermático, le matará el glóbulo rojo, aumentará la cancerología al extremo que el cáncer será general. La fuerza nucleónica dominará y los amarillos con los rusos cuestionarán lucros de poder en tal sentido. El 666 llegará, ya, con las manos llenas de fuerzas nucleares, de rayos misteriosos invisibles y paralizadores. De microbios nuevos y centrifugos electrónicos y de cometas artificiales con la...» (Los puntos suspensivos indican texto ilegible.)

B.S.P. 1936. «¡Llegará, ya, el principio del fin! El hombre anulará su ser, la biología gritará que ha descubierto el hacer vidas sin el ser masculino, y de esta manera, con el uso de la glicerina sacada de las células, se comenzará a fabricar seres sin heredad, mas sí con vida de manera desconocida. Llegarán en ese tiempo las explosiones atómicas y harán la destrucción de cada ser. La radiación matará y hará nacer, de madres, monstruos de todas clases animal y vegetal, y el mineral se disgregará. Desde el 66 el hombre nacerá con los huesos cristalizados por el estroncio, y el estroncio hará en su vida un desastre, le anulará el cerebro, le alterará el gene espermático, le matará el glóbulo rojo, aumentará la cancerología al extremo que el cáncer será general. La fuerza nucleónica dominará y los amarillos con los rusos cuestionarán lucros de poder en tal sentido. El 666 llegará, ya, con las manos llenas de fuerzas nucleares, de rayos misteriosos invisibles y paralizadores. De microbios nuevos y centrifugos electrónicos y de cometas artificiales con la...» (Los puntos suspensivos indican texto ilegible.)

B.S.P. 1936. "The beginning of the end will arrive! Man will annul his being, biology will shout that it has discovered how to create lives without the male being, and in this way, using glycerin extracted from cells, beings will begin to be manufactured without inheritance, but yes with life in an unknown way. At that time, atomic explosions will arrive and destroy every being. Radiation will kill and cause mothers to give birth to monsters of all animal and plant kinds, and minerals will disintegrate. From '66 onward, man will be born with bones crystallized by strontium, and strontium will cause disaster in his life, nullifying his brain, altering his sperm gene, killing his red blood cells, and increasing cancer to the extreme that cancer will become widespread. Nuclear power will dominate and the Yellows with the Russians will question the profits of power in this regard. The 666 will arrive, with hands full of nuclear forces, mysterious invisible and paralyzing rays. Of new microbes and electronic centrifuges and artificial comets with the..." (illegible text)

Notes:

Advances in Biology/Artificial Life

- It foresees the ability to create artificial life forms without male reproduction, using extracted cellular components like glycerin. This could refer to advances in genetic engineering, cloning, stem cells etc.
- The "beings manufactured without inheritance" hints at designed, non-hereditary life.

Nuclear Destruction

- It clearly warns of the devastating impacts of nuclear weapons and radiation - mutations, environmental destruction, cancers, genetic damage.
- The reference to "atomic explosions" destroying "every being" was an early prediction of nuclear warfare's catastrophic potential.

Health/Genetic Impacts

- It graphically describes radiation poisoning effects like crystallized bones from strontium-90, killed blood cells, brain damage, genetic mutations.
- The prevalence of cancer is seen as becoming extreme and widespread.

Mind Control Technology

- The "invisible paralyzing rays" could relate to psychoactive weapons or electromagnetic mind control theories.
- Along with "new microbes and electronic centrifuges", it suggests advanced, secretive technologies.

Geopolitical Conflict

- The "yellows and Russians" questioning "profits of power" over nuclear forces hints at a future Cold War-style conflict between East and West over nuclear supremacy.

666 Arrival

- The ominous "666" arrival with "hands full of nuclear forces" taps into apocalyptic religious imagery of the Antichrist's reign of evil.
- It connects advances in science with a metaphysical, existential threat to humanity's future.

So while incredibly far-fetched, this 1930s psychograph seemed to foresee many 20th century issues like nuclear warfare, biological engineering, radiation effects, geopolitical tensions over nuclear arms, and more - all wrapped in an apocalyptic, almost sci-fi-like narrative vision.

How wide spread is strontium in the environment?

Strontium is a relatively widespread element found naturally in the environment, though typically in low concentrations. Here are some key points about the prevalence of strontium:

- Strontium is estimated to make up about 0.034% of the Earth's crust, making it one of the more abundant trace elements.
- It occurs naturally in rocks, soil, dust, coal, and ambient air to varying small degrees.
- Higher concentrations are found in areas with natural mineral strontium deposits.
- Strontium gets into the environment more widely through industrial and nuclear processes/waste.
- Nuclear weapons testing in the 1950s-1960s dispersed significant amounts of radioactive strontium-90 isotopes into the atmosphere globally.
- Strontium-90 was one of the major radioactive contaminants released by nuclear accidents like Chernobyl and Fukushima.
- Coal-fired power plants can release small amounts of non-radioactive stable strontium into the air.

- Phosphate fertilizers used in agriculture contain higher levels of naturally-occurring strontium.

So while not extremely high in concentration naturally, strontium does have a fairly widespread distribution in the environment from both natural sources and human activities, especially nuclear operations which can release more hazardous radioactive isotopes like strontium-90. Its prevalence likely increased in the mid-late 20th century due to nuclear testing and accidents.

What is the half life of strontium-90?

Strontium-90 (^{90}Sr) is a radioactive isotope of strontium that has a relatively long half-life of 28.8 years.

This means that after 28.8 years, half of the initial amount of strontium-90 will have decayed radioactively.

Some more details about the half-life of strontium-90:

- It has one of the longest half-lives among the common fission product isotopes released by nuclear fission.
- Only about 10% of strontium-90 decays in the first year after being produced.
- After 10 half-lives (288 years), only about 0.1% of the original strontium-90 remains.
- Its long half-life means strontium-90 can persist in the environment for a very long time after initial contamination.
- This makes strontium-90 a long-term hazard, as it continuously gives off beta particle radiation as it decays.
- Ingested strontium-90 is particularly dangerous because it can bioaccumulate in bones and bone marrow due to chemical similarities with calcium.

So while not the most radioactive isotope, strontium-90's lengthy 28.8 year half-life means it remains a radiation risk for decades after being released, which is why it was a major concern from nuclear fallout and accidents in the 20th century.

What are the medical effects of strontium-90?

Strontium-90 (^{90}Sr) is a radioactive isotope that can have serious medical effects if ingested or exposed to in significant amounts, primarily due to its ionizing radiation. Here are some of the key medical effects:

Bone Damage

- Strontium-90 is chemically similar to calcium and tends to accumulate in bones and bone marrow if ingested
- The ionizing beta radiation it emits can damage bone cells and bone marrow cells
- This increases risks of bone cancers like leukemia, as well as bone necrosis

Blood Disorders

- Radiation from strontium-90 can destroy blood-producing cells in bone marrow
- This leads to blood disorders like anemia and lowered white blood cell counts

Genetic Damage

- The beta particle emissions from strontium-90 can cause DNA mutations and genetic damage
- This increases risks of genetic defects being passed to offspring

Cancer Induction

- Strontium-90's ionizing radiation is an internal hazard that can induce cancers
- Increased risks of bone, lung, and soft tissue cancers have been linked to ^{90}Sr exposure

Acute Radiation Sickness

- Very high doses of strontium-90 can cause acute radiation sickness
- Symptoms include nausea, hair loss, organ failure, and potentially death

The medical dangers are why strontium-90 was one of the most concerning radioactive isotopes released during nuclear weapons testing and accidents like Chernobyl. Its bone-seeking properties and long half-life make internal exposures particularly hazardous over long periods.

- Strontium-90 - Wikipedia
- A study of hundreds of thousands of deciduous teeth, collected by Dr. Louise Reiss and her colleagues as part of the Baby Tooth Survey, found a large increase in 90Sr levels through the 1950s and early 1960s. The study's final results showed that children born in St. Louis, Missouri, in 1963 had levels of 90Sr in their deciduous teeth that was 50 times higher than that found in children born in 1950, before the advent of large-scale atomic testing. Reviewers of the study predicted that the fallout would cause increased incidence of disease in those who absorbed strontium-90 into their bones.²⁹(https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Strontium-90#cite_note-29) However, no follow up studies of the subjects have been performed, so the claim is untested.
 - An article with the study's initial findings was circulated to U.S. President John F. Kennedy in 1961, and helped convince him to sign the Partial Nuclear Test Ban Treaty with the United Kingdom and Soviet Union, ending the above-ground nuclear weapons testing that placed the greatest amounts of nuclear fallout into the atmosphere.³⁰(https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Strontium-90#cite_note-Reiss-30)
- DNA damage induced by Strontium-90 exposure at low concentrations in mesenchymal stromal cells: the functional consequences - PMC
 - The damaging effects of strontium-90 became widely known and publicly acknowledged during the late 1950s and early 1960s, driven by scientific research, public health studies, and increasing public awareness of the risks associated with radioactive fallout from nuclear testing. This period marked a significant turning point in nuclear policy and environmental health awareness, leading to international efforts to curb atmospheric nuclear tests and reduce the associated health risks.

- BREAST CANCER: EVIDENCE FOR A RELATION TO FISSION PRODUCTS IN THE DIET on JSTOR

Cancer rates in the U.S. peaked in the early 1990s, with a peak in cancer incidence for men in 1992 and for women in 1998. The overall cancer death rate peaked in 1991. Since then, there has been significant progress in reducing cancer mortality rates, largely due to advancements in medical research, prevention efforts, early detection, and treatment improvements.

Scientists looked at the baby teeth of 515 children born mostly after 1980. They found that the amount of a substance called Strontium-90 (a dangerous byproduct from nuclear bomb tests) in these teeth was about the same as in children born in the late 1950s, when a lot of nuclear bomb tests were happening. That, incidentally, was 50 x over what was found before the atomic bomb happened.

After 1963, many of these tests were banned, so Strontium-90 levels were expected to go down. But in recent times, in the New York and New Jersey area, the levels didn't go down as much as expected. They even saw some big ups and downs in Miami, Florida.

In Suffolk County, Long Island, they found a link between the amount of Strontium-90 in baby teeth and the number of young kids with cancer. A similar pattern was seen during the 1950s and 1960s when there was a lot of fallout from nuclear tests.

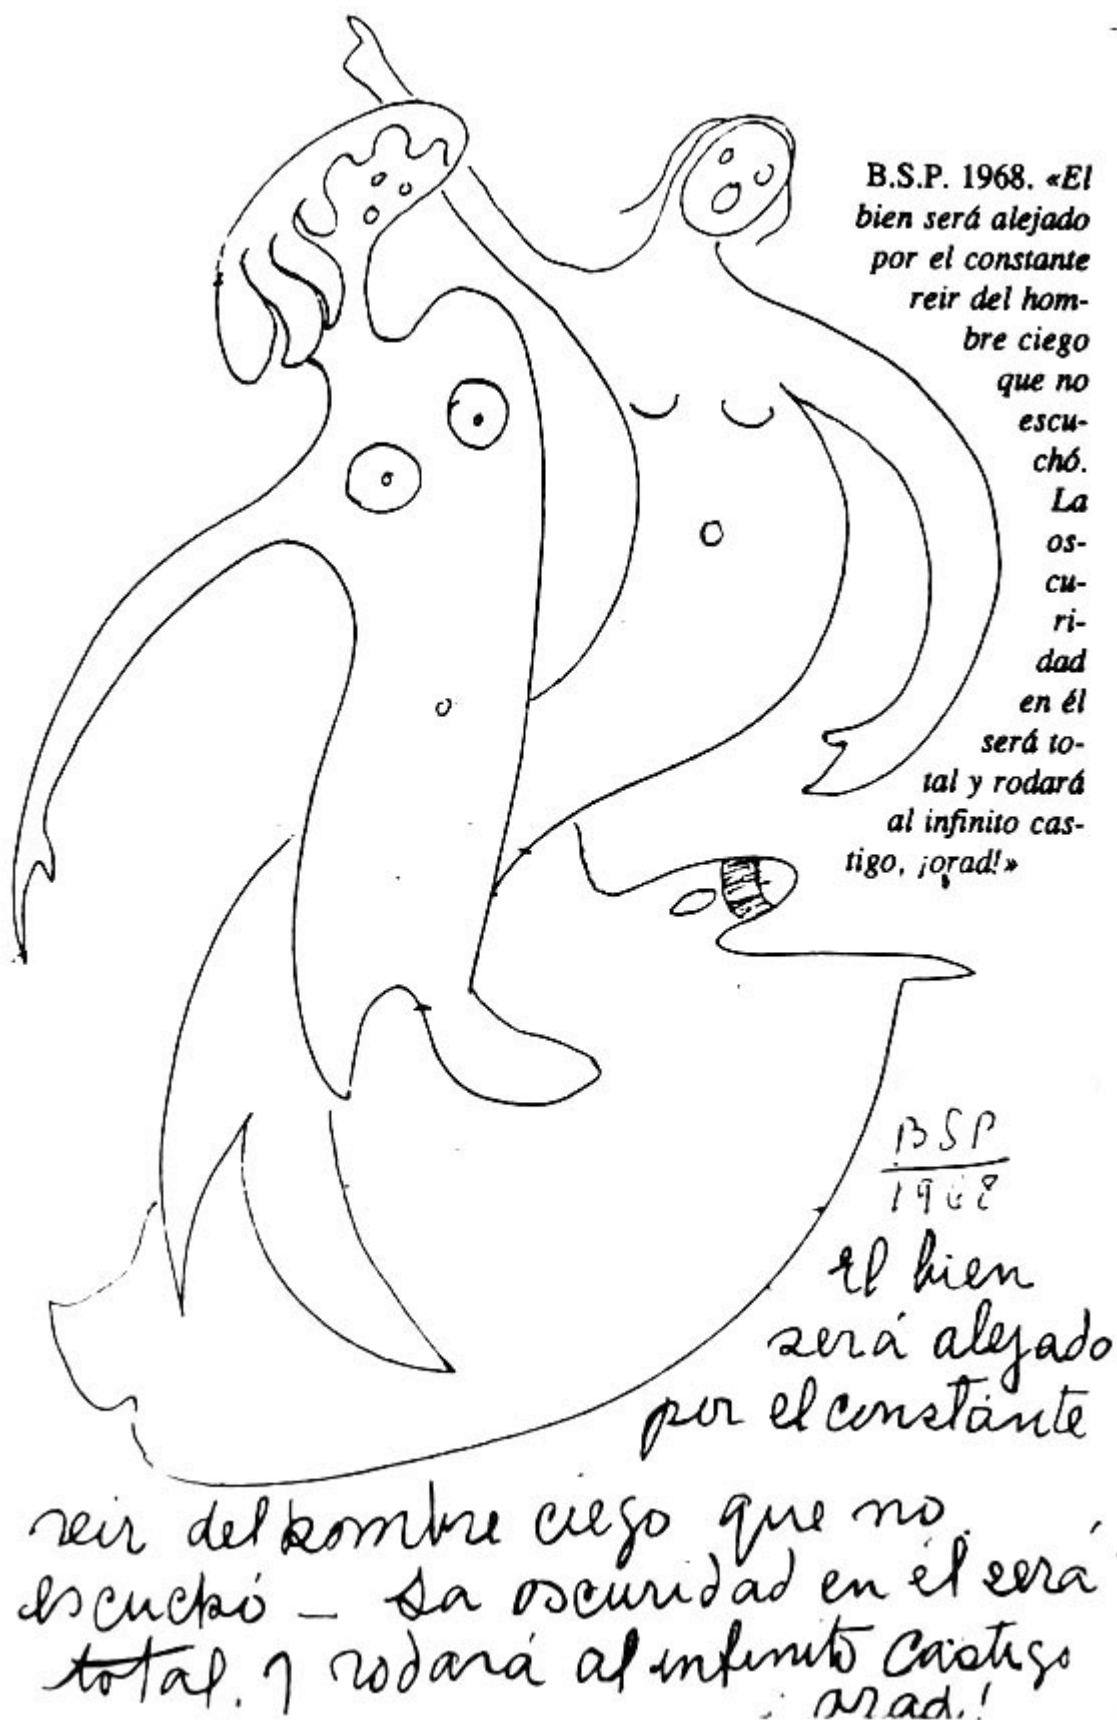

Also, they found that higher levels of radioactive stuff in local water were connected to more cases of childhood cancer. This suggests that nuclear reactor releases might be causing more cancer and other health problems in kids since the 1980s.

- Strontium-90 in deciduous teeth as a factor in early childhood cancer - PubMed
-

- Public Attitudes, Interests, and Concerns Regarding Polygenic Embryo Screening | Genetics and Genomics | JAMA Network Open | JAMA Network
 - Study reveals 77% of the US public approves selecting embryos based on DNA (polygenic scores) for likelihood of developing health conditions and 30% approve it for traits. Nearly all expressed concerns about potential negative outcomes for individuals or society. What do you think?

Short-lived Isotopes
	Isotope	Half-Life	Type of Decay
	-----	-----	-----
	Iodine-131	8 days	Beta, Gamma
	Cesium-137	30 years	Beta, Gamma
Intermediate-lived Isotopes
	Isotope	Half-Life	Type of Decay
	-----	-----	-----
	Strontium-90	29 years	Beta
	Plutonium-241	14 years	Beta
	Americium-241	432 years	Alpha, Gamma
Long-lived Isotopes
	Isotope	Half-Life	Type of Decay
	-----	-----	-----
	Plutonium-239	24,100 years	Alpha
	Uranium-235	700 million years	Alpha
	Uranium-238	4.5 billion years	Alpha

The Blind Man's Laughter

B.S.P. 1968, «El bien será alejado Por el constante reir del hombre ciego que no escuchó. La oscuridad en él será total y rodará al infinito castigo, ¡orad!»

B.S.P. 1968, "Goodness will be driven away by the constant laughter of the blind man who did not listen. The darkness in him will be total and he will roll into infinite punishment, pray!"

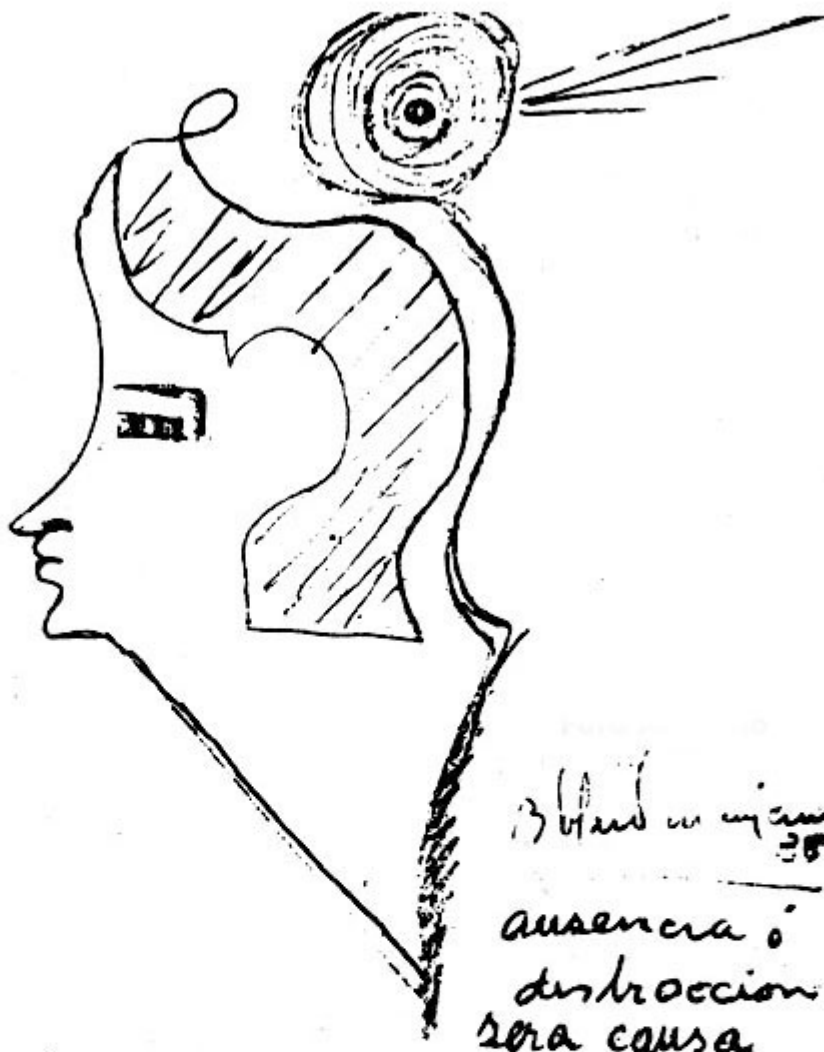

Bullet points:

- Goodness/virtue will be pushed away or rejected - Suggests a turn away from moral/ethical principles
- By the constant laughter of the blind man who did not listen - The "blind man" represents someone who is willfully ignorant and mocking, not heeding warnings - His "laughter" is dismissive of wisdom/guidance
- The darkness in him will be total - He will be completely enveloped in moral/spiritual darkness - Represents a complete loss of light/right path
- He will roll into infinite punishment - Consequence for his blind arrogance is eternal suffering
 - Alludes to divine judgment or karmic retribution
- Pray! - A call to prayer, faith, spiritual guidance - Implies only this can save one from such a dire fate

The overall meaning seems to be a warning against arrogant dismissal of wisdom, ethics and spiritual guidance. It cautions that those who mock the virtuous path through willful blindness will be plunged into complete moral darkness, rolling toward infinite punishment. Prayer and reconnecting to goodness is presented as the only potential salvation.

Argentina's 1966 Upheaval

Benjamín Solari Parravicini, 1938. «Ausencia o distracción será causa, en la Argentina, en el 66, de grandes conmociones, en donde se sabrán cambios de regímenes sin choques cruentos, pero será una realidad. Argentina sufrirá en pequeño lo que en el resto del mundo sufrirán luego, y la Argentina purificada será, en el final de finales, la samaritana de la tierra».

ausencia o distracción
será causa

En la Argentina en el 66 de grandes conmociones en donde se sabrá del cambio de regímenes Sin choques cruentos pero que serán una realidad - Argentina sufrirá en pequeño lo que el resto del mundo sufrirá luego y la Argentina purificada será en el final de finales la Samaritana de la tierra

"Ausencia o distracción será causa, en la Argentina, en el '66, de grandes conmociones, en donde se sabrán cambios de regímenes sin choques cruentos, pero será una realidad. Argentina sufrirá en pequeño lo que en el resto del mundo sufrirán luego, y la Argentina purificada será, en el final de finales, la samaritana de la tierra." B.S.P 1938

"Absence or distraction will be the cause, in Argentina, in '66, of great upheavals, where regime changes will be known without bloody clashes, but it will be a reality. Argentina will suffer on a small scale what the rest of the world will suffer later, and the purified Argentina will be, in the end of ends, the Samaritan of the earth." B.S.P 1938

Notes:

- Absence or distraction will cause great upheavals in Argentina in 1966 - Some lack of attention/focus will trigger major unrest/turmoil
- Regime changes will occur without bloody clashes - Suggests political upheaval and changes of government, but through non-violent means
- But it will be a reality - Emphasizes these events are not hypothetical, they will actually happen
- Argentina will suffer on a small scale what the rest of the world will later - The upheavals in Argentina prefigure and mirror larger global events to come - Argentina will experience a microcosm of worldwide turmoil
- The purified Argentina will be the "Samaritan of the earth" - After being purged/renewed by this period of upheaval - Argentina will emerge as a compassionate helper to the world

Interpretation:

- The overall meaning seems to be a prophecy that in 1966, due to some lack of vigilance, Argentina would undergo major political upheavals and regime changes, though without violence. This turmoil was foretold to be a precursor to larger global events. However, the prophecy also suggests Argentina would be "purified" by this experience, allowing it to eventually become a force for good and aid in the world - a "Samaritan of the earth."

Correlation:

Yes, this 1938 prophecy about upheaval and regime changes in Argentina in 1966 did come to pass in several ways:

In 1966, Argentina experienced a military coup d'état that ousted the elected president Arturo Illia. This ushered in a period of military dictatorships and political instability in the country.

Specifically in 1966:

- On June 28, 1966, a military revolt led by General Juan Carlos Onganía successfully overthrew President Illia in a bloodless coup.
- Illia was arrested and the constitutional government was dissolved by the military junta.
- Onganía then became a de facto dictator, establishing a military regime called the "Argentine Revolution."
- This initiated a cycle of revolving military juntas ruling Argentina until democracy was restored in 1973.

So the prophecy accurately foresaw major political upheaval and a regime change occurring in Argentina in 1966, with the overthrow of the elected civilian government by military forces, albeit without significant bloodshed.

The rest of the 1960s did see continued instability and cycles of military rule in Argentina, reflecting the "great upheavals" and "regime changes" foretold. Whether Argentina eventually emerged "purified" as a compassionate global force remains open to interpretation.

The Mirror of the End

«El guerrear en Oriente final de finales en el 66.
en el espejo del final y
drá. La explosión lle
Benjamín Solari Pa

sin descanso, dará la pauta del
En el 66 el hombre se mirará querrá morir, mas no po-ga en las Antillas y...»
rravicini, año 1938.

El guerrear en Oriente sin descanso
dará la pauta del
final de finales el 66 -
El 66 el hombre se mirará en el espejo del final y querrá morir
mas no podrá la explosión llega en las antillas y...

Benjamín Parravicini
38

«El guerrear en Oriente sin descanso, dará la pauta del final de finales en el 66. En el 66 el hombre se mirará en el espejo del final y querrá morir, mas no podrá. La explosión llega en las Antillas y...» Benjamín Solari Parravicini, año 1938.

"The incessant warring in the East will set the tone for the end of ends in '66. In '66 man will look in the mirror of the end and want to die, but cannot. The explosion arrives in the Antilles and..." Benjamin Solari Parravicini, year 1938.

Notes:

Warring in the East

- Likely refers to conflicts and tensions building in the Asia/Far East region prior to "66"
- Could relate to events like the Korean War, Vietnam War escalation, China's Cultural Revolution
- Suggests these "incessant" eastern wars were an omen of greater cataclysms to come

The End of Ends in "66"

- Use of the phrase "the end of ends" implies a culminating, apocalyptic finality in "66"
- The year "66" is repeatedly emphasized as the flash point for these events

Mirror of the End

- The image of man looking into the "mirror of the end" and wanting death is extremely foreboding
- Suggests the horror of whatever is coming will make life seem undesirable
- But they "cannot" die, hinting at perhaps a nuclear wasteland scenario

Explosion in the Antilles

- The Antilles islands include Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico
- An "explosion" there could refer to a nuclear strike or weapon test in the Caribbean
- This region was a geopolitical hot spot during the Cold War era

Potential Nuclear War Narrative

- When viewed together, the wording points toward an apocalyptic vision of escalating Cold War tensions
- The eastern conflicts, a Caribbean explosion, and the "mirror of the end" could all relate to nuclear warfare
- The psychograph may be presaging the potential for a 1966 nuclear cataclysm triggered by the era's hostilities

So while not explicitly stated, the ominous language and 66 date marker suggest this 1938 psychograph was attempting to warn about the possibility of an apocalyptic nuclear conflict in the late 1960s, connected to the era's geopolitical tensions.

Of note, the Cuban missile crisis happened in 1962.

HOUR 3 66 1961 1962 1963 1964 1965 1966 1967

Would put 66 as 1964...

THE PROPHETIC CLOCK OF BENJAMIN SOLARIS PARRAVICINI

Words in Chaos

B.S.P., 1938. «¡Nacer, Vivir, morir..., será palabra vana en el Caos!»

Nacer. Vivir, morir - será palabra vana en el Caos! 7/12 38

«¡Nacer, Vivir, morir..., Será palabra vana en el Caos!»
B.S.P., 1938.

"To be born, to live, to die..., It will be a vain word in the Chaos!" B.S.P., 1938.

The meaning of the phrase "To be born, to live, to die..., It will be a vain word in the Chaos!" by B.S.P. (1938) suggests a profound reflection on the insignificance of life's traditional cycle—birth, life, and death—in the face of chaos and turmoil.

Interpretation:

1. Existential Reflection:

- The phrase implies that in times of chaos and upheaval, the traditional notions of life and death lose their significance or meaning. It suggests a sense of futility or emptiness in the face of overwhelming disorder.

2. Chaos and Uncertainty:

- "Chaos" likely refers to a state of disorder, confusion, or upheaval, whether on a personal, societal, or global level. The prophecy may warn of turbulent times ahead where conventional understandings of life and mortality may be challenged.

3. Vanity of Words:

- The phrase "It will be a vain word" suggests that even the most profound or fundamental aspects of human existence—such as birth, life, and death—may seem meaningless or futile amidst chaos. It underscores the idea that words, or even life itself, may lose their significance in times of crisis.

4. Reflection on Human Condition:

- This prophecy invites contemplation on the human condition and the fragility of existence. It suggests that in times of chaos, individuals may grapple with questions of purpose, mortality, and the meaning of life.

The Unraveling

18

La mujer se desnudará en público y cansará.
El hombre se desviará en hartazgo.

La mujer se desnudará en público y cansará.
El hombre se desviará en hartazgo.

The woman will undress in public and become weary. The man will deviate into weariness.

Notes:

- "The woman will undress in public and become weary." - Symbolizes erosion of modesty and decorum - Her weariness hints at futility in a meaningless world
- "The man will deviate into weariness." - Implies profound loss of hope - Succumbing to all-consuming apathy of chaotic existence
- Together, conveys utter desolation • Fundamental principles once governing human behavior rendered meaningless • State of profound disorder and despair

The sexual revolution and the popularization of miniskirts began in the 1960s.

Some key points:

- The sexual revolution was a social movement that challenged traditional codes of behavior related to sexuality and gender roles in the Western world.
- It began around the 1960s, aided by the development of reliable birth control pills and changing social attitudes.
- It promoted sexual liberation and open attitudes towards topics like premarital sex, homosexuality, and gender equality.
- In fashion, the miniskirt became a iconic symbol of the sexual revolution when introduced by Mary Quant in 1965.
- Miniskirts allowed more freedom of movement and were seen as a symbol of women's liberation and changing attitudes about female sexuality.

- The widespread adoption of miniskirts by young women in the late 1960s was considered quite shocking and provocative at the time.

So while the prophetic vision dates to 1938 (estimated), the specific imagery of a woman publicly undressing and societal breakdown of modesty aligns with the dramatic cultural shifts brought about by the sexual revolution some 20-30 years later in the 1960s.

Long Hair Short Hair

19

Cabellos largos en los hombres

Cabellos largos en los hombres

Long hair on men

Notes:

The trend of men wearing long hairstyles began in the 1960s, coinciding with the counterculture movements of that era:

- In the early 1960s, it was still very uncommon for men in Western cultures to wear long hair, as short, neat hairstyles were the norm.
- The Beatles popularized longer, mop-top hairstyles for men starting around 1964, though their hair remained above the collar.
- As the hippie counterculture movement emerged in the mid-to-late 1960s, long hair on men became a symbol of rebellion against mainstream conservative values.
- Rock musicians like The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, The Doors and many others grew their hair to shoulder length or longer.
- Long hair on men was seen as a rejection of conformity and establishment norms regarding appearance and gender roles.
- The slogan "long hair, short hair" became a rallying cry for the anti-Vietnam War movement and youth counterculture.
- By the late 1960s and into the 1970s, long hairstyles for men had become widespread, especially among youth, hippies, musicians and countercultural groups.

So while very long hair on men was still quite rare in the 1930s when this "prophetic vision" originated, the description aligned with the dramatic shift in men's hairstyles that occurred just a few decades later as part of the 1960s counterculture revolution.

I remember having long hair and being forced to cut it to go on a mission for LDS church. It felt like my identity was stripped away.

The musical, "Hair" was popular - shoulder length or longer.

Long hair on men became a symbol of the hippie movement, anti-war protests, sexual liberation, and rejection of established norms around appearance and gender roles. Rock musicians like The Beatles popularized this look, which was seen as provocative and threatening to the older generation at the time. By foreshadowing "long hair on men" decades before this seismic cultural shift occurred, the prophecy displayed an eerily accurate vision of the subversive changes and societal unraveling that would take place in the 1960s youth counterculture

Sexual deviants - 66

20

Anómalos sexuales _ 66

"Anómalos sexuales - 66"

"Sexual deviants - 66" or "Sexual anomalies - 66"

Notes:

The year 66 potentially refers to 1966, which was right in the midst of the sexual revolution and counterculture movements of the 1960s that challenged traditional sexual norms and gender roles.

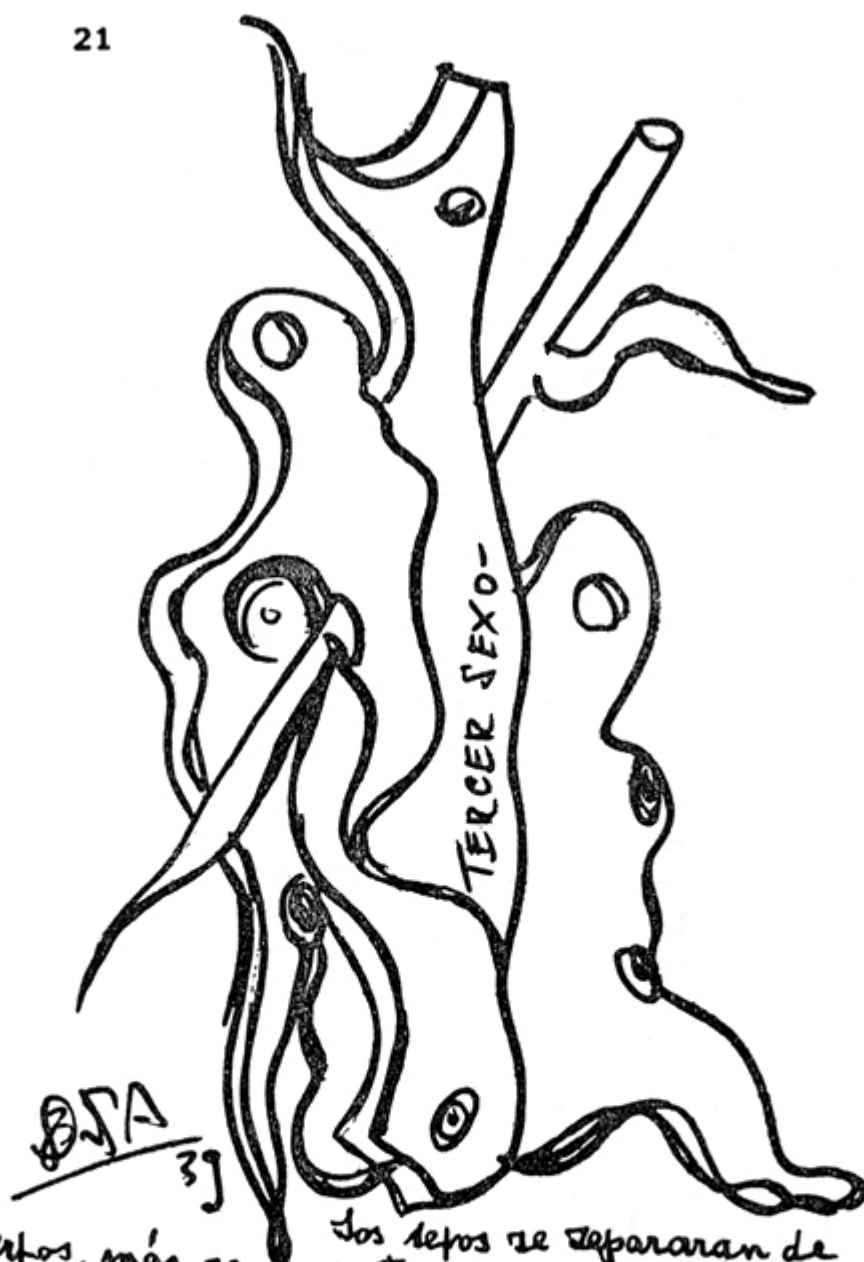

Some context around how this phrase could relate to those cultural shifts:

- In the 1960s, views opened up around non-traditional sexual orientations and identities that had previously been considered "deviant" or unacceptable by mainstream society.
- Groups like gay rights activists and feminists pushed for more openness and acceptance around sexualities and expressions of gender that deviated from conservative norms.
- The "free love" movement promoted more open attitudes towards premarital sex, experimentation, and non-monogamous relationships.
- Underground cultures explored transgressive or avant-garde sexualities and gender performances.
- There was a proliferation of art, literature, and media depicting or discussing "deviant" sexual themes that had been taboo.

So in 1966, at the peak of the sexual revolution, the term "anómalos sexuales" or "sexual deviants/anomalies" may have referred to the increasingly visible presence and advocacy of LGBTQ identities, unconventional relationships, explicit content, and the questioning of traditional sexual/gender norms and binaries. It captured the subversive undercurrent around sex and gender that was part of the counterculture's broader rebellion.

Third Sex

21

Los sexos se separarán de cuerpos, más se encontrarán en sexos - es decir en sexos idénticos. Un nuevo sexo se les interpondrá.
 El sexo regresará en búsquedas del ayer
 y el humano en un principio les tuvo - el sexo en desvío anunciará el final de finales y el principio a empezar

Tercer Sexo - Los sexos se separarán de cuerpos. mas se encontrarán en sexos, es decir en sexos idénticos. Un nuevo sexo se les interpondrá. El sexo regresará en búsquedas del ayer. El ser humano en un principio les tuvo.
 El sexo en desvío anunciará el final de finales y el principio a empezar.

Tercer Sexo - Los sexos se separarán de cuerpos. mas se encontrarán en sexos, es decir en sexos idénticos. Un nuevo sexo se les interpondrá. El sexo regresará en búsquedas del ayer. El ser humano en un principio les tuvo. El sexo en desvío anunciará el final de finales y el principio a empezar.

Third Sex - The sexes will separate from bodies. But they will find themselves in sexes, that is, in identical sexes. A new sex will interpose itself between them. Sex will regress in searches of yesterday. The human being originally had them. Sex in deviation will announce the end of ends and the beginning to start over.

Notes:

This enigmatic passage seems to prophesize the emergence of a "third sex" or non-binary gender identity that will challenge and disrupt traditional binary concepts of gender and sexuality.

Some key points from the translation:

- The sexes (genders) will separate from physical bodies, existing in a more conceptual/identity realm.
- They will find themselves in "identical sexes" - perhaps referring to same-gender attraction/relations.
- A "new sex" will arise, distinct from the traditional male/female binary.
- Sex/gender will regress or revisit more ambiguous states from the past.
- Human beings originally exhibited these non-binary gender traits before they were suppressed.
- This "deviant" expression of sex/gender will signal an ending and a new beginning.

The prophetic language evokes the emergence of trans, non-binary, and queer identities that destabilize entrenched ideas about rigid gender binaries and sexualities. It suggests a return to more fluid concepts that existed before rigid norms around sex/gender were enforced.

The Sun Laughs Last

El sol revelará males que se creyeron de risa
y serán graves.

El sol revelará males que se creyeron de risa
y serán graves.

The sun will reveal evils that were thought to be laughable, and they will be serious.

Note:

Prophetic quote could potentially relate to the issue of ozone depletion and its environmental impacts being initially dismissed before the seriousness of the problem became undeniable. Here's how it could apply:

"The sun will reveal evils that were thought to be laughable, and they will be serious."

- The "sun" in this context could refer to the sun's ultraviolet radiation reaching Earth's surface due to ozone depletion.
- In the 1970s-1980s, early warnings about CFCs and other chemicals depleting the ozone layer were often downplayed or mocked by some as environmental alarmism.
- The "evils" of ozone depletion allowing more harmful UV rays to penetrate were seen as a laughable concern by many at first.
- However, as the ozone hole over Antarctica grew and UV levels increased, the serious consequences like increased skin cancer risks could no longer be ignored.
- The depletion of this protective ozone layer revealed the "evil" of excessive UV exposure, which had initially been treated as an insignificant issue by many.

So in that interpretation, the "sun" is literally exposing the "evil" of ozone depletion by allowing more of its harmful rays through. What was first disregarded as an exaggerated worry turned out to be a serious environmental problem revealed by the atmospheric changes.

Artificial Hearts

El corazón será artificial en el año 66 (Profecía año 1938)

"El corazón será artificial en el año 66" B.S.P. 1938

"The heart will be artificial in the year 66" B.S.P. 1938

Interpretation:

- Drawing elements: The drawing shows a figure, likely representing a human, holding an object close to their chest, which may symbolize an artificial heart. The background has abstract shapes, perhaps symbolizing medical instruments or the concept of life and technology merging.
- Text analysis: The text prophesizes the advent of artificial hearts by the year 1966. This prediction aligns with the advancements in medical technology during the 20th century, specifically in the development of artificial organs.
- Combined interpretation: This psychograph foresees the development and use of artificial hearts by 1966, indicating a significant medical breakthrough in heart surgery and organ replacement technology.

CONTEXT

- The first fully artificial heart was implanted in a human patient in 1964 by Dr. Michael DeBakey, though the patient only survived for a few days.
- Throughout the 1960s, research into developing a total artificial heart as a permanent implant continued, with several animal trials.
- In 1966, Dr. Michael DeBakey was involved in the first human use of a partial artificial heart - the left ventricular assist device.
- This marked an important milestone, as it demonstrated artificial heart technology could be used to support the human circulatory system.

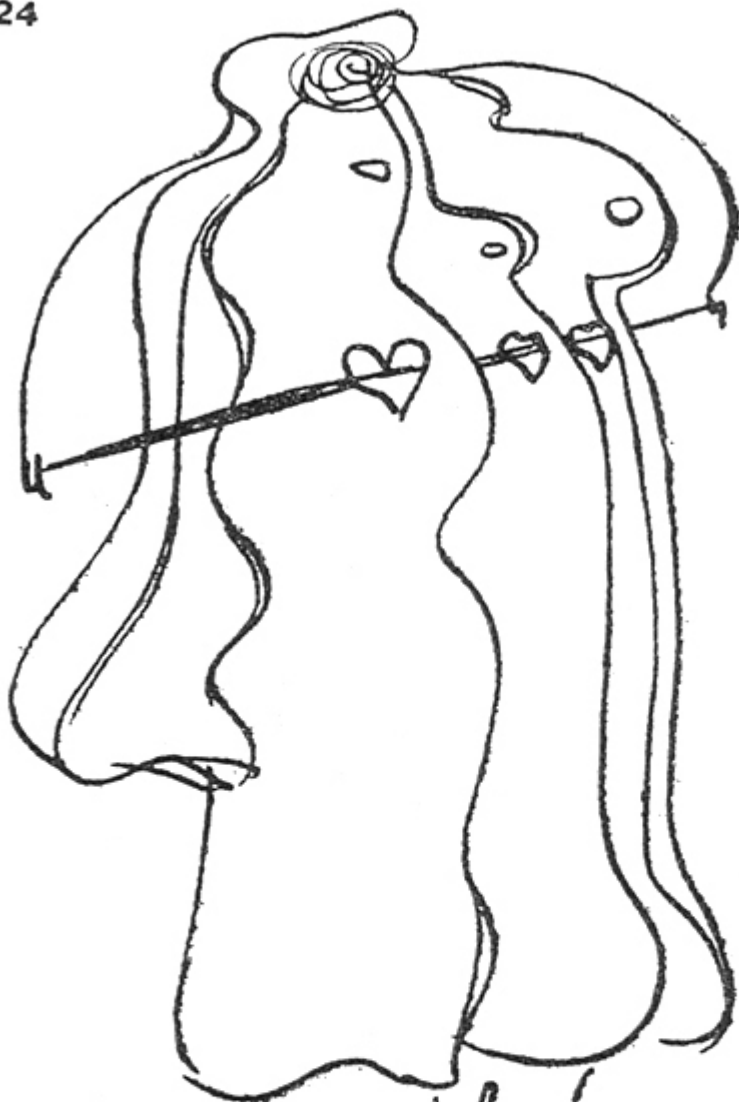

So while a permanent, total artificial heart implant was still years away in 1966, that year did see a major development with the first clinical use of an artificial heart device in a human patient. The phrase "El corazón será artificial en el 66" appears to have accurately predicted or foreseen this medical breakthrough related to artificial heart technology happening in 1966 specifically.

see B-053

Artificial Heart & Brain

24

M. H. Landanarqui
39 Corazones artificiales en el '65 y luego cerebros!

Corazones artificiales en el 65 y luego cerebros

Corazones artificiales en el '65 y luego cerebros

"Artificial hearts in '65 and then brains"

This seems to be prophesying or predicting two major developments:

1. Artificial hearts in 1965
2. Artificial brains/minds coming after the artificial heart breakthrough

Regarding artificial hearts in 1965:

- This lines up closely with the first implantation of a temporary artificial heart in a human, performed by Dr. Michael DeBakey in 1964.
- 1965 saw continued animal trials and research pushing towards a permanent artificial heart implant.
- So while not yet a permanent solution in 1965 itself, major strides towards an artificial heart replacement were made that year.

As for "and then brains" - this appears to foresee research into replicating or interfacing with the human brain/mind through artificial means after first succeeding with the heart.

Some potential interpretations of "artificial brains":

- Development of neural networks/artificial intelligence
- Brain-computer interfaces
- Efforts towards mind uploading/backups
- Mimicking the computational functionality of the brain

So this prophetic statement accurately pinpoints 1965 as a pivotal year for artificial heart research laying the groundwork. And it then suggests the next frontier being replicating or augmenting the human mind/brain itself through artificial means - a field of research that grew in subsequent decades.

see: B-052 E-013

Declining Births

La natalidad preocupará hasa el Papado. ¡Inútil será!
La natalidad no debe ser tocada ¡Dios lo hará!

La natalidad preocupará hasta el Papado. ¡Inútil será! La natalidad no debe ser tocada ¡Dios lo hará!

Birthrates will worry even the Papacy. It will be useless! Birthrates should not be touched. God will take care of it!

This seems to be a prophecy or warning about declining birthrates becoming a major concern, even for the highest authorities in the Catholic Church (the Papacy). However, it suggests any efforts by humans to try to control or influence birthrates will be "useless" and that only God should determine such matters.

Some potential interpretations of how this could manifest:

- Birthrates falling dramatically in many countries, leading to demographic crisis and population decline worries among leaders.
- The Catholic Church expressing alarm over low birthrates and any artificial means of birth control being seen as violating God's will.
- A pushback against policies aimed at curbing population growth through family planning measures.
- A belief that only divine providence, not human intervention, should regulate how many children are born.
- Tensions between institutions like the Papacy advocating for higher fertility rates and societal trends towards smaller families.

The prophecy presents a polarized view - birthrates plummeting to a level that alarms even religious authorities, but also a fundamentalist stance that birthing should be left completely in God's hands without any human family planning measures employed. It foresees a crisis point where declining fertility becomes a major issue dividing secular and religious perspectives.

Embryonic Destiny

El germen debe nacer y si hambre y guerras halla, tendrá que vivirle, será su destino. Dios le envía
Cortarlo sería culpa sin perdón!

¿Y éste? este es el niño a nacer si la madre le mata
perece sin cumplir su destino

El germen debe nacer y si hambre y guerras halla,
tendrá que vivirle, será su destino. Dios le envía
Cortarlo sería culpa sin perdón!

¿Y éste? este es el niño a nacer si la madre le mata
perece sin cumplir su destino.

The germ (embryo/fetus) must be born and if it encounters hunger and wars, it will have to live through them, that will be its destiny. God sends it. To cut it off would be an unforgivable sin! And this? This is the child to be born, if the mother kills it it perishes without fulfilling its destiny.

This continues the theme of the previous prophecy about birthrates and natalidad (birth/natality). It presents an absolutist, anti-abortion stance that every conceived embryo/fetus must be allowed to be born no matter the circumstances, as that is its God-given destiny.

Even if the child faces hardships like hunger and war after birth, it still must be born according to this view. Terminating a pregnancy is portrayed as the unforgivable "sin" of cutting off the fetus/germ before it can fulfill its destined life path as sent by God.

The last line drives this point home further - referring to an aborted fetus as "the child to be born" and saying if the mother kills it, that child "perishes without fulfilling its destiny."

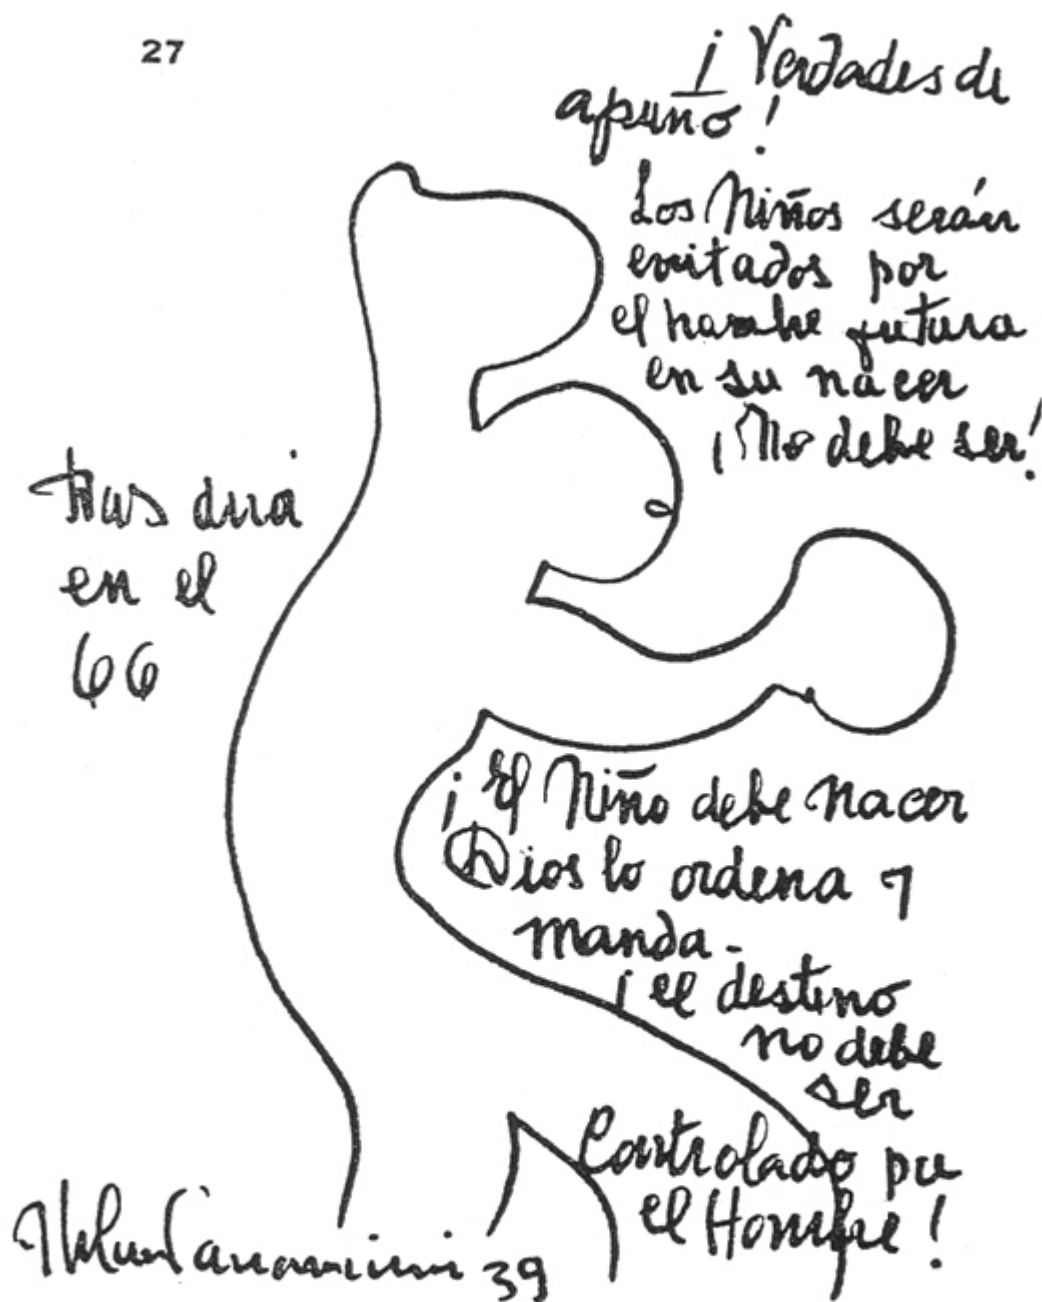

So this continues the theme of declining birthrates being a major crisis, but from the opposite extreme perspective - that every single conception must be allowed to birth under any circumstances, with abortion seen as a cardinal sin against the sanctity of the life God intended. It presents an uncompromising anti-abortion position rooted in religious doctrine about the inviolable destiny of every conceived embryo/fetus.

Questions:

- What role does the woman play? Is she just a passive vessel?

- Rape? Health risk? Deformed child?
- Could women have careers in this world?
- An asteroid could wipe out life on earth - what about their destiny?

Divine Decree on Birth and Destiny

Dios dirá en el 66 ¡Verdades de a puño! Los Niños serán evitados por el hambre futuro en su nacer ¡No debe ser! ¡El Niño debe nacer Dios lo ordena y manda- ¡el destino no debe ser controlado por el Hombre!

Dios dirá en el 66 ¡Verdades de a puño! Los Niños serán evitados por el hambre futuro en su nacer
 ¡No debe ser! ¡El Niño debe nacer Dios lo ordena y manda- ¡el destino no debe ser controlado por el Hombre!

God will say in the 66, Truths with a fist! The Children will be avoided due to future hunger at their birth. It should not be! The Child must be born, God orders it and commands - the fate should not be controlled by Man!

Note:

- The phrase "God will say in the 66, Truths with a fist!" could be interpreted as a prophecy or a divine message that will be delivered with force or conviction.
- "The Children will be avoided due to future hunger at their birth" suggests a grim future where children may be neglected or abandoned due to scarcity of resources or fear of impending famine.
- "It should not be! The Child must be born, God orders it and commands" emphasizes the sanctity of life and the divine mandate for procreation, regardless of the circumstances.
- "The fate should not be controlled by Man!" implies a warning against human interference with destiny or natural order.

Overall, this passage seems to convey a strong message about the sanctity of life, the importance of faith in divine providence, and a caution against human attempts to control or manipulate fate, especially in the face of adversity or hardship.

Questions:

- If you are starving and homeless, you should still have children? Seems kind of crazy.
- Perhaps we lack faith, but the health of the woman would indicate limiting children at some point.

Using the calendar of the Prophetic Clock book, this is 1964?

Sterilization Prophecy

28

¡La mujer
será esterilizada para no ser
Madre!

38 Benjamín Solari Parravicini

¡La mujer será esterilizada para no ser Madre!

"¡La mujer será esterilizada para no ser Madre!" B.S.P. 1938

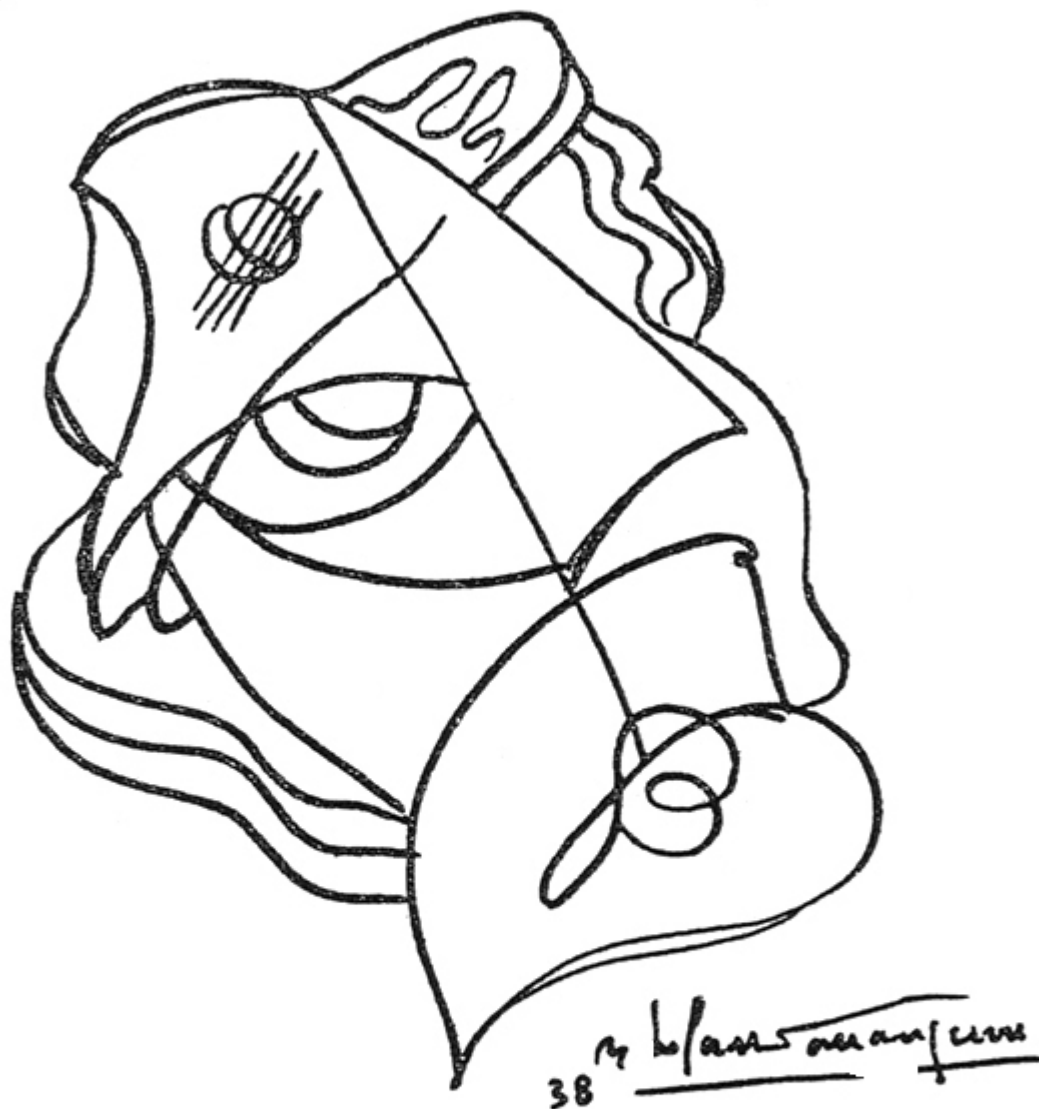

"The woman will be sterilized to not be a Mother!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement seems to be a prediction or prophecy made in 1938, suggesting a future where women will be sterilized, preventing them from becoming mothers. This could be interpreted in several ways:

- It might be a commentary on population control measures or policies that could be implemented in the future.
- It could also be a metaphorical statement about societal changes that might discourage or prevent women from motherhood.
- It might be a warning or a call to action against such practices or trends.

Prophecy of Male Sterilization

29

38 el hombre sera esterilizado
para no fecundar

El hombre será esterilizado para no fecundar

"El hombre será esterilizado para no fecundar." B.S.P. 1938

"The man will be sterilized to not fertilize." B.S.P. 1938

This statement, like the previous one about women, seems to be a prophecy or prediction made in 1938. It suggests a future where men will be sterilized, preventing them from fathering children. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could be a commentary on future population control measures, where not just women, but also men are subjected to sterilization.
- It might be a metaphorical statement about societal or cultural changes that discourage or prevent men from fatherhood.
- It could be seen as a warning or a call to action against such practices or trends.

This seems to be fairly common today - accurate prediction.

The End of Motherhood

30

Maternidad - no será Ya!

"Maternidad - no será. ¡Ya!" B.S.P. 1938

"Motherhood - will not be. Now!" B.S.P. 1938

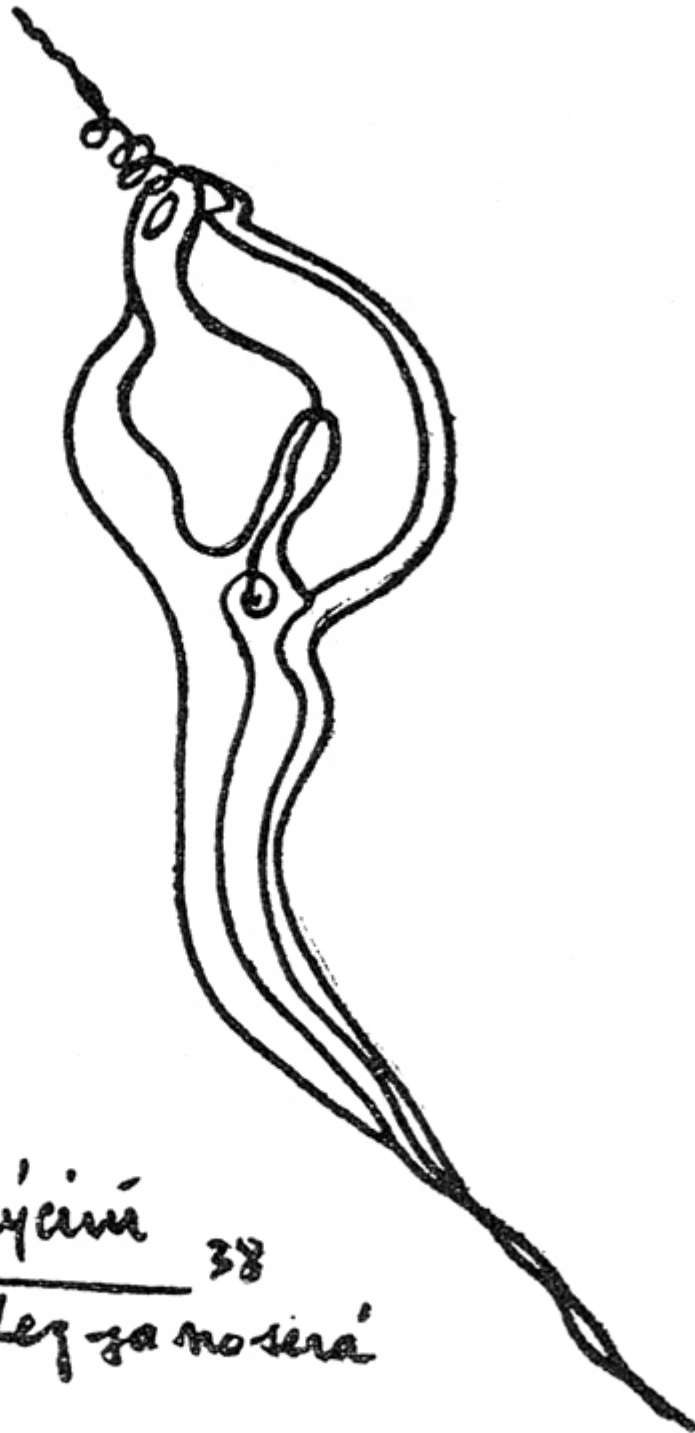

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where motherhood will cease to exist. The use of "Now!" could suggest an immediate or imminent change. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could be a prophecy about drastic changes in societal or cultural norms related to motherhood.
- It might suggest a future where biological reproduction is no longer the norm, possibly due to advances in technology or changes in population control measures.
- It could be a warning or a call to action against trends or policies that discourage motherhood.

The context in which this statement was made would provide more insights into its intended meaning. It's also interesting to note that this prophecy continues the theme of the previous ones, suggesting a comprehensive vision of future reproductive trends or policies.

The End of Pregnancy

31

My / Benjamín Solari Parravicini 38
La Gravidéz ya no será

La gravidéz ya no será

"La gravidez ya no será" B.S.P. 1938

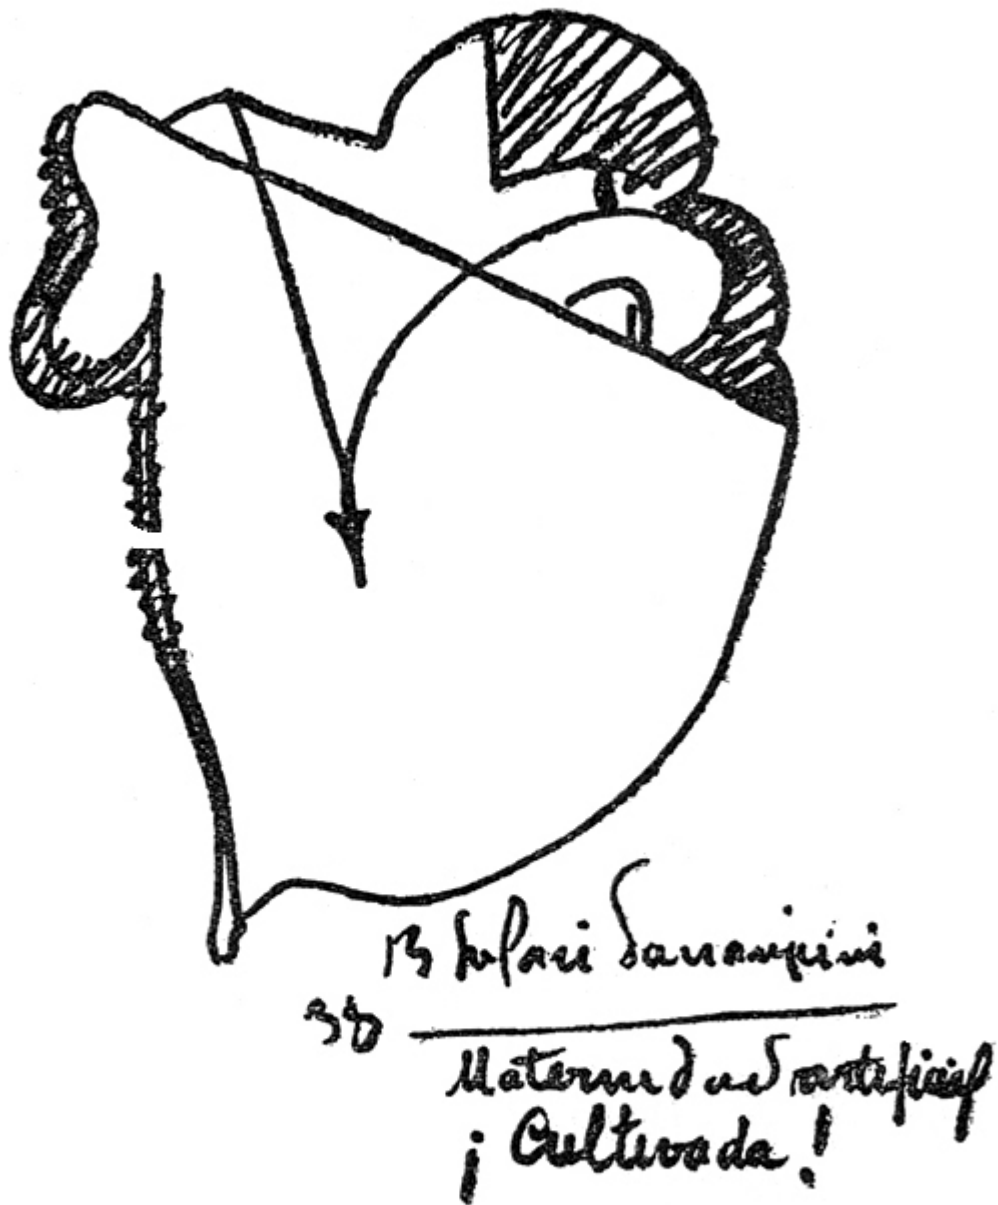

"Pregnancy will no longer be" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where pregnancy will cease to exist. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could be a prophecy about significant changes in the way human reproduction occurs in the future. This might suggest a shift away from natural pregnancy, possibly due to advances in medical or reproductive technology.
- It might be a commentary on future population control measures or policies that discourage or prevent pregnancy.
- It could be seen as a warning or a call to action against such practices or trends.
- The world population was 2.3 billion in 1940 compared to 8 billion today.
 - Fertility rates are dropping. Seems like an accurate prediction.
 - U.S. Fertility Rate Drops to Another Historic Low

Artificial Motherhood

32

Maternidad artificial ¡Cultivada!

"Maternidad artificial ¡Cultivada!" B.S.P. 1938

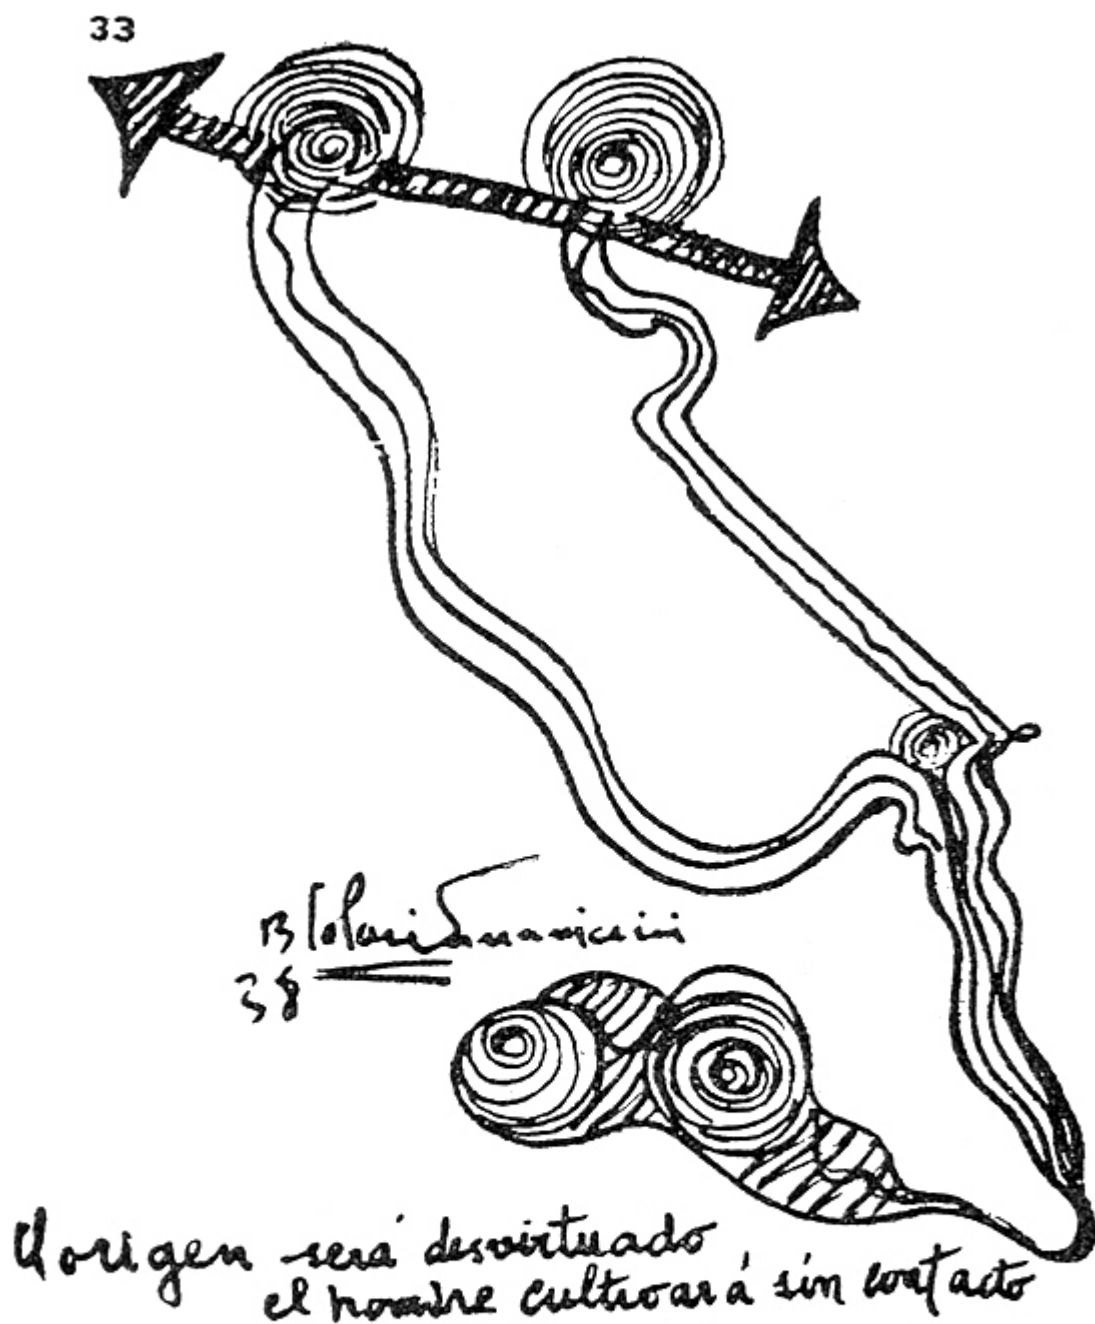

"Artificial motherhood! Cultivated!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where motherhood becomes artificial and cultivated. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could suggest a future where biological reproduction is replaced or supplemented by artificial methods. This might include technologies like artificial wombs, in vitro fertilization, or other forms of assisted reproductive technology.
- The use of the word "cultivated" might imply that this change is not just a technological development, but also a societal or cultural shift. It could suggest a future where motherhood is seen or treated in a more controlled or managed way, similar to how crops are cultivated.
- It could also be seen as a commentary on future trends or policies related to reproduction and family life.

Without more context, it's difficult to provide a definitive interpretation. However, this statement seems to predict a future marked by significant changes in the nature of motherhood and reproduction.

Distortion of Origins and Contactless Cultivation

El origen será desvirtuado
el hombre cultivará sin contacto

"El origen será desvirtuado
el hombre cultivará sin contacto" B.S.P. 1938

"The origin will be distorted man will cultivate without contact" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where the understanding of origins becomes distorted and human cultivation occurs without direct contact. Here are some possible interpretations:

- "The origin will be distorted" could suggest a future where historical, biological, or cultural origins are misunderstood or misrepresented. This could be due to changes in societal values, loss of historical records, or advancements in technology that alter perceptions of the past.
- "Man will cultivate without contact" might imply a future where farming or cultivation is done without direct human involvement, possibly due to advancements in technology such as automation or hydroponics. It could also metaphorically suggest a future where human relationships or interactions lack personal contact.

Without more context, it's difficult to provide a definitive interpretation. However, this statement seems to predict a future marked by distorted understandings of the past and impersonal methods of cultivation or interaction.

End of Original Sin

34

¡El pecado original ya no sera!

"¡El pecado original ya no será!" B.S.P. 1938

"The original sin will no longer be!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where the concept of "original sin" will no longer exist or be relevant. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could suggest a significant shift in religious beliefs or doctrines. The concept of original sin is central to many Christian denominations, so this could imply a major transformation or even decline of these traditions.
- It might also be a metaphorical statement about human nature or morality. If "original sin" is interpreted as a symbol of inherent human flaws or capacity for wrongdoing, this could suggest a future where such tendencies are overcome.
- It could be seen as a prophecy about advances in science or technology that somehow eliminate or bypass what's traditionally been seen as "original sin."

Without more context, it's difficult to provide a definitive interpretation. However, this statement seems to predict a future marked by significant changes in religious or moral understanding.

Arrival of the Space Age

¡Llega la era espacial!
¡Cuidado que perderán!

¡Llega la era espacial!
¡Cuidado que perderán! B.S.P. 1938

"The space age arrives! Beware that they will lose!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement seems to be a prophecy made in 1938 about the advent of the space age, a period marked by space exploration. Here are some possible interpretations:

- "The space age arrives!" suggests a prediction of the era of space exploration that indeed began in the mid-20th century.
- "Beware that they will lose!" is a warning, though it's not clear who "they" refers to. It could suggest that despite the advancements of the space age, there may be significant losses or setbacks. This could refer to specific nations, humanity in general, or perhaps to certain values or aspects of life.

Without more context, it's difficult to provide a definitive interpretation. However, this statement seems to caution that the progress represented by the space age may come with unforeseen costs or consequences.

The dog will be the first flyer

El can será el primer volador (Profecía año 1938)

"El can será el primer volador" B.S.P. 1938

"The dog will be the first flyer" B.S.P. 1938

Interpretation:

- Drawing elements: The drawing shows a figure that appears to be a dog, drawn in an abstract, almost cartoonish style. The dog is standing upright, suggesting a sense of readiness or activity. There are minimal background elements, focusing attention on the dog itself.
 - Text analysis: The prophecy states that "the dog will be the first flyer." This statement can be interpreted as predicting that a dog would be among the first animals to achieve flight, possibly referring to space travel or high-altitude experiments.
 - Combined interpretation: The combined interpretation suggests that Benjamin Solari Parravicini foresaw dogs playing a significant role in early flight or space exploration. This aligns with historical events where dogs, such as Laika, were among the first animals sent into space, marking a significant milestone in aviation and space travel.
-

The Soviet Union was the first to send a living organism, a dog named Laika, into space. Laika was launched aboard the spacecraft Sputnik 2 on November 3, 1957. Unfortunately, the technology to return living beings safely back to Earth had not been developed at that time, and Laika did not survive the mission.

Prophecy of Flying Men in the 60s and 70s

37

¡ Hombres voladores
en la era 60 - 70 !

"¡Hombres voladores
en la era 60 - 70!" B.S.P. 1938

"Flying men in the era 60 - 70!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future, specifically in the 1960s and 1970s, where humans have the ability to fly. Here are some possible interpretations:

- Given the time frame specified, this could also be a reference to the space race and the achievement of manned space flight. The first human, Yuri Gagarin, orbited Earth in 1961, and the first manned moon landing occurred in 1969.

Space Shipping

38

Naviera en el espacio !

"¡Naviera en el espacio!" B.S.P. 1938

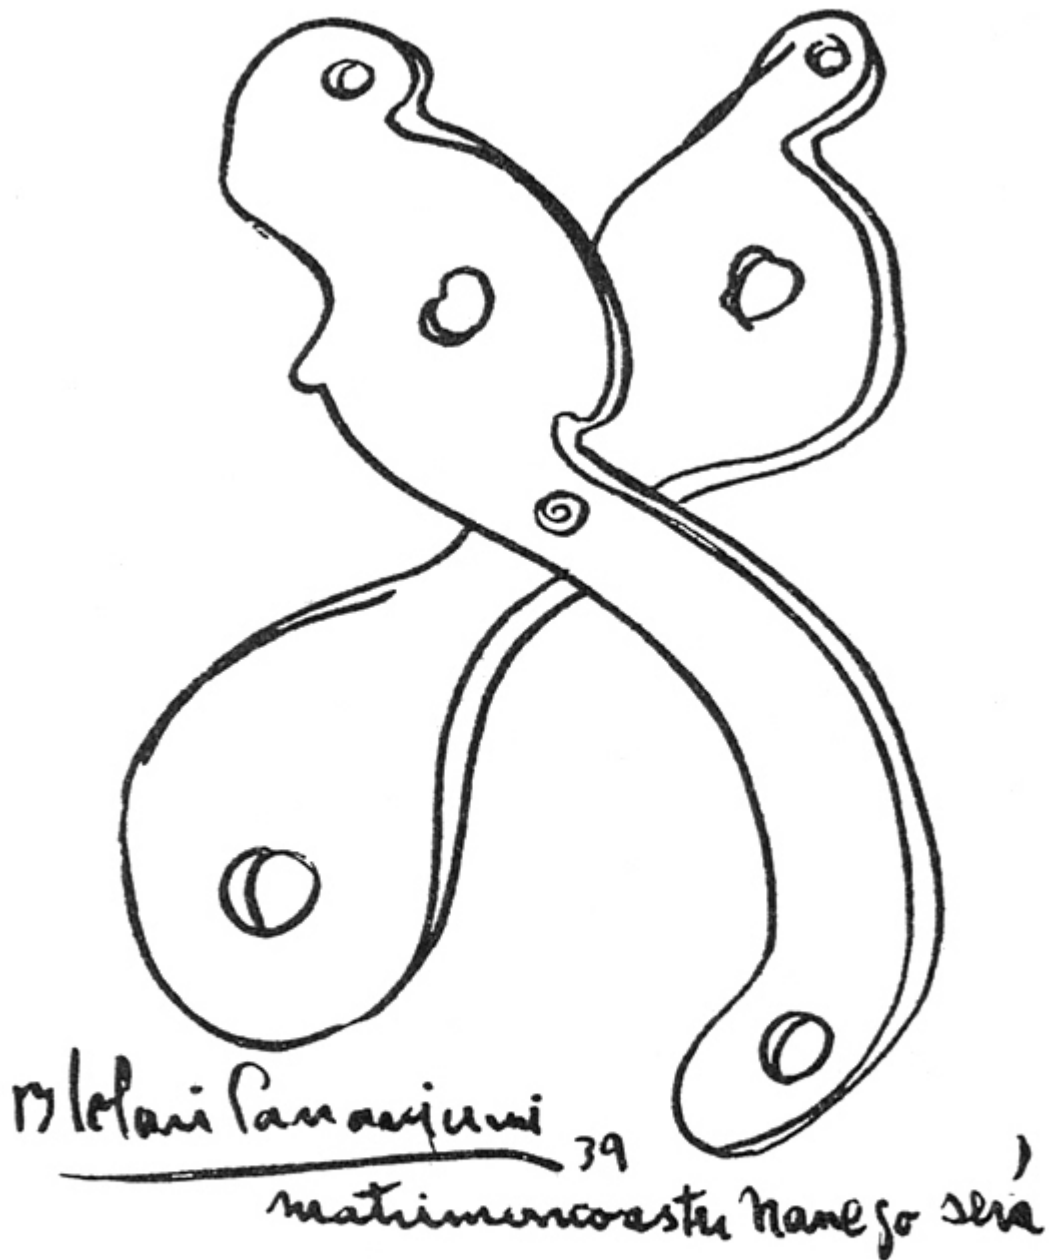

"Shipping in space!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement seems to predict a future where shipping or transportation occurs in space. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could suggest a future where space travel becomes commonplace, not just for exploration or scientific purposes, but also for transportation of goods. This might involve advancements in technology that make space travel more accessible and affordable.
- It might also imply the establishment of colonies or settlements in space, which would necessitate a system for transporting supplies and materials.
- Given the use of the term "naviera," which is often associated with maritime shipping companies, this could also suggest the development of commercial enterprises or industries related to space travel.

Astronaut Marriage

39

Matrimonio astronavego será

"Matrimonio astronavego será" B.S.P. 1939

"Astronaut marriage will be" B.S.P. 1939

This statement from 1939 seems to predict a future where astronaut marriage becomes a reality or a significant phenomenon. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could suggest a future where space travel becomes so commonplace that it impacts personal relationships and social institutions like marriage. This might involve astronauts getting married in space, or marriages between astronauts becoming a significant trend.
- It might also imply changes in societal norms or laws related to marriage as a result of space travel. For example, there might be new legal or practical considerations for marriages that take place in space or between individuals living in different planets or space colonies.
- It could also be a metaphorical statement about the merging or "marriage" of different fields or disciplines, such as space science and social science, in the future.

There was an instance where an astronaut, Yuri Malenchenko, married his fiancée Ekaterina Dmitrieva from the International Space Station in 2003. The bride was in Texas, while the groom was orbiting the Earth. It was the first-ever wedding where one of the participants was in space.

The Wandering Knight in Space

40

36 Benjamín Solari Parravicini

caballero andante en el espacio -

Caballero andante en el espacio

"Caballero andante en el espacio." B.S.P. 1936

"Wandering gentleman/knight in space." B.S.P. 1936

This statement from 1936 seems to predict a future where there is a "wandering knight in space." Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could suggest a future where individuals explore space independently, similar to how knights-errant would wander in search of adventures in medieval tales. This might involve advancements in technology that make space travel accessible to individuals, not just large organizations or governments.
- The term "knight" often implies chivalry, bravery, and a code of honor. This could suggest a future where space explorers are seen as modern-day knights, upholding certain values or principles.
- It might also be a metaphorical statement about the role of humans in space. The "wandering knight" could symbolize humanity's quest for knowledge, adventure, or new frontiers.

The term "caballero andante" is often associated with the character of Don Quixote from Miguel de Cervantes' novel. Don Quixote is known as a "knight-errant," wandering the land in search of adventure. If this association is intended, the statement could be suggesting a future where space explorers take on a Quixotic role, perhaps idealistically pursuing lofty goals or dreams in the vastness of space. This could imply a sense of romanticism, idealism, or even folly in the pursuit of space exploration.

Intoxication and Death in Space

Embriaguez en el alto del hombre Volador!
¡Morirán sin regreso!

"Embriaguez en el alto del hombre Volador!
¡Morirán sin regreso!" B.S.P. 1938

"Embriaguez en el alto del hombre Volador! ¡Morirán sin regreso!" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where there is intoxication at the height of the flying man and a death without return. Here are some possible interpretations:

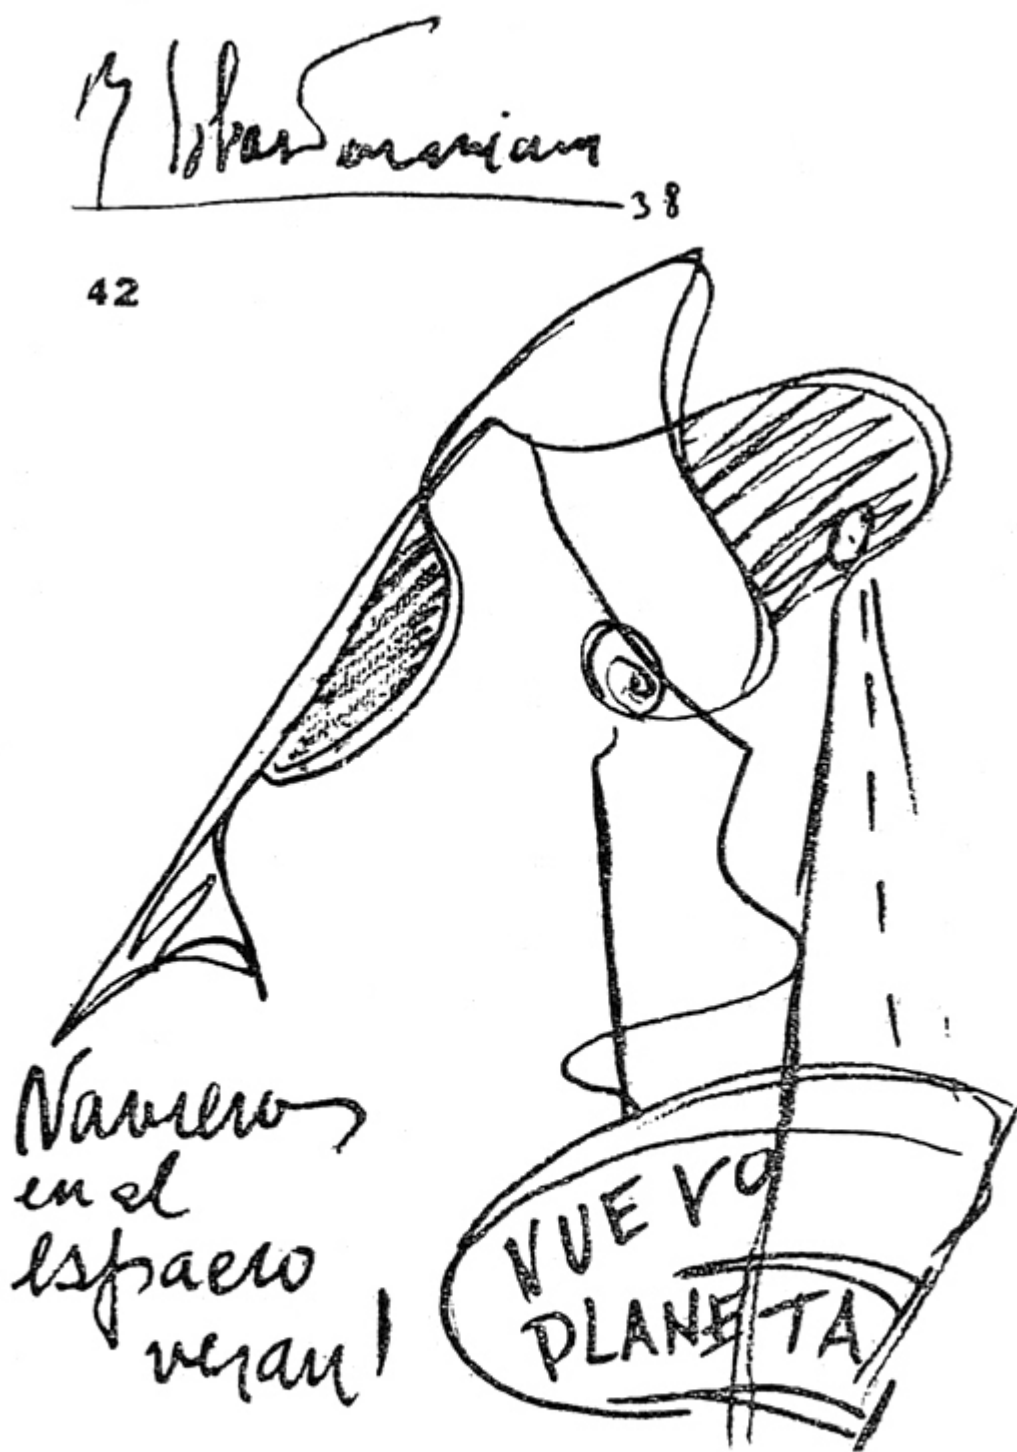

- "Intoxication at the height of the flying man" could suggest a future where humans achieve great heights (literally or metaphorically) but also face significant risks or dangers. The term "intoxication" might imply a sense of euphoria or recklessness associated with these achievements.
- "They will die without return" is a warning, though it's not clear who "they" refers to. It could suggest that despite the advancements of the space age, there may be significant losses or setbacks. This could refer to specific individuals, humanity in general, or perhaps to certain values or aspects of life.
- Given the context of other prophecies, this could also be a reference to the dangers of space travel. The "flying man" could be an astronaut, and "intoxication" could refer to the physical or psychological effects of space travel. "Die without return" could refer to the risk of fatal accidents in space, from which there is no return.

There have been several major space disasters throughout the history of space exploration. Here are a few:

1. Apollo 1 (1967): During a pre-launch test, a fire broke out in the command module, killing all three astronauts on board: Gus Grissom, Ed White, and Roger B. Chaffee.
2. Space Shuttle Challenger (1986): Just 73 seconds after launch, the Challenger broke apart, leading to the deaths of all seven crew members. The crew included Christa McAuliffe, who was set to be the first teacher in space.

3. Space Shuttle Columbia (2003): The Columbia disintegrated upon re-entry into Earth's atmosphere, killing all seven crew members. The cause was damage to the thermal protection system on one of the wings, which occurred during launch.
4. Soyuz 1 (1967) and Soyuz 11 (1971): These were two fatal missions of the Soviet space program. Soyuz 1 ended in a crash due to a parachute failure, killing cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov. Soyuz 11 depressurized during preparations for re-entry, killing all three crew members on board.

Space Sailors Discovering a New Planet

Navieros en el espacio verán Nuevo planeta

"Navieros en el espacio verán Nuevo planeta" B.S.P. 1938

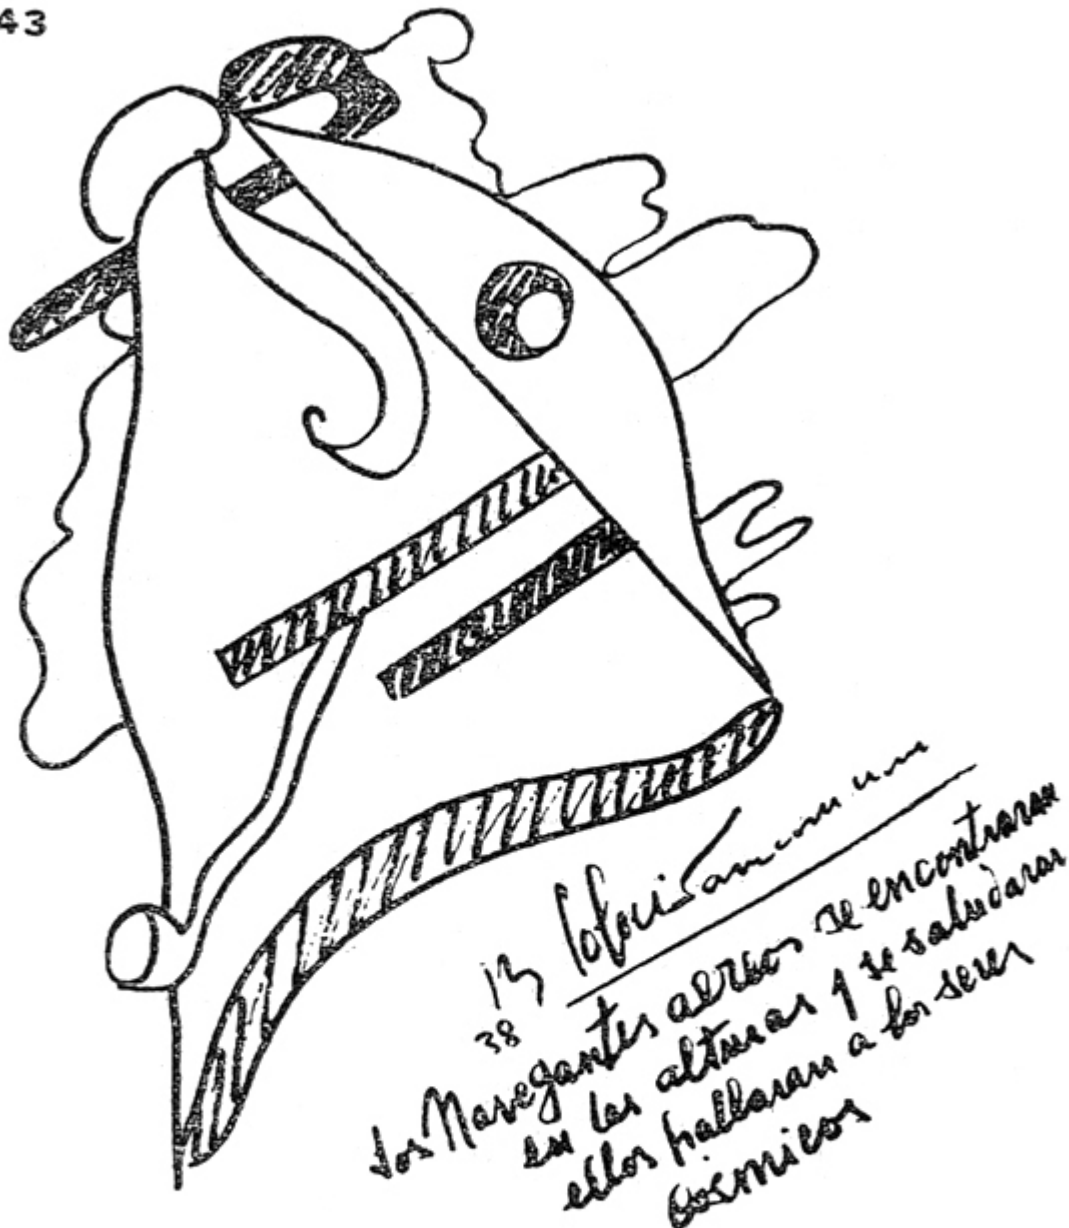

"Sailors in space will see a new planet" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where sailors in space will discover a new planet. Here are some possible interpretations:

- It could suggest a future where space travel becomes so advanced that humans are able to discover and explore new planets. The term "sailors" implies a sense of adventure and exploration, similar to maritime sailors discovering new lands in the past.
- It might also imply the establishment of a permanent human presence in space, such as space colonies or long-term space missions, which would allow for more extensive exploration and discovery.
- Given the context of other prophecies, this could also be a reference to the discovery of exoplanets, planets that orbit a star outside of our solar system. The first exoplanets were discovered in the 1990s, and thousands have been discovered since then.

Aerial Navigators Meeting Cosmic Beings

43

Los navegantes aéreos se encontrarán
en las alturas y se saludarán.
Ellos hallarán a los seres cósmicos

"Los navegantes aéreos se encontrarán
en las alturas y se saludarán.
Ellos hallarán a los seres cósmicos" B.S.P. 1938

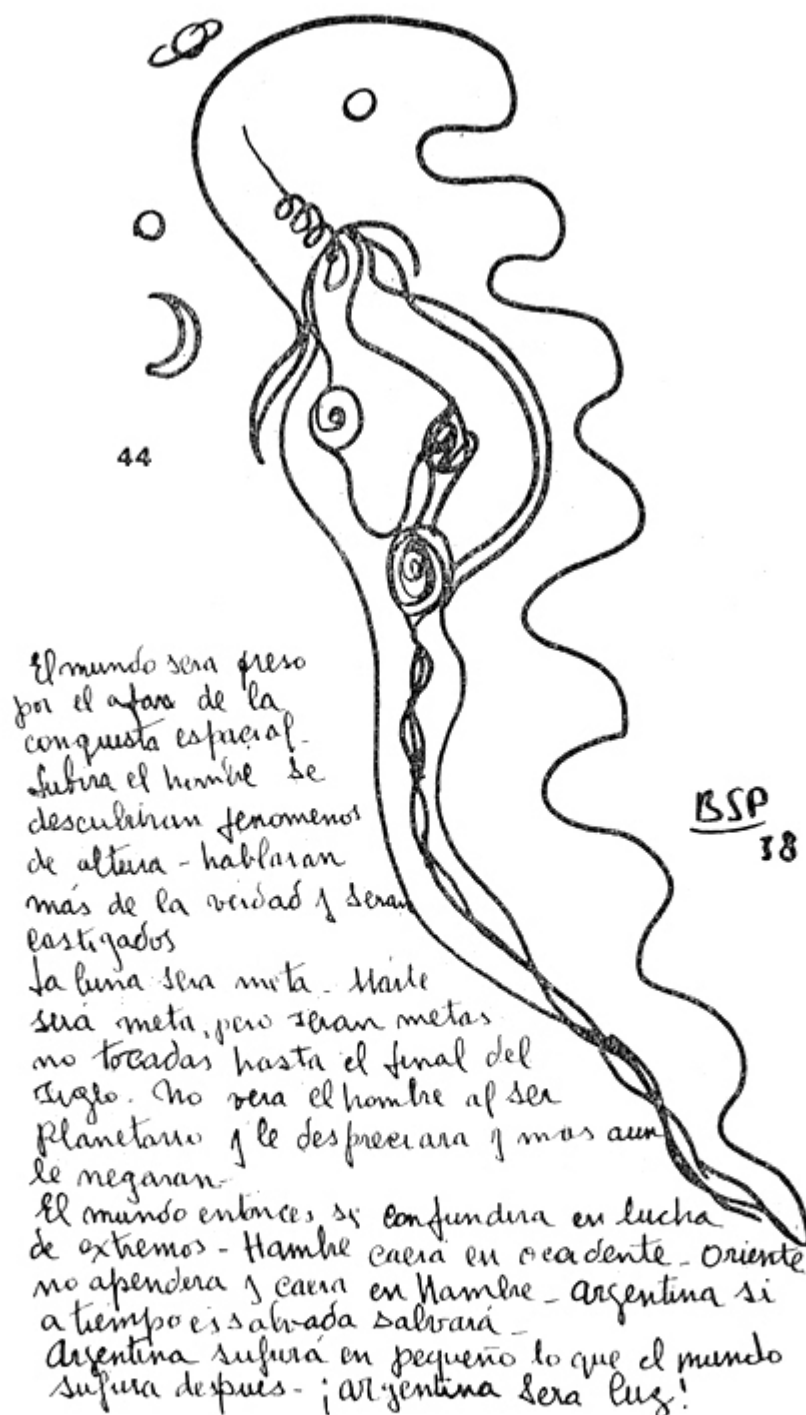

"The aerial navigators will meet at the heights and will greet each other. They will find the cosmic beings" B.S.P. 1938

This statement from 1938 seems to predict a future where aerial navigators meet at great heights and encounter cosmic beings. Here are some possible interpretations:

- "The aerial navigators will meet at the heights and will greet each other" could suggest a future where space travel becomes commonplace, allowing for regular interactions between astronauts or space travelers. This might involve advancements in technology that make space travel more accessible and routine.
- "They will find the cosmic beings" is a fascinating prediction that could suggest the discovery of extraterrestrial life. The term "cosmic beings" implies intelligent life forms that exist elsewhere in the universe.
- This statement could also be metaphorical, suggesting a future where humans gain a greater understanding of the universe and our place within it. The "cosmic beings" could symbolize this broader cosmic perspective.

=Without more context, it's difficult to provide a definitive interpretation. However, this statement seems to predict a future marked by regular space travel and possibly the discovery of extraterrestrial life.=

Space Conquest and Global Challenges

El mundo será preso por el afán de la conquista espacial. Subirá el hombre, se descubrirán fenómenos de altura - hablarán mas de la verdad y serán castigados.

La Luna será meta - Marte será meta, pero serán metas no tocadas hasta el final del siglo. No verá el hombre al ser planetario y le despreciará y mas aún le negarán.

El mundo entonces se confundirá en lucha de extremos -

Hambre caerá en occidente - Oriente no aprenderá y caerá en Hambre Argentina si a tiempo es salvada salvará - Argentina sufrirá en pequeño lo que el mundo sufrirá después - ¡ Argentina será luz !

"El mundo será preso por el afán de la conquista espacial. Subirá el hombre, se descubrirán fenómenos de altura - hablarán más de la verdad y serán castigados. La Luna será meta - Marte será meta, pero serán metas no tocadas hasta el final del siglo. No verá el hombre al ser planetario y le despreciará, y más aún, le negarán. El mundo entonces se confundirá en lucha de extremos - Hambre caerá en occidente - Oriente no aprenderá y caerá en Hambre. Argentina, si a tiempo es salvada, salvará - Argentina sufrirá en pequeño lo que el mundo sufrirá después - ¡Argentina será luz!" B.S.P. 1938

"The world will be captivated by the desire for space conquest. Man will ascend, phenomena of height will be discovered - they will speak more of the truth and will be punished. The Moon will be a goal - Mars will be a goal, but they will be goals not touched until the end of the century. Man will not see the planetary being and will despise it, and even more, they will deny it. The world will then be confused in a struggle of extremes - Hunger will fall in the West - The East will not learn and will fall into Hunger. Argentina, if saved in time, will save - Argentina will suffer in small what the world will suffer later - Argentina will be light!" B.S.P. 1938

This passage seems to be a prophecy or prediction about future events. Here are some possible interpretations:

- "The world will be captivated by the desire for space conquest" suggests a future where space exploration and colonization become major global priorities.
- "Man will ascend, phenomena of height will be discovered - they will speak more of the truth and will be punished" could imply that with the exploration of space, humanity will gain new knowledge (truths), but there might be consequences or punishments for these discoveries.
- "The Moon will be a goal - Mars will be a goal, but they will be goals not touched until the end of the century" seems to predict that while the Moon and Mars will be targets for space exploration, they won't be reached until the end of the century.

- "Man will not see the planetary being and will despise it, and even more, they will deny it" could suggest a lack of recognition or appreciation for other forms of life or consciousness in the universe.
- "The world will then be confused in a struggle of extremes - Hunger will fall in the West - The East will not learn and will fall into Hunger" predicts global conflicts and widespread hunger.
- "Argentina, if saved in time, will save - Argentina will suffer in small what the world will suffer later - Argentina will be light!" suggests that Argentina will play a crucial role in these future events, possibly leading the way in overcoming these challenges.

Overall, this passage seems to predict a future marked by space exploration, global conflict, and widespread hunger, with a special role for Argentina in navigating these challenges.

Astral Attack on the Earthly Navigator

45

El Naviero terreno será atacado
por los astrales y callará

"El Naviero terreno será atacado
por los astrales y callará" B.S.P. 1938

"The earthly Navigator will be attacked by the astral ones and will fall silent"
B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a warning or a prophecy about a significant global event or challenge. The "attack" could represent a variety of things, from a physical disaster to a spiritual or existential crisis. The silence of the Earthly Navigator might suggest a failure to respond effectively, or it could symbolize a period of change and eventual rebirth. The passage underscores the importance of preparedness and resilience in the face of unknown challenges.

The Abduction of the Navigators by Ganymedes in Russia

46

Los Navieros serán raptados por los Ganímedes en Rusia

"Los Navieros serán raptados por los Ganímedes en Rusia" B.S.P. 1938

"The Navigators will be abducted by the Ganymedes in Russia" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy of a significant event involving Russia. The "abduction" could symbolize a shift in power, influence, or knowledge. The involvement of "Ganymedes" might suggest extraterrestrial intervention or influence, or it could represent a transformative force or event. The "Navigators" could represent those in positions of leadership or influence, suggesting that this event could have significant political or societal implications.

There is a well-known incident often referred to as the "Lake Baikal Humanoids" or "The Baikal Divers Incident." In 1982, during a training dive in Lake Baikal, Soviet military divers reportedly encountered humanoid beings in silver suits at a depth of about 50 meters. According to the reports, when the divers tried to capture one of these beings, they were propelled to the surface by a powerful force, resulting in serious injuries due to decompression sickness. However, these reports are often associated with UFO and alien encounter stories, and there is no official confirmation or widely accepted scientific evidence to support these claims.

The Conquest of Air - Easy then Hard

47

38
¡ el comienzo de la Conquista del aire sera facil
luego sera de muerte !

¡ El comienzo de la conquista del aire será fácil, luego será muerte !

"¡El comienzo de la conquista del aire
será fácil, luego será muerte!" B.S.P. 1938

"The beginning of the conquest of the air will be easy, then it will be death!"
B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a cautionary prophecy about the advancement of aviation and space exploration technology. The initial ease of "conquering the air" might refer to the rapid progress made in these fields. However, the subsequent mention of "death" could be a stark warning about the potential dangers associated with these advancements.

This could include physical dangers, such as accidents or conflicts stemming from the misuse of technology. It could also refer to metaphorical death, such as the loss of certain values or ways of life due to rapid technological progress. The passage underscores the need for careful consideration and ethical responsibility in the pursuit of technological advancement.

The Defeated Astronaut's Warning

48

Benjamín Solari Parravicini 38
el derrotado astronauta dirá y espantará.

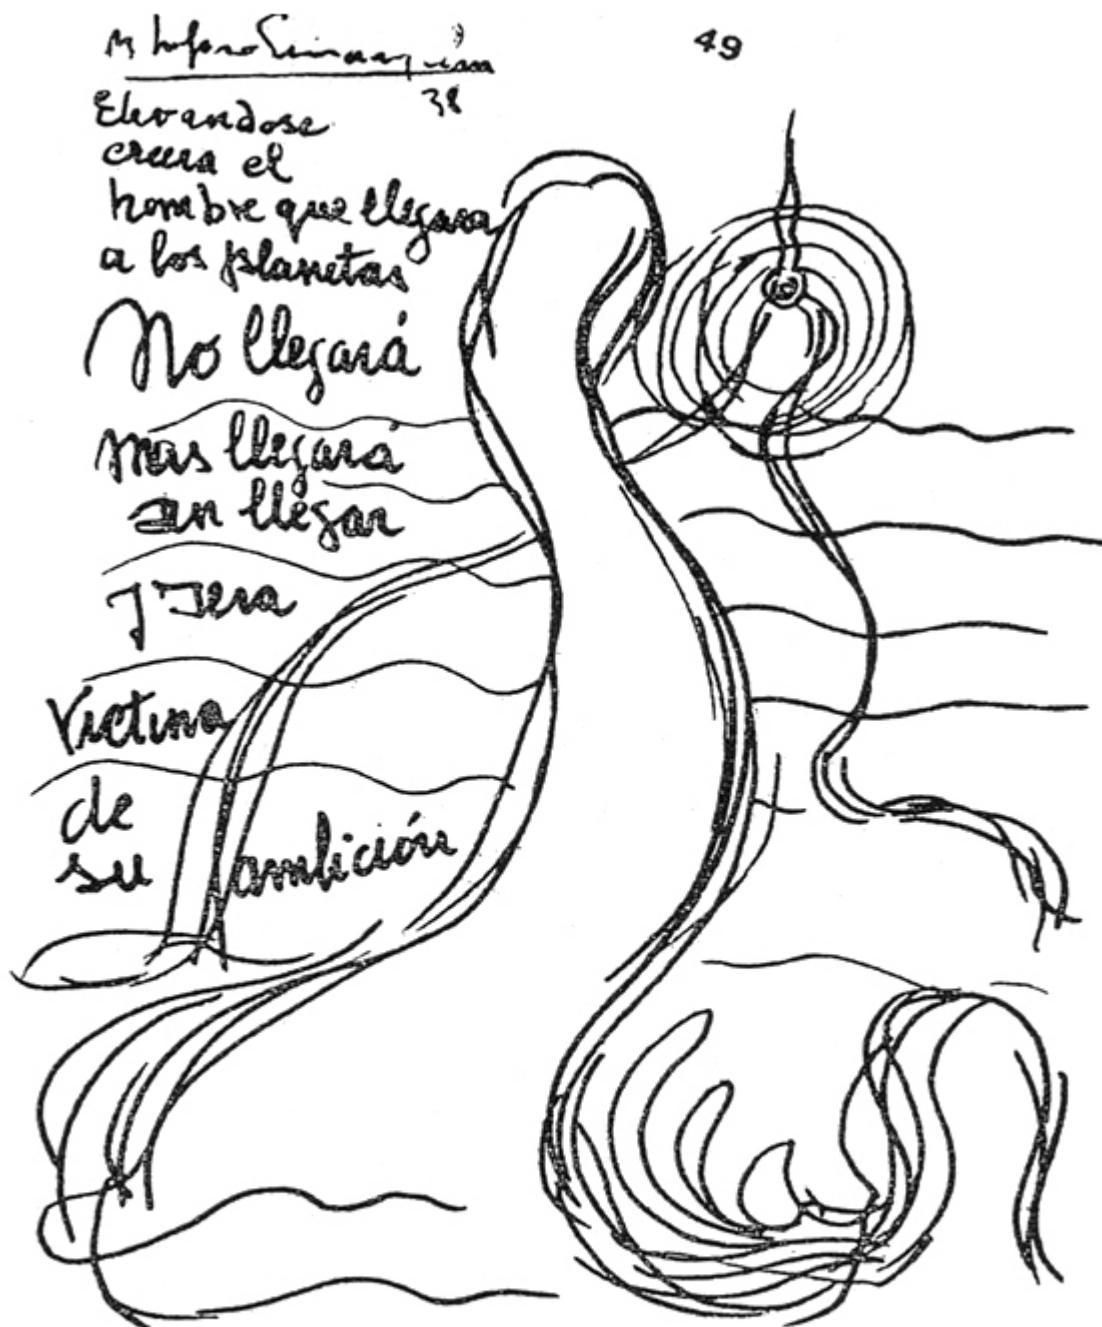

El derrotado astronauta dirá y espantará

"El derrotado astronáutico dirá y espantará" B.S.P. 1938

"The defeated astronaut will speak and will terrify" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about a significant event or revelation related to space exploration. The "defeated astronaut" might represent a person or entity that has experienced failure or setback in this field. Their message could be a warning or revelation about the dangers or ethical implications of space exploration. The resulting terror could indicate the severity of this message, suggesting a profound impact on society or the world.

Man's Ambition in Space Exploration

Elevándose creará el hombre que llegará a los planetas. No llegará, mas llegará sin llegar y será víctima de su ambición.

"Elevándose creará el hombre que llegará a los planetas. No llegará, mas llegará sin llegar y será víctima de su ambición." B.S.P. 1938

"Rising, man will believe he will reach the planets. He will not reach, but he will reach without reaching and will be a victim of his ambition." B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a cautionary prophecy about the potential pitfalls of human ambition in the realm of space exploration. The phrase "reach without reaching" might suggest that while humans may physically reach other planets, they may not fully understand or respect the implications of their actions, or they may not achieve the deeper understanding or connection they seek.

The warning about becoming a "victim of his ambition" suggests that unchecked ambition, without consideration for potential consequences, could lead to harm or downfall. This could refer to a variety of potential dangers, from physical dangers associated with space travel, to ethical concerns about the exploitation of space, to the potential psychological or societal impacts of ambitious but uncontrolled exploration.

Man's Quest for Extraterrestrial Life

El hombre llegará a los espacios
buscará la vida en los planetas
y le verán

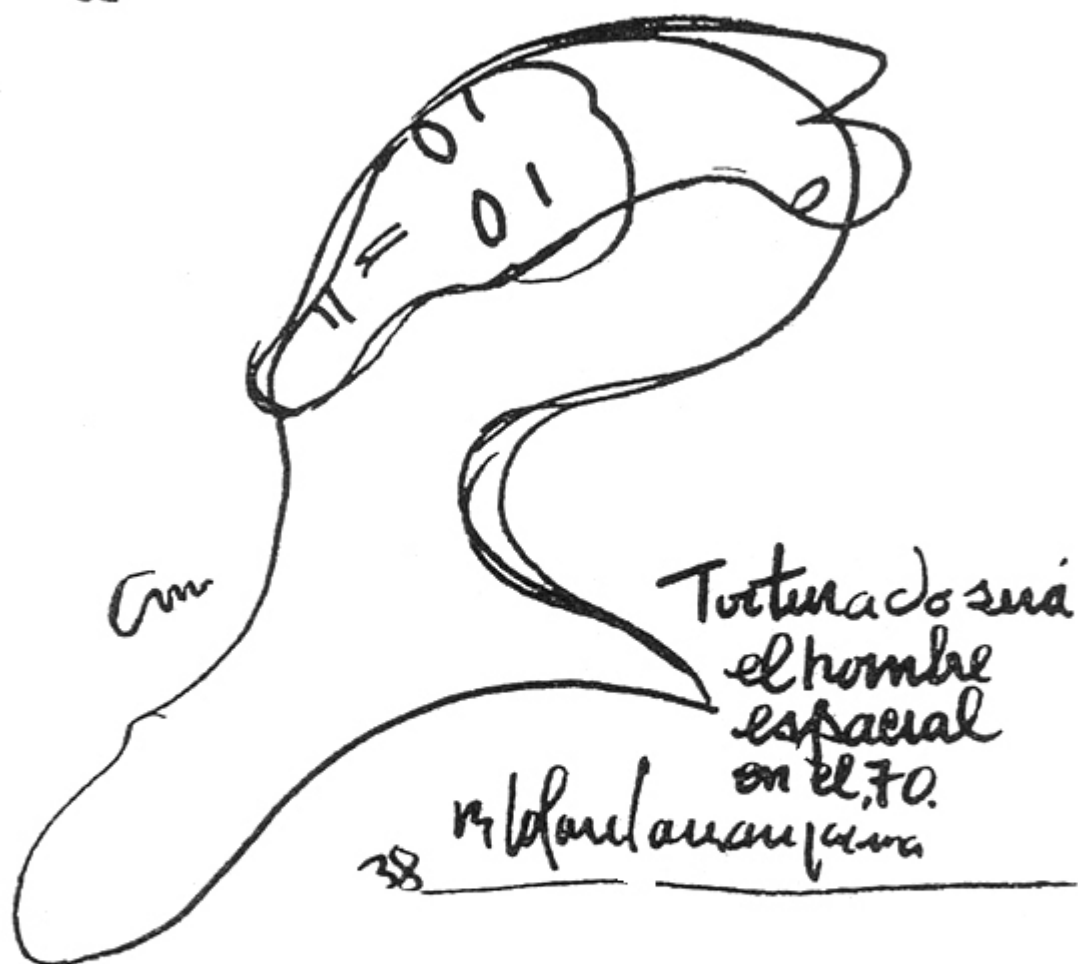

"El hombre llegará a los espacios
buscará la vida en los planetas
y le verán" B.S.P. 1938

"Man will reach the spaces, will search for life on the planets, and they will see him" B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about humanity's future endeavors in space exploration, particularly the search for extraterrestrial life. The mention of being seen by "them" could suggest that this exploration might not be a one-way observation. It could imply that as humans venture further into space, they might also become the subject of observation or contact by extraterrestrial entities. Alternatively, it could symbolize the ethical or existential implications of humanity's actions being observed or judged on a cosmic scale.

The Ordeal of the Space Man in the 70s

51

Torturado será el hombre espacial en el 70

"Torturado será el hombre espacial en el 70" B.S.P. 1938

"The space man will be tortured in the 70s" B.S.P. 1938.

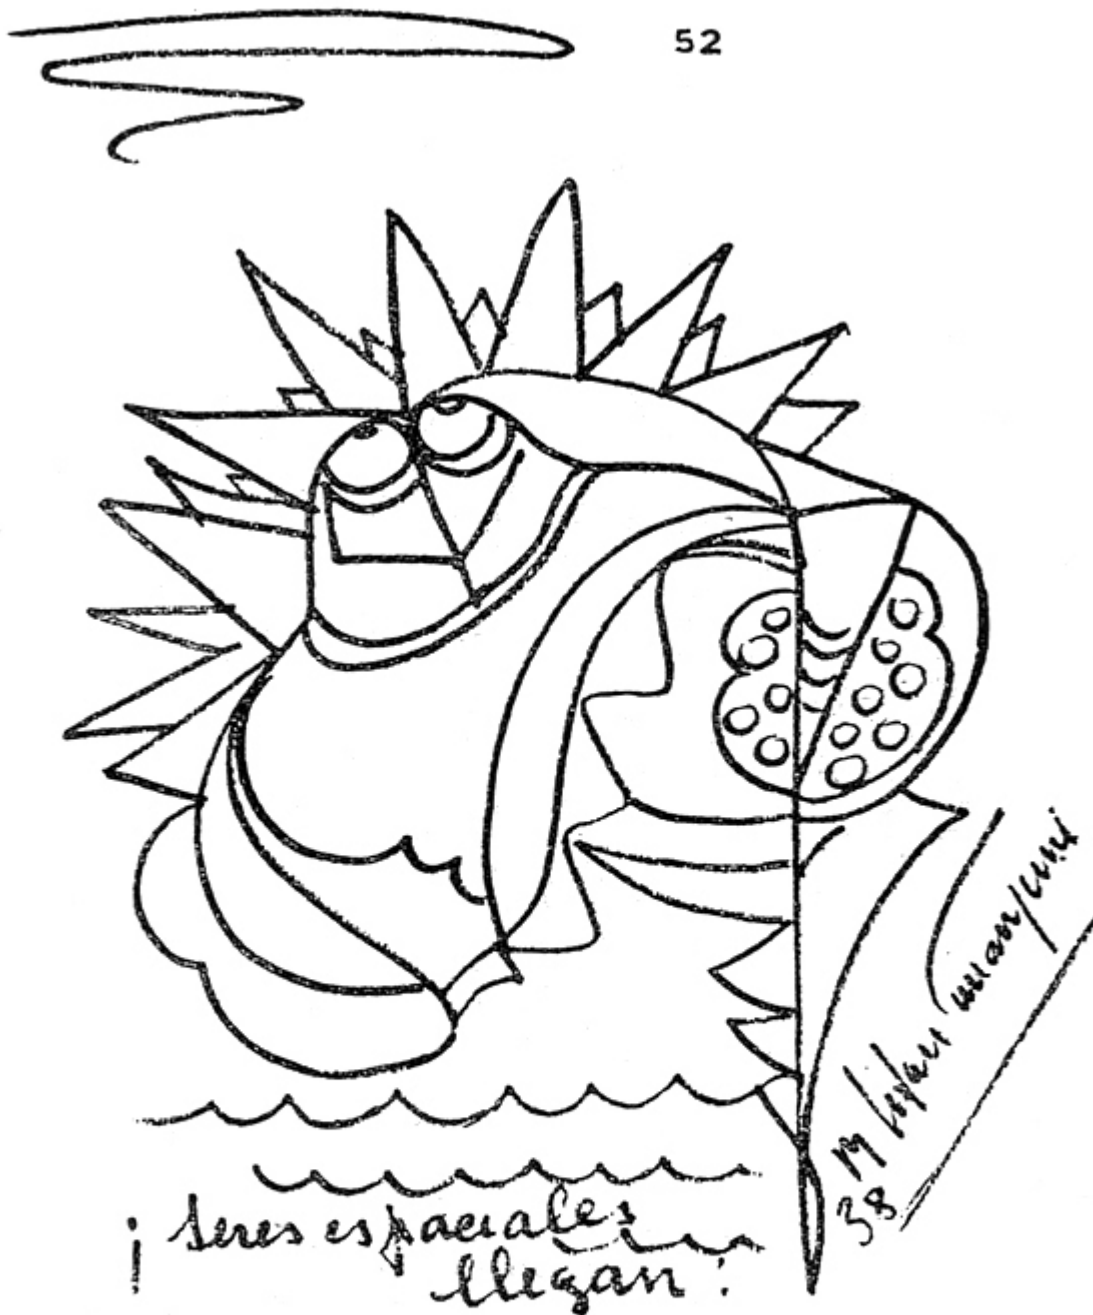

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about the challenges faced by those involved in space exploration during the 1970s. The "torture" could represent a variety of hardships, from the physical and psychological stresses of space travel, to societal or political conflicts related to space exploration. It could also symbolize the ethical dilemmas or existential crises that might arise from humanity's ventures into space. The passage underscores the importance of preparedness and resilience in the face of these challenges.

Yes, there were several significant events in space exploration between 1965 and 2000 that could potentially fit into the idea of the "space man" facing challenges or "torture". Here are a few examples:

1. Apollo 1 Fire (1967): A cabin fire during a launch rehearsal test at Cape Kennedy Air Force Station Launch Complex 34 killed all three crew members—Command Pilot Gus Grissom, Senior Pilot Ed White, and Pilot Roger B. Chaffee.
2. Soyuz 1 Crash (1967): Soviet cosmonaut Vladimir Komarov was killed when the Soyuz 1 spacecraft crashed upon re-entry due to a parachute failure. This was the first in-flight fatality in the history of spaceflight.
3. Apollo 13 (1970): This was a mission that suffered a critical failure en route to the Moon, endangering the crew and requiring significant effort to bring them back safely to Earth.
4. Space Shuttle Challenger Disaster (1986): The space shuttle Challenger broke apart 73 seconds into its flight, leading to the deaths of its seven crew members. This was a significant setback for NASA and had a profound impact on the U.S. space program.
5. Space Shuttle Columbia Disaster (2003): Although this event is slightly outside the specified range, it's worth mentioning. The space shuttle Columbia disintegrated upon re-entering Earth's atmosphere, killing all seven crew members. This was another tragic event that had a significant impact on the space program.

These events certainly brought to light the physical dangers and psychological stresses associated with space travel, and they led to significant societal and political discussions about the risks and ethics of space exploration.

Arrival of Space Beings

¡Seres espaciales llegan!

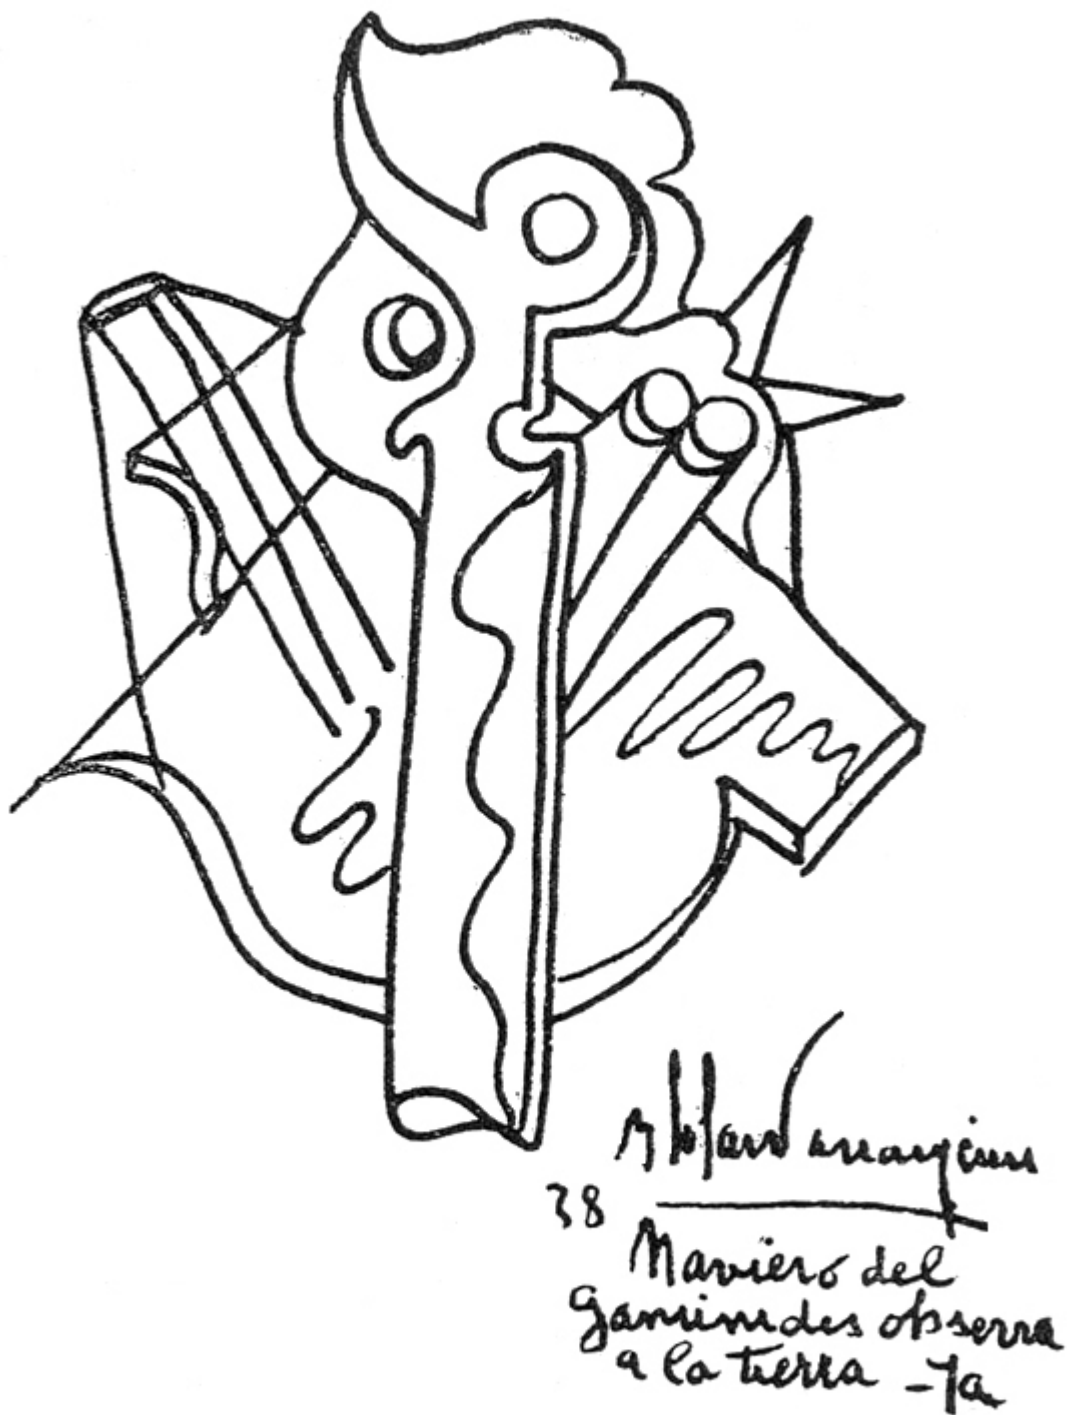

"¡Seres espaciales llegan!" B.S.P. 1938

"Space beings arrive!" B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about the discovery of or contact with extraterrestrial life. The "arrival" of these "space beings" could represent a significant event or turning point in human history, potentially leading to major advancements in our understanding of the universe, or posing new challenges or ethical dilemmas. Alternatively, the "space beings" could symbolize new ideas, technologies, or perspectives "arriving" from the realm of space exploration.

The Observer from Ganymede

53

Naviero de Ganímedes observa
a la Tierra Ya

"Naviero de Ganimedes observa a la Tierra Ya" B.S.P. 1938

"The Navigator from Ganymede is already observing the Earth" B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about extraterrestrial observation of Earth, suggesting that humanity or our planet is being watched or studied by entities from other parts of the universe. This could imply potential future contact or interaction, or it could symbolize the idea that our actions on Earth have broader, cosmic implications. The "Navigator from Ganymede" could also represent a more advanced or enlightened perspective, observing and potentially guiding humanity's progress.

- I came across this post about Ganymede and hoax or not, it's an interesting rabbit hole with lots of questions. . . : r.aliens
 - There is a damaged space station orbiting Ganymede. It has been abandoned for a very very long time (as in hundreds or maybe thousands of years). It appears to have been impacted by something, with a massive hole blew into it.
 - It's shaped like a sphere inside of a toroid. The sphere turns clockwise and the toroid spins counter-clockwise. The entire object is roughly 920 ft in diameter. They have no clue what it is made of, some sort of dark purple metal with a bright green shimmer. They have no idea what it's exact purpose was, maybe the first steps in colonizing the moon. A probe is in the works and expected to be rushed out some time in 2021.
 - It emits no radiation, no heat, nor any signs of life. They only know it exists because on June 6, 2020 it emitted a strong signal for 6 seconds that Juno detected. Juno has taken a multitude of pictures but they are in a guarded vault that holds the offline server.
- Strange FM signal discovered coming from one of Jupiter's moons | Fox News
- Are There Aliens On Jupiter's Moon? | NASA's Unexplained Files - YouTube

Arrival of Green and Blue Astral Beings

54

*Seres astrales
llegan de color verde y azul -* 38

Seres astrales llegarán
de color verde y azul

"Seres astrales llegarán
de color verde y azul" B.S.P. 1938

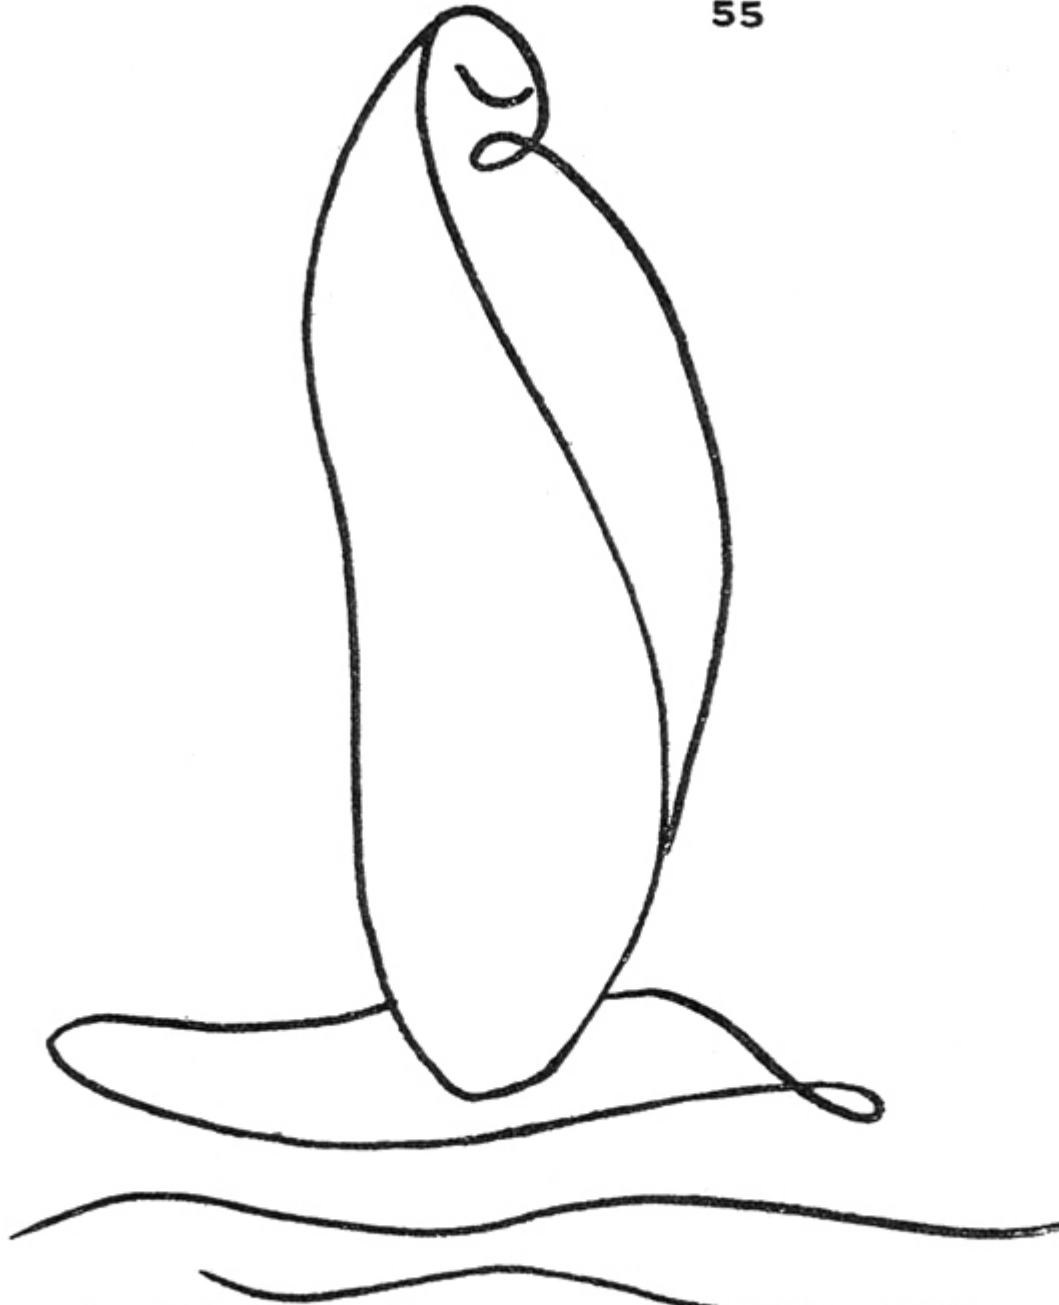

"Astral beings will arrive of green and blue color." B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about contact with extraterrestrial or spiritual entities. The arrival of these "astral beings" could represent a significant event or turning point in human history. The colors green and blue might symbolize various aspects of these beings or their impact. For instance, green could represent nature, growth, or renewal, while blue could symbolize the sky, water, or tranquility. Alternatively, these colors could relate to the beings' appearance or their place of origin.

The Amphibian from Ganymede

anfibio

55

El Anfibio de Ganimedes Benjamín Solari Parravicini
38

El Anfibio de Ganímedes

"El Anfíbio de Ganímedes" B.S.P. 1938

"The Amphibian from Ganymede" B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about the discovery of or contact with an extraterrestrial entity from Ganymede, specifically one with amphibian-like characteristics. This could suggest a life form capable of surviving in diverse environments, possibly even Earth's. Alternatively, the "amphibian" could symbolize a transformative or adaptable entity, capable of bridging different realms or perspectives. The passage might underscore the potential diversity of life in the universe and the possibilities for contact or understanding.

The discovery that Ganymede, Jupiter's largest moon, has a subsurface ocean was made by NASA's Galileo spacecraft in the mid-1990s. However, it wasn't until March 2015 that scientists, using the Hubble Space Telescope, were able to confirm that Ganymede indeed has a massive ocean beneath its icy surface. This ocean is believed to be 60 miles (100 kilometers) thick, which is 10 times deeper than Earth's oceans, and is buried under a 95-mile (150-kilometer) crust of mostly ice.

Ganymede Will Speak

56

¡ Ganímedes hablará !

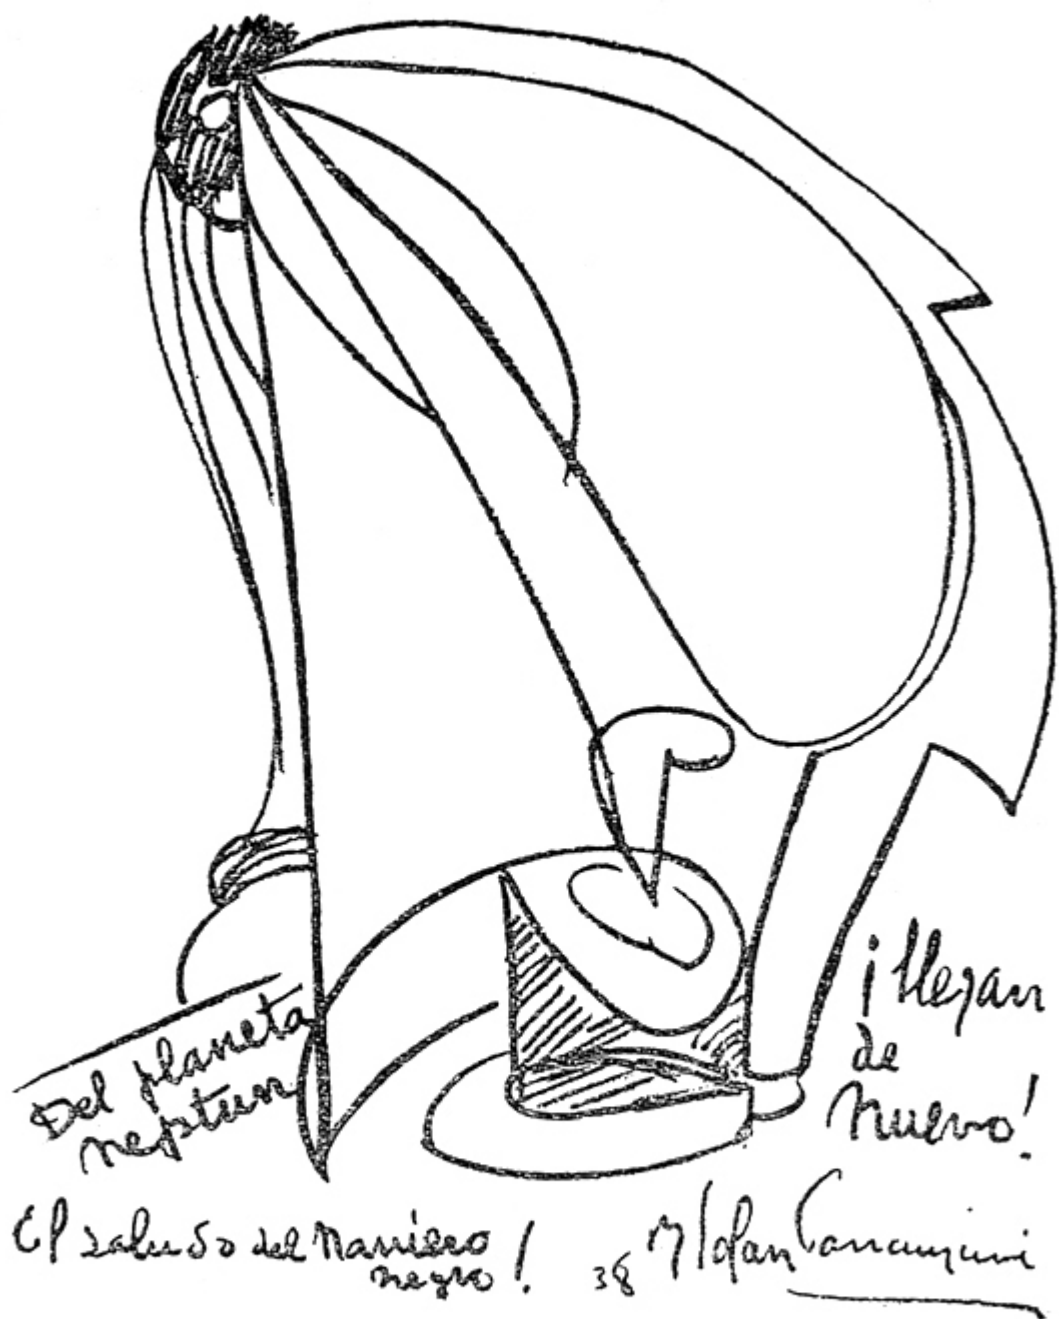

"¡Ganímedes hablará!" B.S.P. 1938

"Ganymede will speak!" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about future communication or revelations related to Ganymede. This could suggest potential contact with extraterrestrial entities, the discovery of significant information about Ganymede, or new insights gained from the study of this moon. The phrase "Ganymede will speak" could symbolize the idea that our exploration of the cosmos will lead to new knowledge or understanding, potentially transforming our perspective of the universe and our place in it.

The Return of the Black Navigator from Neptune

57

Del planeta Neptuno ; Llegan de Nuevo !
El saludo del Naviero negro

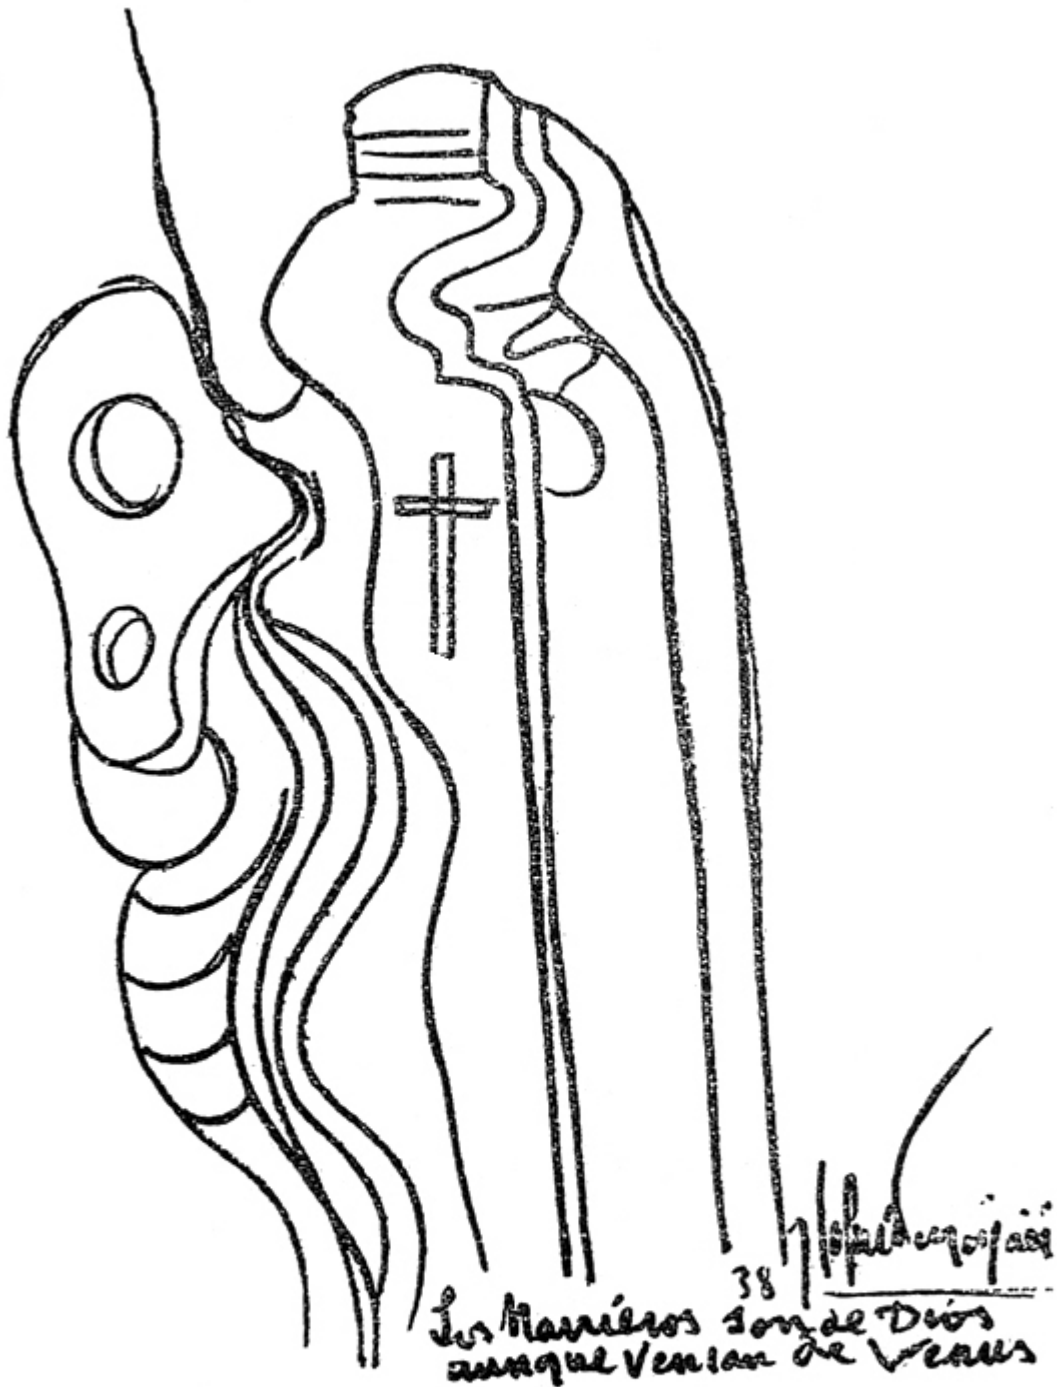

"Del planeta Neptuno ¡Llegan de Nuevo!
El saludo del Naviero negro" B.S.P. 1938

"From the planet Neptune, they arrive again! The greeting of the black Navigator" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about future contact or events related to Neptune. The "black Navigator" might represent an extraterrestrial entity, a spacecraft, or a metaphor for deep, profound knowledge or discovery. The return and the greeting could suggest a recurring cycle of contact or revelation, possibly indicating a continuous exchange or a recurring influence from Neptune. This could underscore the potential for ongoing discovery and interaction in our exploration of the cosmos.

Divine Navigators from Venus

59

Los Navieros son de Dios
aunque vengan de Venus

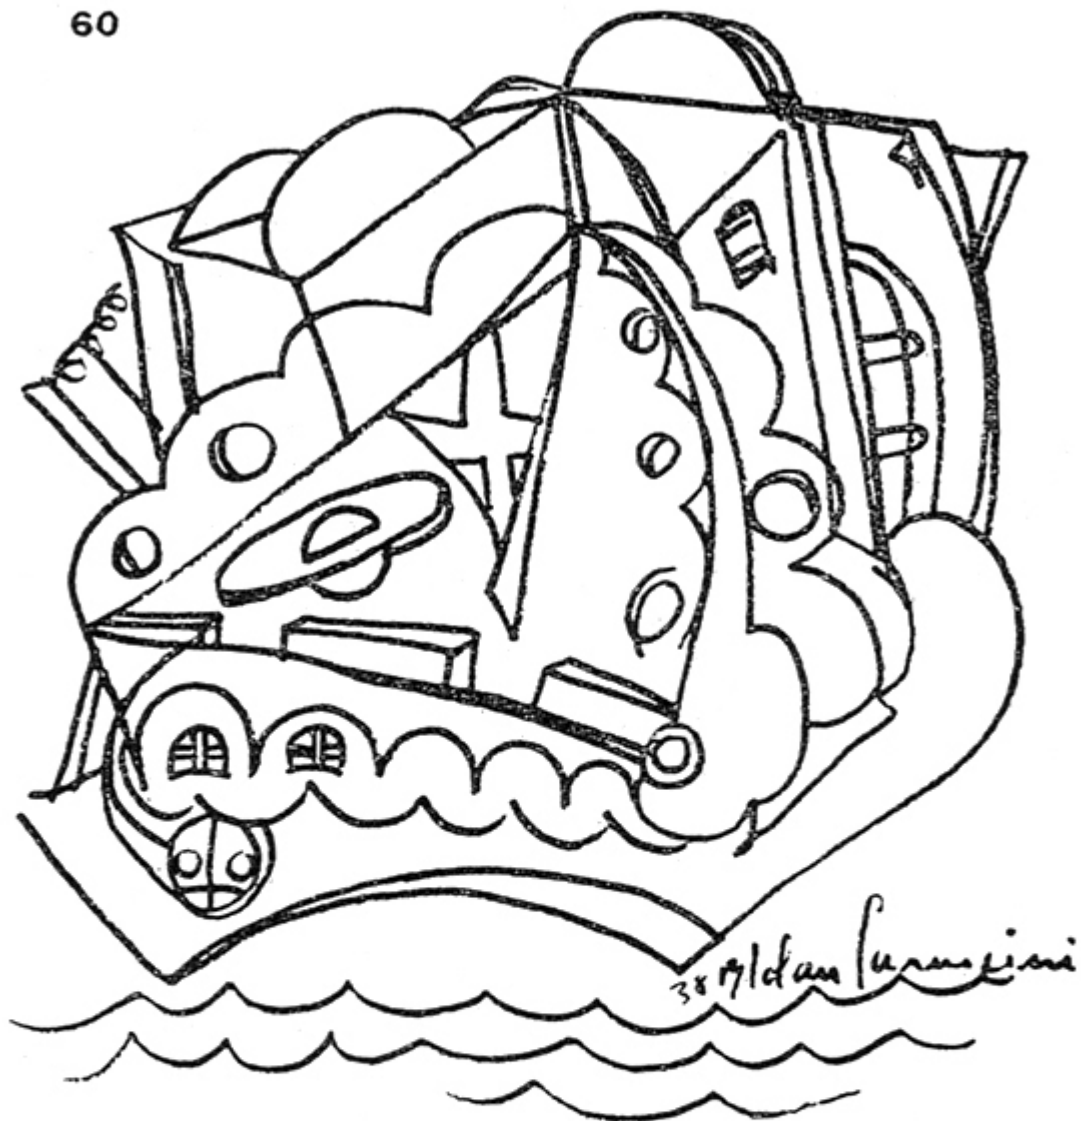

"Los Navieros son de Dios
aunque vengan de Venus" B.S.P. 1938

"The Navigators are from God, even though they come from Venus" B.S.P.
1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about divine intervention or revelation coming from an extraterrestrial source, specifically Venus. The "Navigators" might represent celestial beings or forces that carry a divine message or influence. This could suggest a future event or revelation that brings about significant spiritual or societal transformation. Alternatively, the "Navigators" could symbolize new ideas or perspectives that challenge our understanding of the divine and our place in the universe.

The Wandering Ship from Venus

60

Nave andante de Venus sobre
la Tierra y venusino

Nave andante de Venus sobre
la Tierra y venusino

"Nave andante de Venus sobre la Tierra y venusino." B.S.P.
1938

"Wandering ship from Venus over the Earth and Venusian." B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about future contact or events related to Venus. The "wandering ship" might represent a spacecraft or an entity from Venus, suggesting potential contact or observation from this planet. The mention of a "Venusian" could imply interaction with an inhabitant of Venus or influence from this planet. This could suggest a future event or revelation that expands our understanding of the universe and our place in it. Alternatively, the "wandering ship" and "Venusian" could symbolize new ideas or perspectives originating from the realm of space exploration.

The Martian Navigator and the Medieval Lady

Dama de la Edad media parecerá el Naviero Marciano !

Dama de la Edad media parecerá
el Naviero Marciano !

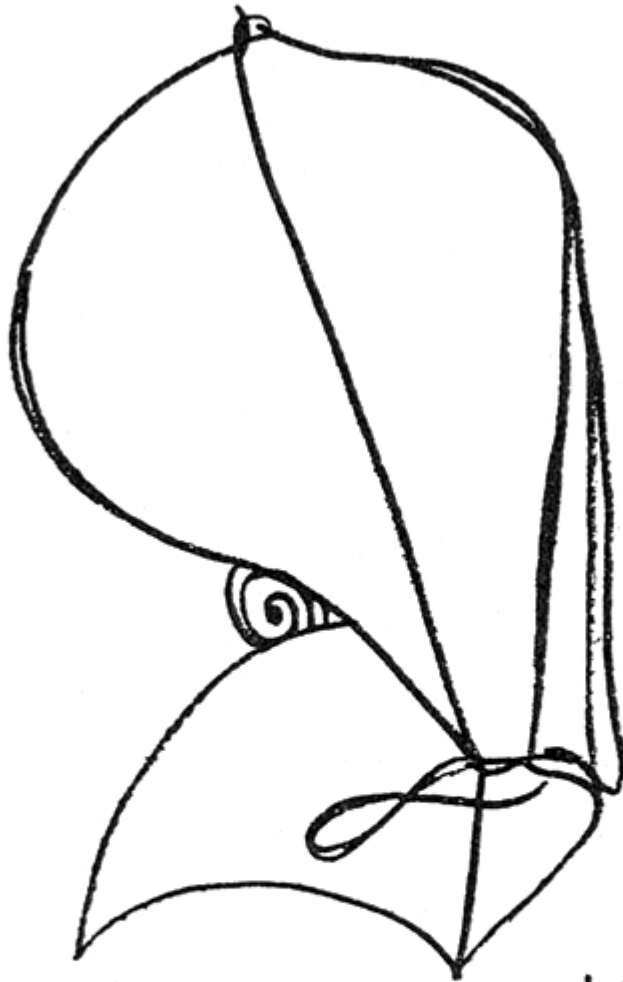

"Dama de la Edad media parecerá
el Naviero Marciano!" B.S.P. 1938

"The Martian Navigator will seem like a lady from the Middle Ages!" B.S.P.
1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about the contrast or interaction between future and past, represented by the Martian Navigator and the medieval lady. This could suggest a future event or revelation that challenges traditional perspectives or norms, symbolized by the medieval lady. Alternatively, the Martian Navigator could symbolize new ideas or perspectives that seem as out of place or as revolutionary in our current society as a medieval lady would seem in a modern context. The passage underscores the potential for profound change and the need for openness and adaptability in the face of future discoveries or challenges.

Arrival of the Martian

62

Blotus amanyun
38

Martiano llega a la tierra

Marciano llega a la tierra

"Marciano llega a la tierra" B.S.P. 1938

"Martian arrives on Earth" B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about future contact or events related to Mars. The arrival of the "Martian" could represent a significant event or turning point in human history, such as the discovery of life on Mars, the arrival of a spacecraft from Mars, or the introduction of new ideas or technologies associated with Mars. This could suggest a future event or revelation that expands our understanding of the universe and our place in it. Alternatively, the "Martian" could symbolize new perspectives or challenges originating from the realm of space exploration.

Pausing with Teresa of Jesus

63

¿Debe el hombre detenerse?
¡Si! leyendo a Teresa de Jesús
SORTERESA

"¿Debe el hombre detenerse?
 ¡Si! leyendo a Teresa de Jesús
 SORTERESA" B.S.P. 1938

"Should man stop? Yes! reading Teresa of Jesus SORTERESA" B.S.P. 1938.

Title: Pausing with Teresa of Jesus Type: Psychograph Summary: This 1938 passage suggests that man should stop and read Teresa of Jesus, also known as Saint Teresa of Ávila, a prominent Spanish mystic, Carmelite nun, and writer of the Catholic Church. The term "SORTERESA" is not immediately clear and could be a code, anagram, or specific reference that requires further context to interpret. Tags: prophecy, pause, Teresa of Jesus, SORTERESA Date: 1938 Status: ongoing Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a call for introspection, spiritual growth, or contemplative reading. Recommending the writings of Saint Teresa of Ávila might suggest a need for deeper spiritual understanding, mystical insight, or ethical guidance. The term "SORTERESA" could be a coded message or a symbolic term related to this spiritual journey. The passage underscores the importance of pausing from worldly pursuits to seek spiritual wisdom and understanding.

Saint Teresa of Ávila, also known as Saint Teresa of Jesus, was a prominent Spanish mystic, writer, and theologian who lived in the 16th century. She is known for her profound teachings on Christian prayer and contemplation.

Her main messages include:

1. The Importance of Prayer: Saint Teresa believed that prayer is the highest form of Christian life. She wrote extensively about different stages of prayer, from vocal prayer to contemplation, which she described as a "close sharing between friends," implying an intimate relationship with God.
2. The Interior Castle: In her most famous work, "The Interior Castle," she envisioned the soul as a crystal castle with many rooms, representing different stages on the spiritual journey towards God. This journey involves self-knowledge, detachment from worldly things, and ultimately, mystical union with God.

3. Spiritual Ecstasy: Saint Teresa is often associated with the experience of spiritual ecstasy and mystical union with God. She described these experiences in vivid, poetic language, contributing to her reputation as a leading mystic.
4. Humility and Love: She emphasized the importance of humility, love, and devotion in the spiritual life. She believed that these virtues were essential for progressing along the spiritual path.
5. Reform: Saint Teresa, along with Saint John of the Cross, was a key figure in the Carmelite Reform, which sought to restore a more contemplative and austere way of life in their religious order.

Her teachings have had a lasting impact on Christian spirituality, particularly in the areas of prayer and mysticism.

The Division and Embrace of Extremes

64

El mundo se dividirá en dos, izquierda y derecha
 una tercera postura será en abrazo se dirá - pero
 el abrazo será de castigo - el uno por ambición
 el otro por traición - Rusia avanzará - China
 será tras él - Abrazo de extremos.

"El mundo se dividirá en dos, izquierda y derecha
 una tercera postura será en abrazo se dirá - pero
 el abrazo será de castigo - el uno por ambición
 el otro por traición - Rusia avanzará - China
 será tras él - Abrazo de extremos." B.S.P. 1938

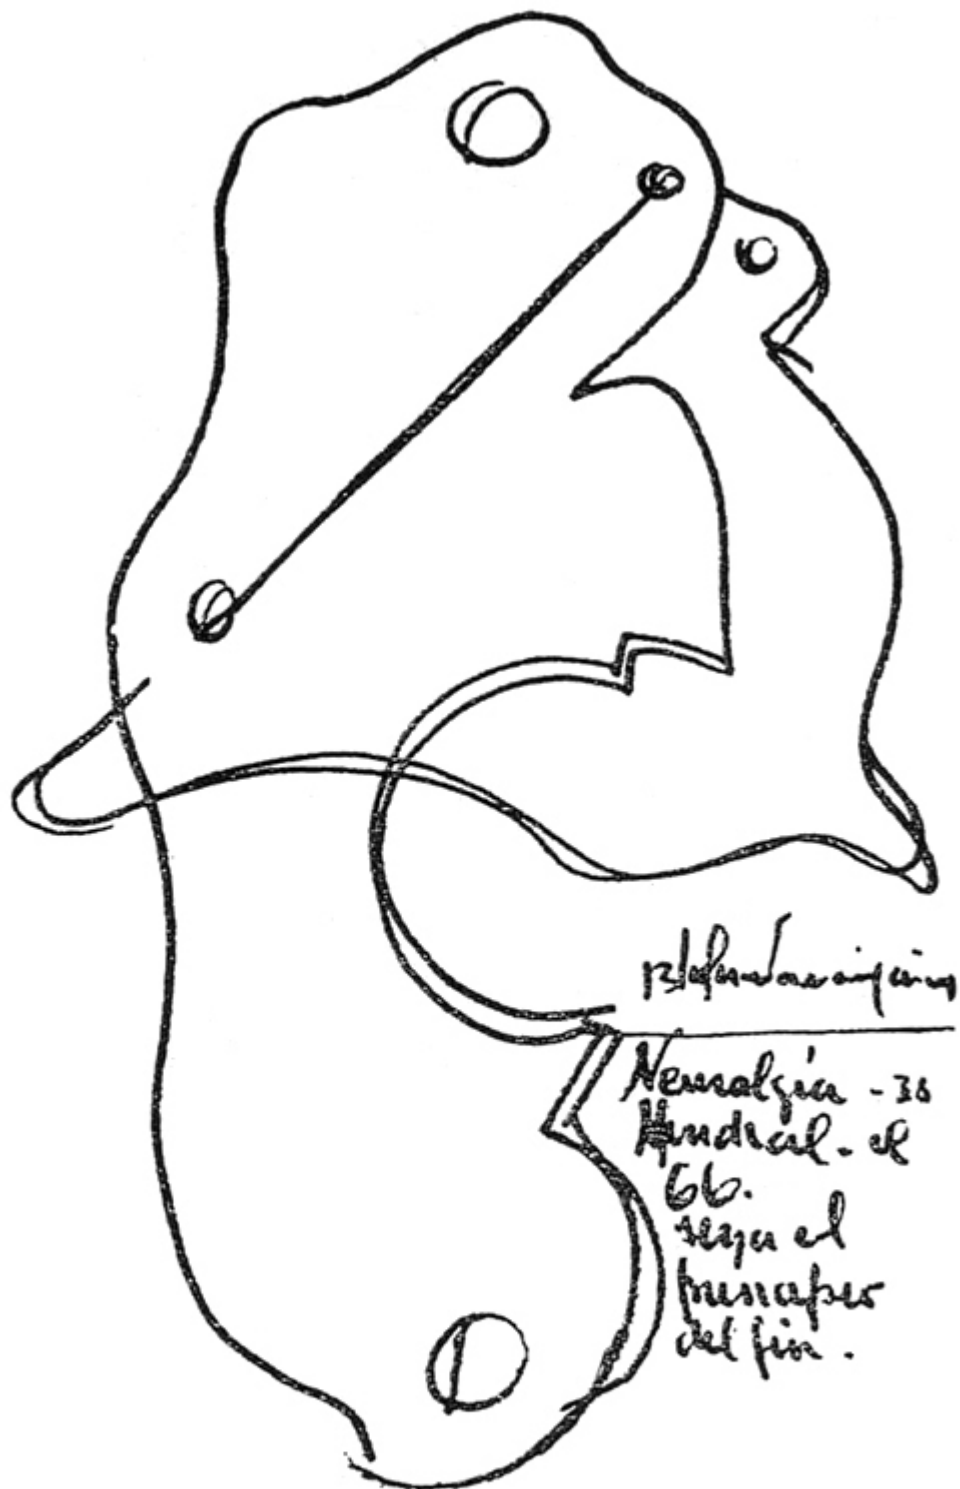

"The world will be divided into two, left and right. A third position will be said to be in embrace - but the embrace will be of punishment - one for ambition, the other for betrayal - Russia will advance - China will be behind it - Embrace of extremes." B.S.P. 1938.

Title: The Division and Embrace of Extremes Type: Psychograph Summary:
 This 1938 passage predicts a division in the world into left and right, with a third position characterized as an "embrace." However, this embrace is described as a punishment, associated with ambition and betrayal. The passage also predicts that Russia will advance, with China following behind. The nature and implications of these events are not specified, leaving room for various interpretations. Tags: prophecy, division, embrace, extremes, Russia, China Date: 1938 Status: ongoing Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about geopolitical shifts and conflicts. The division into left and right might represent political, ideological, or societal divisions. The "embrace" could symbolize a union or alliance that is ultimately harmful or destructive, associated with ambition and betrayal. The advancement of Russia and the following of China could suggest future geopolitical developments involving these countries. The "embrace of extremes" might underscore the potential dangers of polarization and extreme positions. The passage suggests a need for caution, balance, and ethical awareness in navigating these potential challenges.

World Neuralgia and the Beginning of the End

65

Neuralgia Mundial - el 66 será el principio del fin

"Neuralgia Mundial - el 66 será el principio del fin" B.S.P.
1938

"World Neuralgia - 66 will be the beginning of the end" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about future global crises or challenges. The "World Neuralgia" might represent widespread suffering or distress, possibly related to conflict, inequality, or environmental degradation. The reference to 66 as the "beginning of the end" could suggest a significant turning point or crisis, possibly marking the start of a period of decline or transformation. The passage underscores the potential severity of these challenges and the need for awareness and action.

Temptation, Vice, Death, and Virtue in '66

¡Tentación, vicio y muerte!
¿Virtud? - no se verá el 66

"Tentacion, vicio y muerte! Virtud? - no se vera el 66"

B.S.P. 1938

"¡Tentación, vicio y muerte! ¿Virtud? - no se verá en el 66" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about moral or societal challenges in a specific time period, possibly the year 1966 or another time associated with the number '66. The references to temptation, vice, and death might represent widespread moral decay, societal crises, or significant events. The suggestion that virtue will not be seen could imply a lack of moral leadership, ethical challenges, or societal disillusionment. The passage underscores the potential severity of these challenges and the need for moral and societal awareness.

The 1960s were a tumultuous and transformative decade marked by significant events around the world. Here are some of the major events:

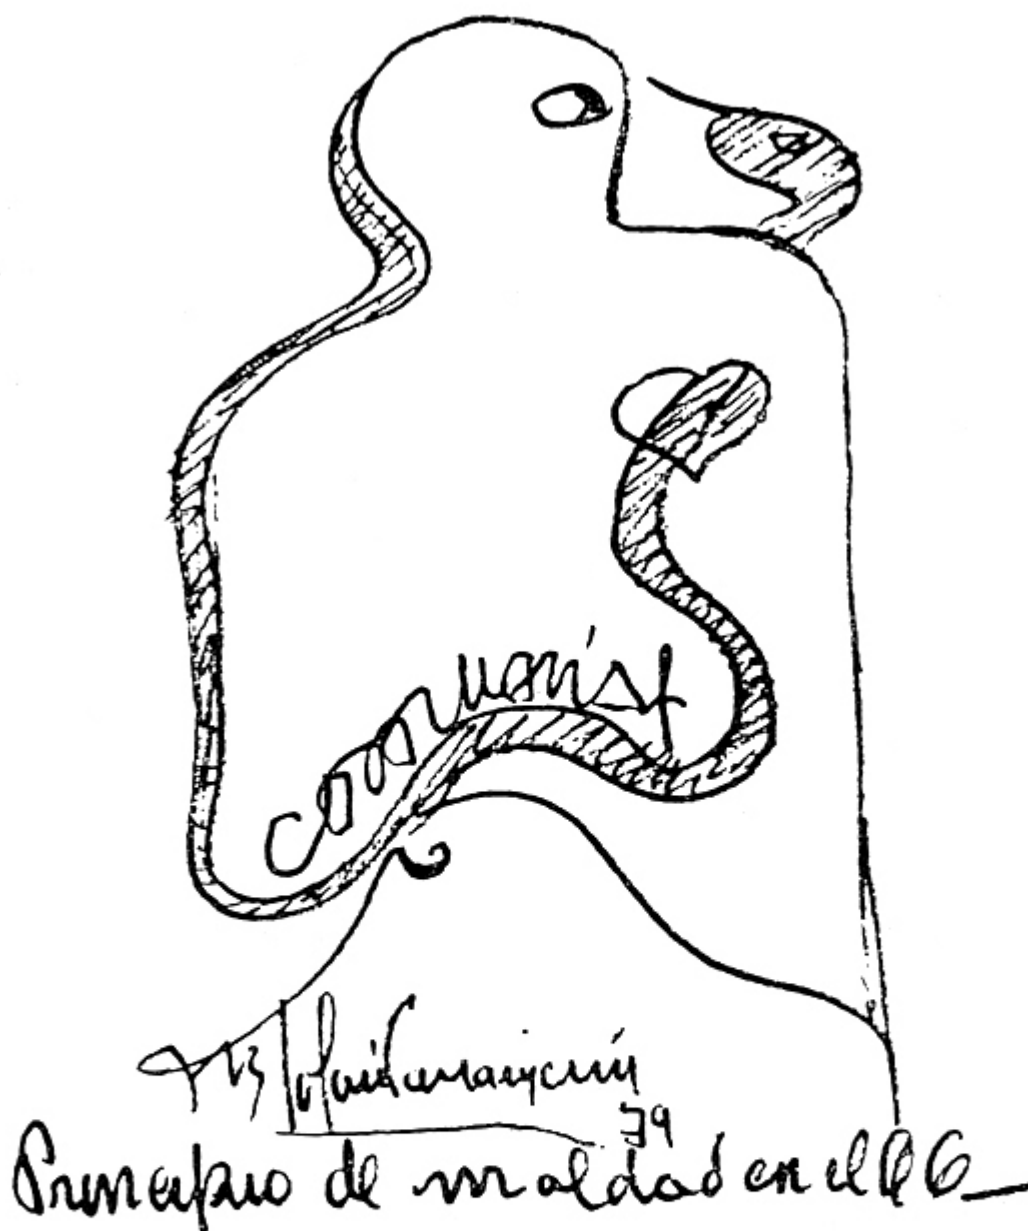

1. Civil Rights Movement in the United States: This was a major social movement advocating for the legal rights of African Americans and other minority groups. Key events included the March on Washington in 1963, where Martin Luther King Jr. delivered his "I Have a Dream" speech, and the passing of the Civil Rights Act in 1964 and the Voting Rights Act in 1965.
2. The Vietnam War: This conflict between North and South Vietnam also involved major powers like the United States and the Soviet Union. It was a significant event of the Cold War and led to widespread protests, especially in the United States.
3. The Cuban Missile Crisis: In 1962, the United States and the Soviet Union came close to nuclear war over the placement of Soviet nuclear weapons in Cuba. The crisis was eventually resolved peacefully, but it marked a significant escalation in the Cold War.
4. The Space Race: The United States and the Soviet Union competed to achieve milestones in space exploration. The Soviet Union sent the first human, Yuri Gagarin, into space in 1961. The United States landed the first humans on the moon with the Apollo 11 mission in 1969.

5. Cultural Revolution in China: Initiated by Mao Zedong in 1966, this was a sociopolitical movement that aimed to preserve 'true' Communist ideology by purging remnants of capitalist and traditional elements from Chinese society.
6. Decolonization and Independence Movements: Many African and Asian countries gained independence from colonial powers during this decade.
7. The Assassinations of Prominent Figures: Several influential figures were assassinated during this decade, including US President John F. Kennedy (1963), civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. (1968), and Senator Robert F. Kennedy (1968).
8. The Prague Spring: In 1968, Czechoslovakia initiated a period of political liberalization and reform, which was subsequently crushed by the Soviet Union.

These events had significant impacts on politics, society, and culture, both at the time and in the years that followed.

The Beginning of Evil in '66

68

Principio de maldad en el 66

"Principio de maldad en el '66" B.S.P. 1939

"Beginning of evil in '66" B.S.P. 1939

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about moral or societal challenges in a specific time period, possibly the year 1966 or another time associated with the number '66. The reference to the "beginning of evil" might represent the onset of a period of moral decay, societal crises, or significant events. The passage underscores the potential severity of these challenges and the need for moral and societal awareness.

Communist is written into the drawing with a snake. The 1960s were a significant period for the spread of communism, particularly in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Here are some key events:

1. Cuba: After the Cuban Revolution led by Fidel Castro in 1959, the 1960s saw Cuba aligning itself with the Soviet Union and officially declaring itself a socialist state in 1961. The Cuban Missile Crisis in 1962 was a major event in the Cold War.
2. Vietnam: The Vietnam War escalated in the 1960s, with North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, both communist forces, fighting against South Vietnam and its main ally, the United States. The war was a significant part of the global conflict between communist and non-communist powers.
3. China: The 1960s was a decade of consolidation for the Communist Party in China, with Mao Zedong launching the Cultural Revolution in 1966 to reassert his authority and reinvigorate the revolutionary spirit.
4. Africa: Several African countries, including Angola, Mozambique, and Guinea-Bissau, began fighting for independence from colonial rule, and some of these liberation movements were communist-inspired or supported by communist countries.
5. Latin America: Inspired by the Cuban Revolution, several leftist and communist guerrilla movements sprang up across Latin America in the 1960s, including the National Liberation Forces in Mexico and the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC).

6. Eastern Europe: The influence of the Soviet Union over Eastern Europe remained strong throughout the 1960s, although there were signs of resistance, such as the Prague Spring in Czechoslovakia in 1968.

So, while the 1960s saw significant advances for communism, it was also a period of intense conflict and resistance.

March Towards a Single Government

Se levantarán las clase sociales - se batirán
en guerras - el mundo sangrará y los dictadores
dominarán mas serán muertos !
El mundo marcha hacia un único gobierno

"Se levantarán las clase sociales - se batirán
en guerras - el mundo sangrará y los dictadores
dominarán mas serán muertos!
El mundo marcha hacia un único gobierno" B.S.P. 1938

"Social classes will rise - they will fight in wars - the world will bleed and the dictators will dominate but they will be killed! The world is marching towards a single government" B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about future societal and political transformations. The rise of social classes and wars might represent social unrest and conflict. The dominance of dictators and their eventual downfall could suggest cycles of authoritarian rule and resistance. The prediction of the world moving towards a single government could represent a significant shift in global governance or unity, possibly in response to these challenges. The passage underscores the potential severity of these challenges and the need for societal and political awareness and action.

Discretion of the Reader

70

Benjamín Solari Parravicini
74

march 1974

El texto a criterio del lector

"El texto a criterio del lector" B.S.P. no date

"The text is at the discretion of the reader" B.S.P. no date.

Potential Meaning: This statement could be seen as an acknowledgment of the subjective nature of text interpretation. It suggests that the reader has the freedom and responsibility to interpret the text in a way that makes sense to them, based on their own understanding, context, and perspective. This could underscore the importance of critical thinking, personal insight, and open-mindedness in reading and interpreting texts.

Could it be a cynical statement. If we don't like the words we are reading, we can change or ignore them. If we didn't write the book, do we have the right to change the text?

The American Golfer's Rule and Untimely Death (Kennedy)

'1

Un golfer americano
gobierna y le matan
joven!

Benjamín Solari Parravicini
38

Un golfer americano gobierna
y le matan joven!

"Un golfer americano gobierna
y le matan joven!" B.S.P. 1938

"An American golfer governs and is killed young!" B.S.P. 1938

Title: The American Golfer's Rule and Untimely Death Type: Statement

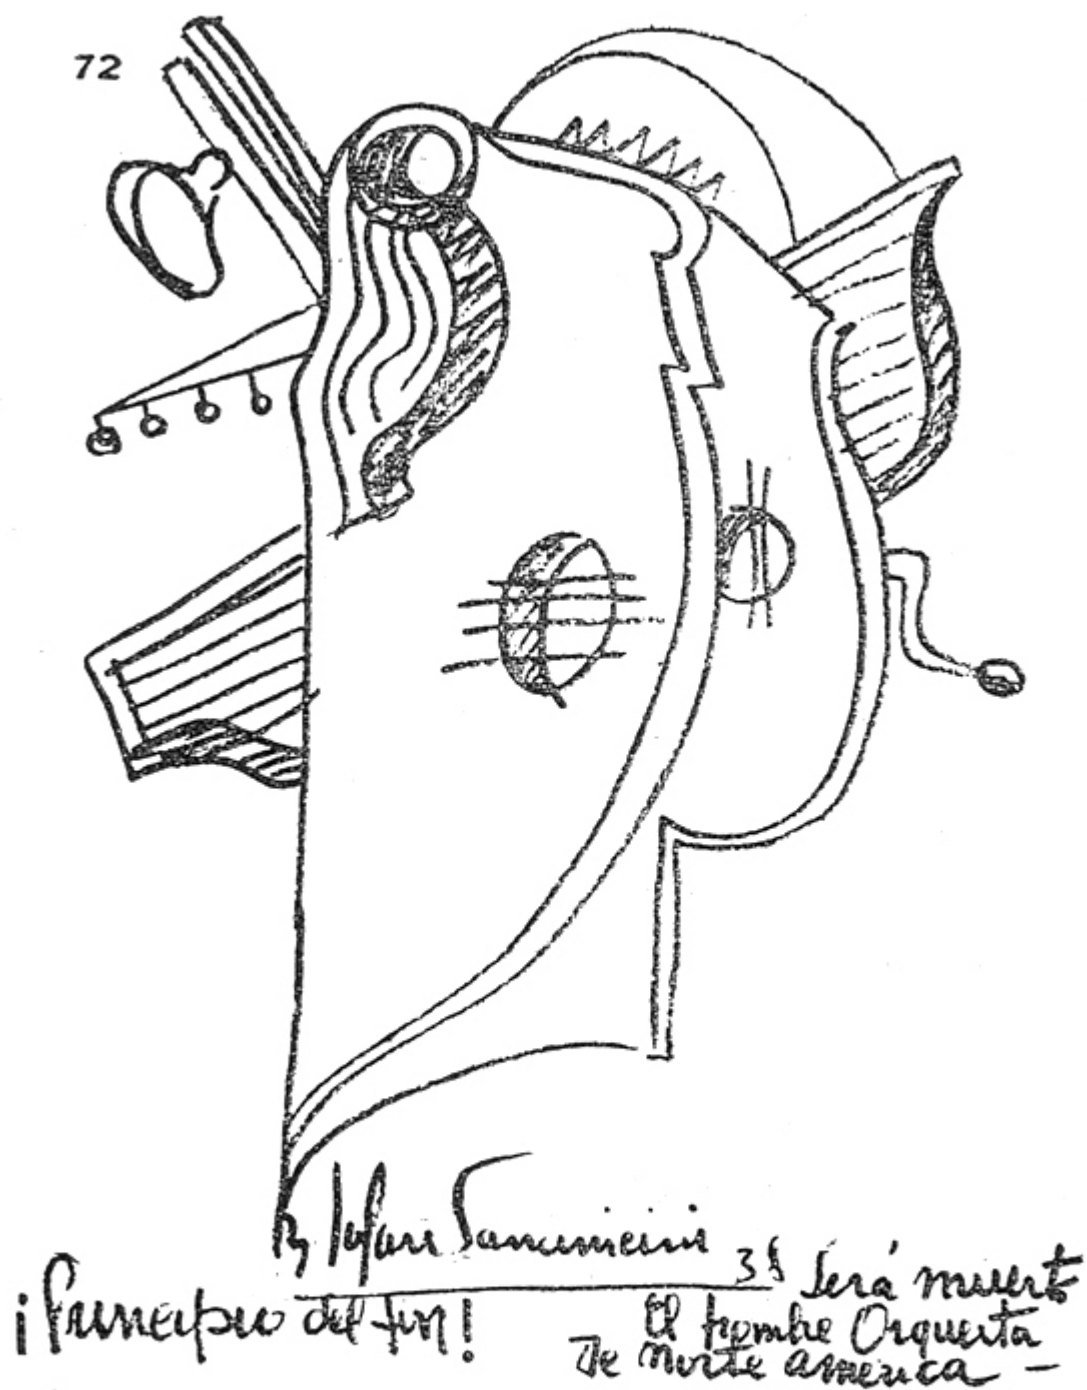

Summary: This statement predicts that an American golfer will rule and will be killed young. The specifics of this prediction are not detailed, but it could symbolize a person associated with golf who will attain a position of power and meet an untimely end. Tags: prediction, American golfer, rule, untimely death Status: ongoing

Potential Meaning: This statement could be interpreted as a prophecy about a specific individual or a symbolic figure associated with golf. The reference to ruling could suggest a position of power or influence, possibly in politics, sports, or another field. The prediction of an untimely death could represent a personal tragedy, a public event, or a symbolic loss or downfall. The statement underscores the potential unpredictability and transience of power and life.

We all wish that we could look as polished hitting a golf ball in loafers as John Fitzgerald Kennedy. The late president not only loved golf, he also was a proponent for speed of play, and deftly shielded his passion for the game from most of the media. Nov 22, 2013

- What we know about John F. Kennedy, the golfer

The Beginning of the End and the Death of the Orchestra Man

¡Principio del fin! Será muerto el hombre
Orquesta de Norte America

"¡Principio del fin! Será muerto el hombre
Orquesta de Norte America." B.S.P. 1938

"Beginning of the end! The Orchestra Man of North America will be dead."
B.S.P. 1938

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about significant transformations or events. The "beginning of the end" might represent a major turning point or crisis. The "Orchestra Man of North America" could symbolize a figure associated with music, harmony, or unity, and his predicted death could represent a loss or disruption in these areas. The passage underscores the potential severity of these changes and the need for awareness and preparedness.

It could be a reference to Trump.

- La PREDICCIÓN de PARRAVICINI sobre DONALD TRUMP que Conmociona al Mundo. - YouTube

Civil Rights and the New Black in '66

73

Ben Parravicini

66 - En la estufa Norte Americana será encendida por el nuevo negro

"66 - En la estufa Norte Americana será encendida por el nuevo negro" B.S.P. 1938

"66 - In the North American stove, it will be lit by the new black." B.S.P. 1938.

Potential Meaning: This passage could be interpreted as a prophecy about significant transformations or events in a specific time period, possibly the year 1966 or another time associated with the number '66. The "North American stove" might represent a source of heat or energy, possibly symbolizing societal or political power or activity. The "new black" could symbolize a new influence or force, possibly associated with racial or social change. The passage underscores the potential significance of these changes and the need for awareness and preparedness.

Yes, the 1960s were indeed a significant time for the Civil Rights Movement in the United States. This was a decades-long struggle by African Americans and their like-minded allies to end institutionalized racial discrimination, disenfranchisement, and racial segregation in the United States.

Key events during the 1960s included:

1. The Freedom Rides in 1961, which challenged segregation in interstate bus terminals across the South.
2. The March on Washington in 1963, where Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. delivered his famous "I Have a Dream" speech.
3. The Civil Rights Act of 1964, which outlawed discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.
4. The Voting Rights Act of 1965, which prohibited racial discrimination in voting.
5. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated on April 4, 1968.

Given this context, the "new black" mentioned in the passage could potentially refer to the rise of African American influence and the push for racial equality during this time.

The North American Elephant and Black Water

74

El elefante Norte Americano tendrá
agua negra en su trompa
y comenzará su mal

"El elefante Norte Americano tendrá
agua negra en su trompa
y comenzará su mal" B.S.P. 1938

"The North American elephant will have black water in its trunk and its evil will begin. B.S.P. 1938"

Here are a few interpretations of what this prediction from 1938 might mean:

1. Oil Spills and Environmental Disasters:

- The "black water in its trunk" could symbolize oil. This might refer to major oil spills affecting North America, such as the Exxon Valdez spill in 1989 or the Deepwater Horizon spill in 2010. These environmental disasters had significant ecological and economic impacts, aligning with the idea of "evil" beginning.

2. Industrial Pollution:

- The imagery might represent industrial pollution more broadly. In the 20th century, the rapid industrialization in North America led to significant environmental issues, with waterways and landscapes contaminated by industrial waste and pollutants.

3. Economic or Political Troubles:

- The "North American elephant" could symbolize the United States (often represented by the elephant, particularly in relation to the Republican Party). "Black water" might metaphorically indicate financial corruption, economic depression, or political scandals. Given the context of 1938, this could foresee the challenges leading up to or during World War II and its aftermath.

4. War and Conflict:

- "Black water" might also symbolize conflict or war. The period leading up to and including World War II saw the United States becoming more involved in global conflicts, which could be interpreted as the beginning of a period of significant challenges and "evil."

5. Technological Changes:

- Considering the technological advancements in the 20th century, "black water" could represent the rise of technologies that, while beneficial, also brought negative consequences. This might include nuclear energy (with its potential for both power and destruction) or the development of plastics and synthetic chemicals that have since caused widespread pollution.

Each of these interpretations aligns with major events and trends that began or were foreseen around the time of the prediction in 1938. The ambiguity of prophetic statements often allows them to be retroactively applied to various significant events.

- Biden and Big Oil Had a Truce. Now, It's Collapsing. - The New York Times
 - Here is another possibility: GOP is the elephant and black water is money from big oil companies that are preventing progress on climate change - essentially corrupting the political process.

The Yankee Millionaire Will Disappear

75

El gran millonario Yankee dejará de ser

"El gran millonario Yankee dejará de ser." B.S.P 1938

"The great Yankee millionaire will cease to be. Crisis, crisis, stock market floor." B.S.P. 1938

"The great Yankee millionaire will cease to be." B.S.P. 1938

Notes and Possible Interpretations

1. Financial Crisis Prediction:

- This prophecy appears to predict a major financial crisis in the United States. The mention of a "great Yankee millionaire" ceasing to exist implies that even the wealthiest individuals will be affected.
- "Crisis, stock market floor" likely refers to a significant downturn or crash in the stock market, where the value of stocks hits a low point, metaphorically reaching the "floor."

2. Historical Context:

- In 1938, the world was still recovering from the Great Depression (1929-1939), a period marked by severe economic hardship, including stock market crashes and widespread unemployment. This prophecy could be referencing ongoing or future economic struggles in that context.
- It may also foreshadow later financial crises, such as the 2008 financial crisis, where the collapse of major financial institutions led to severe economic downturns globally, impacting even the wealthiest individuals.

3. Symbolic Meaning:

- The "great Yankee millionaire" symbolizes the economic elite or powerful financial figures in the United States.
- The prediction that they will "cease to be" suggests a dramatic shift or upheaval in the financial landscape, where wealth and status could be lost rapidly due to economic instability.

4. Impact on Society:

- Such a financial crisis would likely have widespread consequences, not only affecting the wealthy but also causing significant hardship for ordinary citizens through job losses, decreased economic activity, and increased poverty rates.

- The reference to the stock market hitting the "floor" suggests a loss of confidence in financial systems and institutions, leading to broader social and economic ramifications.

Possible Interpretations

1. Great Depression Aftermath:

- Given the prophecy's timing, it could be a continuation of the dire economic predictions associated with the aftermath of the Great Depression, anticipating further struggles for America's financial elite.

2. Future Financial Crises:

- This prediction might not be limited to the 1930s but could foresee future economic collapses, such as the dot-com bubble burst in 2000, the 2008 financial crisis, or potential future financial instabilities.

3. Metaphorical Interpretation:

- It might also be interpreted metaphorically, suggesting a decline in the perceived invulnerability of the wealthy and powerful in America. Economic and social structures could shift, leading to a more egalitarian society or significant changes in wealth distribution.

America - Vision without North

76

América - Visión sin Norte

"América - Visión sin Norte" B.S.P. 1938

"America - Vision without North." B.S.P. 1938

This phrase seems to imply that America is lacking direction or guidance, with "North" metaphorically representing a clear direction or purpose.

The Victim of the Bearded Ones in Cuba

77

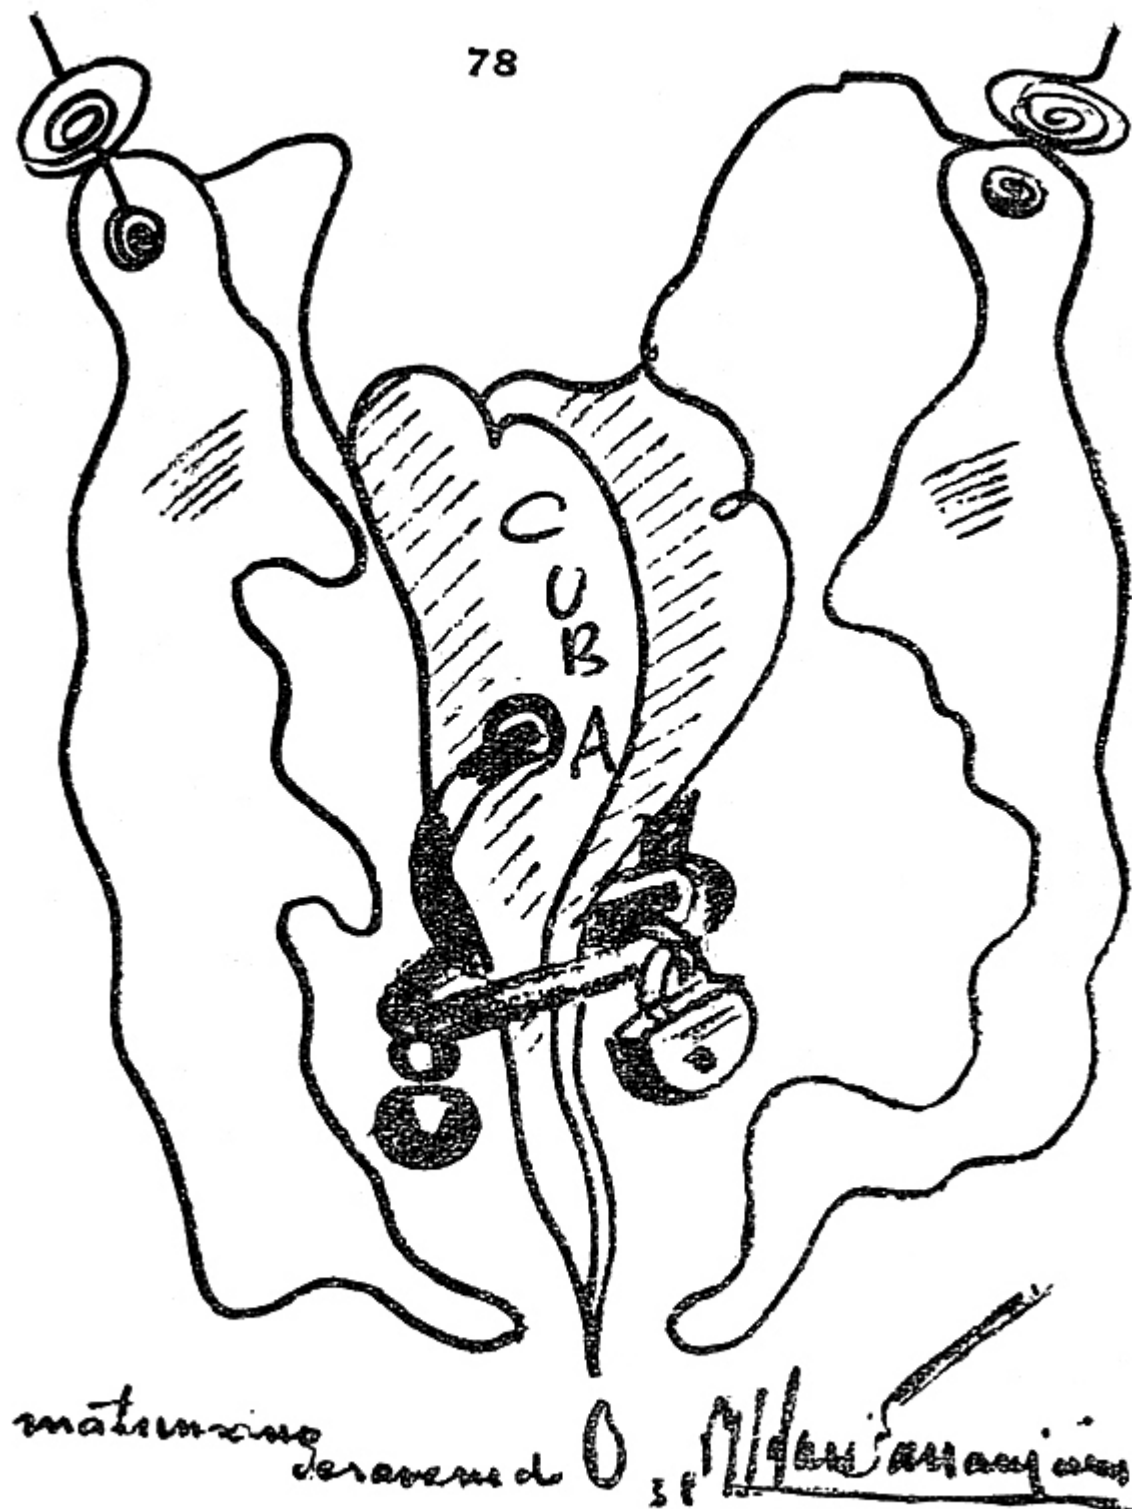

La Víctima de los barbados en Cuba

"La Víctima de los barbados en Cuba" B.S.P. 1938

That's true, Matt. Fidel Castro, the Cuban revolutionary leader and former president, was indeed known for his iconic beard. Considering this context, the phrase "La Víctima de los barbados en Cuba" might be interpreted as a reference to Castro or individuals associated with him, particularly during the revolutionary period in Cuba.

Cuba - Troubled Marriage

Cuba - matrimonio desavenido

"Cuba - matrimonio desavenido" B.S.P. 1938

"Cuba - troubled marriage." B.S.P. 1938

Notes and Possible Interpretations

1. Political Discord:

- The phrase "troubled marriage" likely symbolizes internal conflict or discord within Cuba. This could refer to political strife, power struggles, or ideological divisions that were prominent in Cuban history, especially leading up to and following the Cuban Revolution in 1959.

2. Social Unrest:

- It could also indicate social unrest and dissatisfaction among the Cuban populace. The "marriage" metaphor suggests a relationship that should be harmonious but is instead marked by tension and conflict, reflecting the societal issues Cuba faced.

3. International Relations:

- The troubled marriage could represent strained relationships between Cuba and other countries, particularly the United States. The historical context includes the complex and often contentious interactions between Cuba and the U.S., culminating in events like the Bay of Pigs invasion and the Cuban Missile Crisis.

4. Metaphorical Interpretation:

- The metaphor of a "troubled marriage" implies a situation where cooperation and unity are failing. This can be extended to various aspects of Cuban life, including governance, economic policies, and international diplomacy.

5. Historical Context:

- In 1938, Cuba was experiencing significant political changes and unrest. This prophecy might foresee the upcoming revolutionary period, highlighting the fractures within Cuban society that would eventually lead to major upheavals.

The Antilles Covered in Wars and Shattered by Chaos

Las Antillas serán cubiertas de guerras
Luego el Caos las hará trizas

"Las Antillas serán cubiertas de guerras. Luego, el caos las hará trizas." B.S.P. 1938

"The Antilles will be covered in wars. Then, chaos will shatter them." B.S.P. 1938

Notes and Possible Interpretations

1. Regional Conflicts:

- This prophecy predicts a period of intense conflict in the Antilles, a region in the Caribbean that includes nations like Cuba, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, and others. The reference to being "covered in wars" suggests widespread and possibly prolonged military engagements.

2. Chaos and Destruction:

- Following these wars, the prophecy foresees chaos that will "shatter" the region. This implies a state of extreme disorder and fragmentation, potentially leading to severe societal and infrastructural breakdowns.

3. Historical Context:

- In the late 1930s, the Caribbean region faced various political and social challenges. The prophecy might anticipate future conflicts and upheavals, such as the Cuban Revolution, civil unrest in other Caribbean nations, and ongoing struggles for independence and political stability.

4. Implications for the Future:

- The prediction highlights the vulnerability of the region to both internal and external conflicts. The subsequent chaos could refer to the long-term consequences of these wars, including economic hardship, displacement of populations, and weakened governance.

5. Metaphorical Interpretation:

- Beyond literal wars, "covered in wars" could metaphorically represent intense struggles and conflicts within societies, such as political battles, social upheavals, or economic crises. "Chaos" and being

"shattered" could symbolize the breakdown of order and stability in various aspects of life.

The East Will Rise by '65, Followed by Chaos

80

Oriente se levantará para el 65
¡Después el Caos!

"Oriente se levantará para el '65
¡Después el Caos!" B.S.P. 1938

"The East will rise by '65. After that, Chaos!" B.S.P. 1938

Notes and Possible Interpretations

1. The East Rising:

- "Oriente" (the East) could refer to Eastern countries, which might include regions in Asia or the Eastern bloc during the Cold War. The phrase predicts that this region will experience a significant rise or resurgence by 1965.

2. Significant Events in the 1960s:

- The 1960s were a period of considerable change and upheaval globally. In Asia, this includes the Vietnam War, the Cultural Revolution in China (beginning in 1966), and increasing influence of communist movements. These events could be seen as the "rise" of the East.
- In the context of the Cold War, the rise of the Eastern bloc or the spread of communism could be relevant.

3. Followed by Chaos:

- After this rise, the prophecy foresees chaos. This could indicate political, social, or economic turmoil following the initial period of ascendance. For example, the Cultural Revolution in China led to significant chaos and disruption within the country.

4. Symbolic Interpretation:

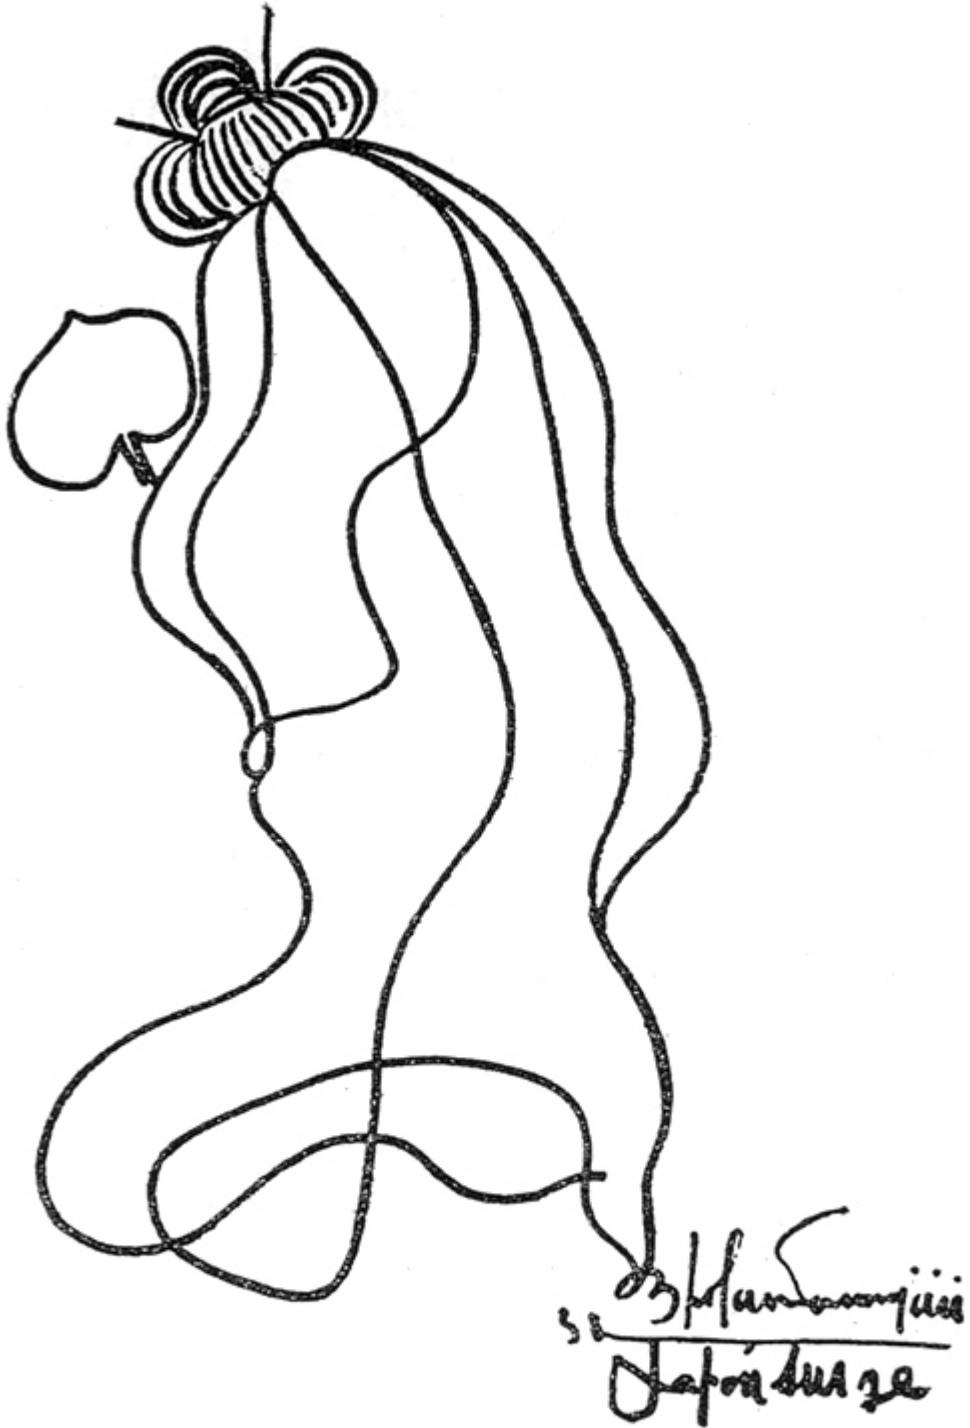

- The "rise" of the East may symbolize a shift in global power dynamics, with Eastern countries gaining more influence. The ensuing chaos could represent the geopolitical instability resulting from these changes.

5. Historical Context:

- By 1938, there were already signs of significant changes ahead for many Eastern countries. The prophecy might have foreseen the post-World War II shifts, the decolonization movements, and the Cold War tensions that dramatically altered global power structures.

Japan Rises

81

Japón surge

"Japón surge" B.S.P. 1938

"Japan rises" B.S.P. 1938

Notes and Possible Interpretations

1. Economic and Industrial Rise:

- This prophecy likely predicts the rapid economic and industrial growth of Japan. After World War II, Japan experienced a remarkable economic recovery, leading to its status as a global economic powerhouse by the 1960s and 1970s. This period is often referred to as the "Japanese economic miracle."

2. Political and Military Context:

- In 1938, Japan was already a significant military power in East Asia, having invaded China the previous year. This rise could also be seen in the context of Japan's increasing military aggression leading up to and during World War II.

3. Technological Advancement:

- Japan's rise can also be attributed to its advancements in technology and innovation. Post-war Japan became known for its leading role in electronics, automotive industries, and robotics.

4. Cultural Influence:

- The rise of Japan is not only limited to economic and technological aspects but also includes its cultural influence. Japanese culture, including art, fashion, and cuisine, has spread widely and has had a significant impact globally.

5. Historical Context:

- The prophecy's timing is significant. In 1938, Japan was expanding its influence and power in Asia. The prediction foresaw Japan's continued rise, which would be confirmed in the decades following World War II with its rapid economic development and technological leadership.